Ponca City Without Taxes.
"Battling" Bonfils, Editor.
Pious Coolidge Wish.
Prices on the Hoof.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review Tribune).

As you travel across this country, from one ocean to the other, reading newspapers, light houses of information and warning, along the way, you keep in touch with the world.

The Pueblo Chieftain, published in Colorado, 4,690 feet above sea level, and read by healthy people, gives information annoying to corporation owners, convinced that the people haven't enough brains to do anything for themselves.

Ponca City, in Oklahoma, with 15,000 population, is free from taxes. Buy your house and that's the end of it. No tax gatherer comes. And it's simple, as O. P. Callahan, Ponca's mayor, will tell you. The people of Ponca City own their light and power departments, managed with the municipal water works. Profit on the city's light, water and power plant is sufficient to pay all taxes.

How does that impress you? And please note that rates charged for water, light and power in tax-free Ponca City are lower than in other places where citizens pay taxes and also enrich public service corporations, privately owned.

The Denver Post, property of "Battling" Bonfils, seems to spread over western America like a fog over London from Kansas City to Albuquerque and tells you everything, with an emphasis that jars effete easterners.

Bonfils, under his slogan, "It's a privilege to live in Colorado," gives ... President Coolidge before the American Legion convention. He tells of admirers giving the President's a "two-gallon" cowboy hat, size 7¼, called "two gallon" because the crown is big enough to hold two gallons. In the President's case it would be two gallons of water.

McMullen, governor of Nebraska, got a hat, one-eighth size bigger than the President's, but the President's excellent speech proves that it is the quality of the head, not the quantity, that counts.

The President hopes that much money now spent on war, preparation and materials, "to hire men to build fleets and carry muskets" will be used in "the making of good roads, building better homes, promoting of education, and all the other arts of peace."

One hundred and fifteen million amens greet that pious wish and the President will work through his term to make the wish reality. He knows, however, that as we build a better country, we must always be prepared for anybody that would take it from us.

The President can save money on the standing army, on battleships the cost $60,000,000 each to start with and gigantic coast defense guns that are obsolete jokes.

A great fleet of fighting airships, a sufficient fleet of submarines to welcome any troop carriers or plane carriers from abroad, a small navy with light, fast crusiers, is all this country needs, and couldn't cost much.

SCHOOL BOARD DENIES CLAIM OF R. H. PERRY IN COURT CASE

Will Not Employe Teachers Without Certificates.

ADOPT NO COURSE.

Judge Jones Will Hear Injunction Petition Oct. 16.

Answer to the injunction suit instituted by R. H. Perry, as a taxpayer, in a move to restrain the board of education from introducing a course of religious education in the district schools this fall, was filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, yesterday by City Solicitor Harry Brokaw, repesenting the school board.

F. T. Weaver Signs Answer.

Hearing on the application to make the temporary injunction against the board of education permanent will be held before Judge Walter D. Jones, Troy, [illegible], October 16.

The solicitor denies that the school board contemplates hiring teachers for this course who do not hold teachers' certificates and asserts that no teachers have been employed, no rules or regulations to govern the course have been adopted and that no rooms have been designated, but adds "that adequate rooms may be supplied for such a course without injury to any other course of study in said schools and without additional cost to taxpayers."

Other statements, made in Perry's petition, regarding the school board's action on the resolution are admitted in the reply of the solicitor. The signature of Frank T. Weaver, vice presi-

West Virginia Golf Professional Dies After 18-Hole Play

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 9.—The West Virginia golfing fraternity today paid tribute to John T. Hardie, 43, professional and secretary-manager of the Kanawha Country club, who died at his home here last night from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Hardie played 18 holes of golf yesterday and appeared in good health. He was stricken shortly after he arrived home from the club.

He was known to all West Virginia golfers, having competed in state tournaments and conducted minor tournaments here.

Three are Burned To Death, Two Hurt In Pittsburgh Fire

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—Three persons were burned to death in their beds, two others escaped by leaping from a window, being seriously hurt in the fall, and a fireman was injured when fire destroyed a three story dwelling here today.

Firmen fought their way through the flames to find the bodies of Joseph and Mary Williams, Negroes. Mrs. Maud Potter, 30, was found dead in an adjoining apartment.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HIT BY QUAKE

Three-minute Tremors Shake Houses; no Damage.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 9.—Earth tremors, extending in the belt along the Daniel Webster highway from the White mountains to this city and beyond, caused considerable excitement in New Hampshire today.

Houses shook, windows rattled and chairs rocked but no damage was reported.

The tremors, which resembled those of last winter, lasted for three minutes.

Court was suspended for five minutes in Carroll county court house, Ossipee, when the tremors shook the judge's bench and typewriters in the clerk's office.

The chimney fell and windows were broken in the home of Harry Blanchard at Sandwich. Windows in the home of Harry Hudson of Tuftsboro were broken.

Canned goods came tumbling down from the shelves at the general store of L. O. Moulton in Ossipee.

West Ossipee and Wolfboro residents ran to the streets in alarm but their fears were quieted when they saw that no damage had been done.

Missing Air Mail Pilot's Body May Be Found Here

Charles H. Ames Believed Man in Plane Which Narrowly Missed Hitting W. T. Gater Home in Maplewood Avenue.

That the lifeless body of Charles H. Ames, air mail pilot, who has been missing for eight days, and his wrecked plane may be found in one of the wooded sections which lie between East Liverpool and Round Knob, was the opinion today of William Gater, janitor of the Belle Telephone Exchange building, Market street.

Gater, who resides in Maplewood avenue, just north of the city limits, and his wife were standing in the yard outside their home at 8 o'clock last Thursday night when his attention was attracted by a plane which flew directly over his house.

He said the plane was traveling at a height not more than 40 feet from the ground and barely missed the trees surrounding the house. His view, obstructed by the leafy boughs, Gater rushed to the edge of the yard to get another glimpse of the plane, but because of the darkness he failed to see it again. He clearly detected the noise of the motor as it sped in a northwesterly direction, aparently toward Round Knob.

Between Maplewood and Round Knob, Gater declared there are patches of woods into which the missing bird-

LANSDOWNE'S WIDOW BLAMES NAVY CHIEFS FOR LOSS OF SHENANDOAH

Defends Memory of Her Husband in Placing Responsibility for Death of 14 in Dirigible Disaster.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Defending the memory of her husband, Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of Commander Zachary T. Lansdowne, of the ill-fated Shenandoah, today placed responsibility for the dirigible disaster directly upon the navy department in testifying before the naval court of inquiry.

"He felt the Shenandoah should only be used for war purposes," said Mrs. Lansdown, "and should not be used for commercial purposes, such as a flight to the middle west so the taxpayers there could look at their property.

"The flight was made solely for political purposes," Mrs. Lansdowne charged. She said her principal purpose in appearing before the court was to state that her charges had been borne out "by official correspondence revealed at the inquiry."

She told the board that her statements were amply supported by official documents in the navy department and she then proceeded to read the documents.

One of these was the record of Lansdowne's protest, which was officially marked "disapproved."

Her statement came as a startling surprise to the court of inquiry, as Mrs. Lansdowne repudiated a similar declaration made the morning after the disaster.

Mrs. Lansdowne's statement pre-

"PROBABLY UNAVOIDABLE ACCIDENT" CORONER'S VERDICT IN SAYRE DEATH

Funeral Services for Fire Truck Victim Will be Held at Late Home Saturday Afternoon.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, of East Palestine handed down a "probably unavoidable accident" verdict at an inquest over the body of Herbert Sayre, 42, warehouse foreman, who was killed when struck by a fire department truck during a blaze at the T. A. McNicol pottery, River Road, early yesterday morning.

Dr. Van Fossan conferred with Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, Fireman William Fowler, who drove the truck and other members of the department before arriving at his decision. He announced that firemen had told him that Sayre had attached the hose coupling to the fire plug near the pottery and then ran to the alley entrance, where the fire had broken out. He was standing in the alley waiting for the truck, according to the coroner, when he was run down.

Sayre's chest was crushed by the wheels of the machine, the coroner said.

Funeral services for the victim will be held at the late home, 507 Railroad street, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, in charge.

Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body from 7 until 10 o'clock tonight.

Guardsmen Favor New Collar.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9. — Announcement was made today that Ohio National Guard officers have voted, 439 to 41, in favor of the new style roll collar for uniforms. Present uniforms have a high collar.

Get Out Overcoats! First Cold Snap Forecast Tonight

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Get out your overcoats!

The first cold snap of the season will envelop northern and central Ohio tonight.

"A mild cold wave will grip the central and northern sections of the state tonight," announced W. H. Alexander, government meteorologist here today. "Temperatures ranging from 28 to 32 will be general over the central portions and from 25 to 30 over the northern portions. In southern Ohio the mercury will barely reach the freezing mark."

Alexander warned house wives to remove to shelter all potted plants around their homes. A similar warning was given all gardeners. "Garden Truck and potted plants should be protected for the frost tonight will be killing," the weatherman said.

This was especially true if the sky clears as we expect it to."

Sheriff is Slain When he Tries to Arrest Motorist

JACKSON, O., Oct. 9.—George Steele, 35, Jackson county farmer was in the county jail here today, charged with shooting to death Sheriff Fletcher Collins of Vinton county last night. Steele was rushed here after a mob gathered at the McArthur jail.

Sheriff Collins was shot down, according to reports here, when he tried to arrest Steele on a charge of speeding.

RAIN FORCES POSTPONEMENT OF THIRD GAME OF BIG SERIES

Judge Landis Calls Off Battle in Capital City.

FIELD IS SOGGY

Pirates Will Remain in Washington Until Monday Night.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Rain washed out the third game of the world's series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators here today.

Rain which fell intermittently throughout the forenoon bogged down the playing field, and after surveying conditions Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, officially called off today's game, after conferring with club officials and the umpires.

Oddly enough, just as soon as the game was officially postponed, the rain ceased. The weather bureau, however, predicted more showers probable during the afternoon, and this was largely instrumental in impelling officials to declare things off.

Stanley Harris Happy.

Rain began falling shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and to Stanley Harris, every drop was a glistening gem of purest ray serene.

The rain gave the well known young man a chance to remarshall his forces and to add an extra day of rest to the pitching arm of Walter Johnson, which beyond all doubt is to prove the abiding factor in this series. The Senators, seemingly, must ride to victory

Joe McCarty Will Pilot Chicago Cubs Next Year, Report

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Joe McCarthy, who led the Louisville club of the American association to a pennant this year, will be the manager of the Chicago Cubs next season, according to a well-formed report here today.

President William Veeck, of the Cubs, refused to deny or confirm the report.

"An announcement will be made after the city series here, however," he said.

Mitchell Denied Permission to Make Baltimore Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the aernoautical controversy, was denied permission today by the war department to fulfill a speaking engagement at Baltimore tonight before a number of American Legion posts.

In rejecting Mitchell's request, the adjutant general of the army announced that until the department's investigation of his alleged "insubordination" is completed, the "flying colonel" must remain in Washington.

RAIN CALLS OFF SOX-CUB GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Rain necessitated the postponement of the third game of the annual city series between the White Sox and the Cubs here today.

CLEVELANDER ELECTED NATIONAL COMMANDER AT OMAHA ENCAMPMENT

By Vote of 655 Out of 962, and Later Unanimous, Ohioan is Winner Over E. E. Spafford of New York and Howard P. Savage of Illinois.

RESULT OF BALLOTING IS RECEIVED WITH BURST OF BANDS AND CHEERING

Winner Served as Brigadier-General in Thirty-seventh Division During World War—Well Known in East Liverpool.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—By a vote of 655 out of 962 on the first ballot John R. McQuigg of Cleveland, Ohio, was today elected national commander of the American Legion. Fifty-seven votes were cast for Howard P. Savage, of Illinois, and 224 for E. E. Spafford, of New York, with the balance not voting.

Then Savage moved that the vote be made unanimous for McQuigg, and there was a wild burst of bands and drums and cheering as McQuigg stood to acknowledge his reception.

Brigadier General McQuigg is widely known in East Liverpool, having made annual visits here since the signing of the Armistice.

During the war he was a member of the 37th Division, in which many local men served. Since the war, he has been active in American Legion and veteran relief work.

Attorney W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool is a member of the Ohio delegation whose 35 votes were cast for McQuigg.

Corydon-Palmer Dental Society Meets in Warren

The fall meeting of the Corydon-Palmer Dental society, which embraces dentists in Columbiana, Trumbull and Mahoning counties, was held at the Warren Country club, at Warren, yesterday.

About 60 members from Youngstown, Niles, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem, Struthers and other towns in the tri-county district attended.

The morning session was devoted to the transaction of business. Dr. Emery Thompson of Warren, Pa., lectured and conducted a clinic on "Bridgework" at the afternoon meeting. Dinner was served last night, at which Ted Robinson, Cleveland newspaper humorist, was the speaker.

The annual meeting will be held at Youngstown in May. Dentists from this city who attended the session were Dr. Joseph Williamson, secretary of the association; Dr. Colin F. Kinsey, Dr. J. T. Cartwright and Dr. Hugh Marshall.

Casey Jones Wins Efficiency Race on Mitchell Field Card

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Despite a low ceiling of fog and a driving rain, Casey Jones, veteran commercial pilot, of Garden City, won the light commercial speed and efficiency race for civilians today in the national air races here.

Driving his orange Curtiss-Oriole at a speed of 128.42 miles per hour, Casey ran away from the field from the start.

Fred H. Becker, of Paterson, N. J., in a Wright-Bellanca, came in second, averaging 111.99 miles an hour.

Becker's Wright-Bellanca was awarded the prize for efficiency with 628 points against 272 points for Jones. Both pilots won $1,000 awards.

BRIDGE VICTIM IS NEAR DEATH

Charles Kinsey Fatally Hurt After Saving Fellow Worker.

Little hope was entertained at the City hospital today of the recovery of Charles Kinsey, 66, Smiths Ferry, Beaver county inspector, who sustained a fractured skull while inspecting the new road bridge being erected across Beaver creek, shortly before the noon hour yesterday.

Kinsey, according to a new version of the accident, was standing on a temporary scaffold which has been erected for the bridge, when the boss carpenter stumbled and was about to fall. Kinsey, realizing the man's plight, rushed to his assistance and in saving him lost his balance and plunged 15 feet to the ground.

He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

"Model Boy," Said To be Bootlegger, Is Shot to Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—His father's "model boy," but said by police to be a bootlegger, Nicholas Cironi, 25, a chauffeur, was murdered here early today.

Five or six shots were fired from across the street as Cironi was walking home. The shooting is believed to have been the work of a bootleg gang.

BABY ALICE RUSSELL IS YOUNGEST ROOTER, WHILE EDDIE MOORE IS HANDSOMEST PLAYER IN SERIES

BY KATHARINE BRUSH.
Special to the Review-Tribune

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—The natural tendency of people who have just viewed a World's Series game is to write about the World's series game, if they're going to write about anything at all. But the editor tells me I positively must not obey that impulse. He says, "For heaven's sake don't try to write about baseball!" He seems to think that I, being a mere woman, I would describe a batter as a "a man with a funny yellow stick in his hands," and call the baseballs sofa-cushions. He says further, "Plenty of boys there to cover the game itself." He's right about that part of it. This press room is full of them, and the smoke of their stogies, and the noise of their typewriters, which chatter away like a million teeth in a chill. So I'll leave it to them to tell you how beautifully Pittsburgh came through yesterday afternoon, and content myself with writing a little story in superlatives. I'll tell you about the youngest rooter at this World's Series, and the handsomest player, and the funniest press representative, and the proudest wife. That is, if the e, s, and t on this Remington hold out all right, I will.

The name of the youngest rooter is Alice Russell, and she's the daughter of Allen Russell, relief pitcher for the Senators. Miss Russell is seven months old. She came to Pittsburgh chaperoned by her mother, and has appeared at both games in Forbes Field, attired in a fetching fall costume of pink swaddlings and white bonnet. I interviewed her in her box seat near the Senator's dugout just after the game yesterday, and found he most agreeable. Wen asked if she was fond of baseball, she replied, "Glug." But when I ventured to ask what she thought of the Pirate victory, she spit at me.

Ring Lardner Funniest Correspondent

The handsomest ball-player, if I am any judge, is Eddie Moore, the Pirate second baseman. Eddie is playing in his first World's series, and if I were allowed to say anything about baseball I'd say he was making a pretty good job of it—but, of course, I'm not, so I don't dare. Mr. Moore is what is known in flapper jargon as collegiate-looking. He parts his hair in the middle and slicks it down, and he has a sun-burned young face and blue eyes and a nice smile, and taking it all in all you sort of instinctively look for the fraternity pin and the pocket flask and all the other campus paraphernalia. I only had a minute to talk to him, because he was about to play baseball and I was about to join in the herd stampeding through the grand-stand aisles, but I did learn two things about him, beside the one above mentioned. He's from New Orleans; and he doesn't get nervous over World's series games. I guessed the first from the land-of-cotton accent in which he anounced the second.

The funniest press correspondent is a large gentleman by the name of Ring Lardner. It's just barely possible that you have heard of him. And possibly, you've wondered how he conceives the witticisms you squawk over. I wondered, too. I asked him. He told me. "I work," he said.

Like all funny men, Mr. Lardner is not particularly funny when you meet him. He's rather solemn. And why not? There's really no more reason why a professional humorist should be side-splitting in ordinary conversation than that a professional clog-dancer should clog while he asks you to direct him to the depot. Mr. Lardner seldom smiles, and he talks in a dry, quiet voice, without a great deal of expression. He is a little difficult to interview, because (unlike some of his literary brethren who, when informed that the topic under discussion is themselves, will talk as though wound up till curfew tolls) he has to be questioned, and coaxed, and egged along. When not questioned, or when

"A mild cold wave will grip the central and northern sections of the state tonight," announced W. H. Alexander, government meteorologist here today. "Temperatures ranging from 28 to 32 will be general over the central portions and from 25 to 30 over the northern portions. In southern Ohio the mercury will barely reach the freezing mark."

Alexander warned house wives to remove to shelter all potted plants around their homes. A similar warning was given all gardeners. "Garden Truck and potted plants should be protected for the frost tonight will be killing," the weatherman said.

This was especially true if the sky clears as we expect it to."

Sheriff is Slain When he Tries to Arrest Motorist

JACKSON, O., Oct. 9.—George Steele, 35, Jackson county farmer was in the county jail here today, charged with shooting to death Sheriff Fletcher Collins of Vinton county last night. Steele was rushed here after a mob gathered at the McArthur jail.

Sheriff Collins was shot down, according to reports here, when he tried to arrest Steele on a charge of speeding.

RAIN FORCES POSTPONEMENT OF THIRD GAME OF BIG SERIES

Judge Landis Calls Off Battle in Capital City.

FIELD IS SOGGY

Pirates Will Remain in Washington Until Monday Night.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Rain washed out the third game of the world's series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators here today.

Rain which fell intermittently throughout the forenoon bogged down the playing field, and after surveying conditions Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, officially called off today's game, after conferring with club officials and the umpires.

Oddly enough, just as soon as the game was officially postponed, the rain ceased. The weather bureau, however, predicted more showers probable during the afternoon, and this was largely instrumental in impelling officials to declare things off.

Stanley Harris Happy.

Rain began falling shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and to Stanley Harris, ever... was a glistening gem of purest ray serene.

The rain gave the well known young man a chance to remarshall his forces and to add an extra day of rest to the pitching arm of Walter Johnson, which beyond all doubt is to prove the abiding factor in this series. The Senators, seemingly, must ride to victory

Joe McCarty Will Pilot Chicago Cubs Next Year, Report

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Joe McCarthy, who led the Louisville club of the American association to a pennant this year, will be the manager of the Chicago Cubs next season, according to a well-formed report here today.

President William Veeck, of the Cubs, refused to deny or confirm the report.

"An announcement will be made after the city series here, however," he said.

Mitchell Denied Permission to Make Baltimore Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the aernoautical controversy, was denied permission today by the war department to fulfill a speaking engagement at Baltimore tonight before a number of American Legion posts.

In rejecting Mitchell's request, the adjutant general of the army announced that until the department's investigation of his alleged "insubordination" is completed, the "flying colonel" must remain in Washington.

RAIN CALLS OFF SOX-CUB GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Rain necessitated the postponement of the third game of the annual city series between the White Sox and the Cubs here today.

CLEVELANDER ELECTED NATIONAL COMMANDER AT OMAHA ENCAMPMENT

By Vote of 655 Out of 962, and Later Unanimous, Ohioan is Winner Over E. E. Spafford of New York and Howard P. Savage of Illinois.

RESULT OF BALLOTING IS RECEIVED WITH BURST OF BANDS AND CHEERING

Winner Served as Brigadier-General in Thirty-seventh Division During World War—Well Known in East Liverpool.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—By a vote of 655 out of 962 on the first ballot John R. McQuigg of Cleveland, Ohio, was today elected national commander of the American Legion. Fifty-seven votes were cast for Howard P. Savage, of Illinois, and 224 for E. E. Spafford, of New York, with the balance not voting.

Then Savage moved that the vote be made unanimous for McQuigg, and there was a wild burst of bands and drums and cheering as McQuigg stood to acknowledge his reception.

Brigadier General McQuigg is widely known in East Liverpool, having made annual visits here since the signing of the Armistice.

During the war he was a member of the 37th Division, in which many local men served. Since the war, he has been active in American Legion and veteran relief work.

Attorney W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool is a member of the Ohio delegation whose 35 votes were cast for McQuigg.

Corydon-Palmer Dental Society Meets in Warren

The fall meeting of the Corydon-Palmer Dental society, which embraces dentists in Columbiana, Trumbull and Mahoning counties, was held at the Warren Country club, at Warren, yesterday.

About 60 members from Youngstown, Niles, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem, Struthers and other towns in the tri-county district attended.

The morning session was devoted to the transaction of business. Dr. Emery Thompson of Warren, Pa., lectured and conducted a clinic on "Bridgework" at the afternoon meeting. Dinner was served last night, at which Ted Robinson, Cleveland newspaper humorist, was the speaker.

The annual meeting will be held at Youngstown in May. Dentists from this city who attended the session were Dr. Joseph Williamson, secretary of the association; Dr. Colin F. Kinsey, Dr. J. T. Cartwright and Dr. Hugh Marshall.

Casey Jones Wins Efficiency Race on Mitchell Field Card

Driving his orange Curtiss-Oriole at a speed of 128.42 miles per hour, Casey ran away from the field from the start.

Fred H. Becker, of Paterson, N. J., in a Wright-Bellanca, came in second, averaging 111.99 miles an hour.

Becker's Wright-Bellanca was awarded the prize for efficiency with 628 points against 272 points for Jones. Both pilots won $1,000 awards.

Toledo Seed Man Dies Suddenly.

TOLEDO, Oct. 9.—Ernest Kuehn, a member of the Crubaugh Kuehn Seed Co., died suddenly today in his office here. Kuehn was one of the most prominent clover seed men in the United States.

BRIDGE VICTIM IS NEAR DEATH

Charles Kinsey Fatally Hurt After Saving Fellow Worker.

Little hope was entertained at the City hospital today of the recovery of Charles Kinsey, 66, Smiths Ferry, Beaver county inspector, who sustained a fractured skull while inspecting the new road bridge being erected across Beaver creek, shortly before the noon hour yesterday.

Kinsey, according to a new version of the accident, was standing on a temporary scaffold which has been erected for the bridge, when the boss carpenter stumbled and was about to fall. Kinsey, realizing the man's plight, rushed to his assistance and in saving him lost his balance and plunged 15 feet to the ground.

He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

"Model Boy," Said To be Bootlegger, Is Shot to Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—His father's "model boy," but said by police to be a bootlegger, Nicholas Cironi, 25, a chauffeur, was murdered here early today.

Five or six shots were fired from across the street as Cironi was walking home. The shooting is believed to have been the work of a bootleg gang.

BABY ALICE RUSSELL IS YOUNGEST ROOTER, WHILE EDDIE MOORE IS HANDSOMEST PLAYER IN SERIES

BY KATHARINE BRUSH.
Special to the Review-Tribune

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—The natural tendency of people who have just viewed a World's Series game is to write about the World's series game, if they're going to write about anything at all. But the editor tells me I positively must not obey that impulse. He says, "For heaven's sake don't try to write about baseball!" He seems to think that I, being a mere woman, I would describe a batter as a "a man with a funny yellow stick in his hands," and call the baseb... bags sofa-cushions. He says further, "Plenty of boys there to cover the game itself." He's right about that part of it. This press room is full of them, and the smoke of their stogies, and the noise of their typewriters, which chatter away like a million teeth in a chill. So I'll leave it to them to tell you how beautifully Pittsburgh came through yesterday afternoon, and content myself with writing a little story in superlatives. I'll tell you about the youngest rooter at this World's Series, and the handsomest player, and the funniest press representative, and the proudest wife. That is, if the e, s, and t on this Remington hold out all right, I will.

The name of the youngest rooter is Alice Russell, and she's the daughter of Allen Russell, relief pitcher for the Senators. Miss Russell is seven months old. She came to Pittsburgh chaperoned by her mother, and has appeared at both games in Forbes Field, attired in a fetching fall costume of pink swaddlings and white bonnet. I interviewed her in her box seat near the Senator's dugout just after the game yesterday, and found he most agreeable. Wen asked if she was fond of baseball, she replied, "Glug." But when I ventured to ask what she thought of the Pirate victory, she spit at me.

Ring Lardner Funniest Correspondent

The handsomest ball-player, if I am any judge, is Eddie Moore, the Pirate second baseman. Eddie is playing in his first World's series, and if I were allowed to say anything about baseball I'd say he was making a pretty good job of it—but, of course, I'm not, so I don't dare. Mr. Moore is what is known in flapper jargon as collegiate-looking. He parts his hair in the middle and slicks it down, and he has a sun-burned young face and blue eyes and a nice smile, and taking it all in all you sort of instinctively look for the fraternity pin and the pocket flask and all the other campus paraphernalia. I only had a minute to talk to him, because he was about to play baseball and I was about to join in the herd stampeding through the grand-stand aisles, but I did learn two things about him, beside the one above mentioned. He's from New Orleans; and he doesn't get nervous over World's series games. I guessed the first from the land-of-cotton accent in which he announced the second.

The funniest press correspondent is a large gentleman by the name of Ring Lardner. It's just barely possible that you have heard of him. And possibly, you've wondered how he conceives the wittic'sms you squawk over. I wondered, too. I asked him. He told me. "I work," he said.

Like all funny men, Mr. Lardner is not particularly funny when you meet him. He's rather solemn. And why not? There's really no more reason why a professional humorist should be side-splitting in ordinary conversation than that a professional clog-dancer should clog while he asks you to direct him to the depot. Mr. Lardner seldom smiles, and he talks in a dry, quiet voice, without a great deal of expression. He is a little difficult to interview, because (unlike some of his literary brethren who, when informed that the topic under discussion is themselves, will talk as though wound up till curfew tolls) he has to be questioned, and coaxed, and egged along. When not questioned, or when Seek Missing Girl.

GALLIPOLIS, O. — Police in all towns in this section of southern Ohio were on the lookout today for Mattie Layne, the pretty 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Layne, of Ironton. She disappeared five days ago.

The girl was last seen by a police officer who stopped her on the street to inquire where she was going so late at night. Her answer was that she was going to the "jumping off place."

Police fear she has committed suicide. Her parents hope she went to some big city.

The young woman is five feet tall, and weighs about 100 pounds. She is considered very good looking.

A love affair is believed to figure in the case.

MURDER CASE GOES UNSOLVED

State, County Officials Baffled by Killing Near Massillon.

MASSILLON, O., Oct. 9.—No killing in recent years has so mystified Stark county authorities or aroused such public interest as that of an unidentified youth whose body lies at the Arnold undertaking establishment here. More than 3,000 persons have viewed the body but no one has recognized it.

The youth was about 25 years old, well dressed, five feet, eight inches in height, and weighed about 165 pounds.

The body was found lying beside the B. & O. railroad tracks, one mile east of Wormington. It was removed to the undertaking parlors under the belief that it was that of a railroad accident victim. The undertaker however discovered that the body was riddled by five bullets. He notified the coroner at once.

"Who is he?"

"Who shot him?"

"Why did they do it?"

These were the questions that the public asked and county authorities after days of investigation have not yet been able to answer.

The investigators found no labels in the clothes and no trace of a hat or cap. The only clue they have to work on is a tatooed emblem on the dead man's arm. It is that of the Knights of Pythias, "F. C. B." typifying Faith, Charity and Benevolence.

Members of the Pythian lodge at Canton have offered to inter the body in the lodge lot att the Westlawn cemetery at Canton.

Who killed the youth? Was he the victim of gangsters' revenge? Did a highwayman shoot him down? Or was the tragedy caused by some romantic affair?

Beautiful New Fall Fashions Have Taken Full Possession

"Before You Invest, Investigate"

"What shall I do with my money?"

Better to do nothing at all with it, than to risk it in doubtful "investments."

We print the slogan of the National Vigilance Committee, because we feel it deserves widest publicity. If this little paragraph causes only one person to pause before yielding to the gorgeous prospects of the get-rich-quick specialists, we shall have our reward. The investigating habit doesn't hurt a bit in everyday spending of money either—does it? Not so much to guard against fraud—but to get greatest possible value for every dollar.

Madge Evans Hats—Made 'Specially For Girls.

Just as Parisian milliners concentrate their clever brains and their magically swift needles on the creation of women's hats, so the Madge Evans Hat Company spends all of its time designing pretty hats for girls.

Mothers who buy their own hats from Paris appreciate genuine style—and for this reason buy Madge Evans hats for their daughters at the store in their locality, because they know how important to a girl's likeable appearance these hats are and how charmingly they are made.

There are Madge Evans hats for girls as young as four—as grown up as fourteen; styles for day and school; styles for party and dress-wear; styles to go everywhere.

Priced from $5.00 to $7.75.

REPORT ISSUED ON FARM CENSUS

Acreage is Gradually Decreasing; Farm Population Same.

More than 90,000 persons are engaged in farming in West Virginia with total holdings of 8,984,455 acres, of which 1,921,092 acres are crop lands, according to the 1925 farm census which has been issued by the Department of Commerce.

This represents a decrease of 585,335 acres in farm lands for the state although the number of farmers and tenants increased by approximately 3,000. The average acreage per farm in 1925 was 99.4 acres as compared with 109.6 aches in 1920.

Statistics for live stock on the farm shows 169,148 horses employed in 1920 and only 143,082 in 1925. There was a slight increase in the number of mules. There was but a slight change noted in the number of cattle except for dairy cows which decreased from 181,206 in 1920 to 138,696 in 1925.

Corn is shown to be the principal farm crops with a production of 9,356,299 bushels in 1924 compared to 17,010,357 in 1920. Production of wheat amounted to 1,410,819 bushels in 1924 as compared with 3,747,812 in 1920, the average planted being greatly reduced.

The apple crop showed a big increase, the total number of bushels in 1924 being 6,941,565 compared with 4,189,162 in 1919.

STATE DRY HEAD SUBMITS REPORT

Arrests totalling 173, with 40 stills seized six automobiles and one truck confiscated, and hundreds of gallons of liquor destroyed were reported during September by W. G. Brown, state prohibition commissioner, who today made public the monthly report of his department.

Thirty-eight of the arrests were made in Ohio county, 30 in Kanawha, 15 in McDowell, 11 in Mercer, 10 in Harrison, eight each in Marshall and Mason; two in Barbour, Clay, Putnam and Wyoming, and one each in Lewis, Nicholas, Tyler and Wirt counties.

Completing Road Jobs.

Number of road improvement jobs in Western Pennsylvania counties will be completed before the advent of cold weather, according to a statement issued from the office of the department of highways. Save 1/3 Fuel WITH THIS HEATER

MANY of the original Anchor Hot Blast Heaters—built twenty years ago—are still in daily use, and according to claims of their owners, improving with age.

Frankly, we consider this remarkable, yet we find a source of pride in the fact that the same high quality of material and workmanship is a distinguishing mark of the Anchor today, and that our original construction principles have never been improved upon.

However, a marked improvement in the appearance of this heater has been made. Its lines are graceful and beautiful. Accept our invitation to come in and inspect the Anchor Hot Blast.

Hundreds of them are in use in the homes of our customers and we have yet to receive our first complaint.

We've sold this heater for the past five years and up to this time we have not heard of a firebowl having to be replaced. This is a long life stove and costs less for repairs than any we know of.

Tell us the size of the space you wish to heat and let us select the size to give you efficient service and we will guarantee satisfaction.

RADIANT

Gas Heating Stoves

There are many "so-called" Radiant Heaters—there are but two or three worthy of the name—we handle the two that in our experience have tested out best.

ADAMS RADIANT HEATER

After very careful trial in the past three years we believe the Adams Radiant Heater (all things considered) to be the most efficient and economical of any we have seen—for that reason we specialize on them notwithstanding the fact that we can make a larger margin of profit on other makes.

10 Radiant Adams Heater, just as pictured, $25.00 on credit. $22.50 cash.

Other radiants $12.25 to $50 on credit or 10% less if you prefer to pay cash.

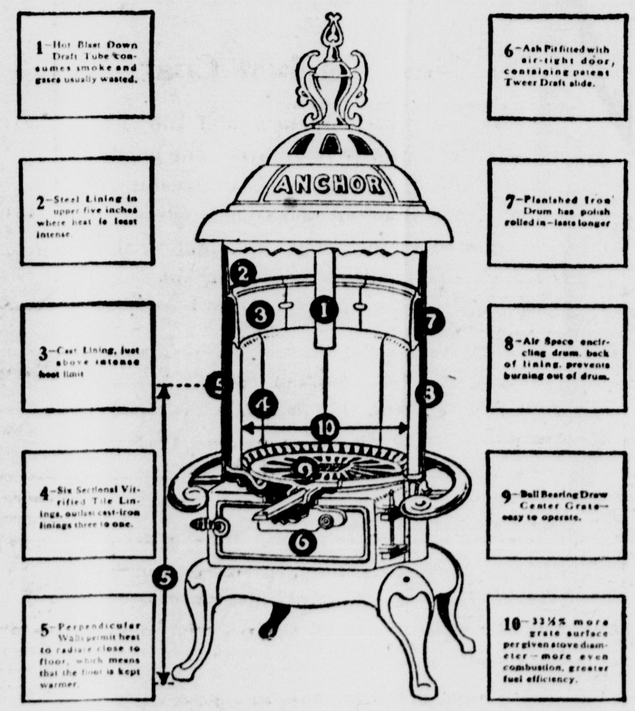
Save 1/3 Fuel WITH THIS HEATER



MANY of the original Anchor Hot Blast Heaters—built twenty years ago—are still in daily use, and according to claims of their owners, improving with age.

Frankly, we consider this remarkable, yet we find a source of pride in the fact that the same high quality of material and workmanship is a distinguishing mark of the Anchor today, and that our original construction principles have never been improved upon.

However, a marked improvement in the appearance of this heater has been made. Its lines are graceful and beautiful. Accept our invitation to come in and inspect the Anchor Hot Blast.

Hundreds of them are in use in the homes of our customers and we have yet to receive our first complaint.

We've sold this heater for the past five years and up to this time we have not heard of a fire-bowl having to be replaced. This is a long life stove and costs less for repairs than any we know of.

Tell us the size of the space you wish to heat and let us select the size to give you efficient service and we will guarantee satisfaction.

RADIANT Gas Heating Stoves

There are many "so-called" Radiant Heaters—there are but two or three worthy of the name—we handle the two that in our experience have tested out best.

ADAMS RADIANT HEATER

After very careful trial in the past three years we believe the Adams Radiant Heater (all things considered) to be the most efficient and economical of any we have seen—for that reason we specialize on them notwithstanding the fact that we can make a larger margin of profit on other makes.

10 Radiant Adams Heater, just as pictured, $25.00 on credit. $22.50 cash.

Other radiants $12.25 to $50 on credit or 10% less if you prefer to pay cash.

More Foreign Loans

While the rest of the world is criticising Uncle Sam as a rich old skinflint, hating him as a creditor and trying to hedge on the payment of money borrowed from him, it is busier than ever trying to borrow more.

This seems to be the real purpose behind the debt settlemets, aside from Great Britain's. It was frankly admitted that the principal reason why France sought a settlement was to raise her credit and enable her to negotiate new loans in America. Italy has the same notion. So have other debtors.

Europe owes this country more than $10,000,000,000 in private loans, on top of all the big government loans. In the last three months America has sent more cash to Europe than it spent to build the Panama canal. The total increase this year has been more than $1,000,000,000, and negotiations are pending for another billion.

For every dollar that Europe hands America to apply on old loans, it wants another five.

How can there be any good in such procedure, for either party? Europe needs to stop borrowing. America could use all its capital in developing its own resources.

Firearm Prohibition

Police Commissioner Enright, of New York city, submits these recommendations for the cure of crime:

1. Abolish the gun through national legislation so that none but those rightfully entitled to carry one—such as law enforcement officials—could do so.

2. Abolish the parole system, the indeterminate sentence and the suspended sentence entirely except in rare cases where they might prove necessary in giving justice.

3. Increase sentences for major crimes—such as robbery with a gun—to double the present sentence and place judges on the bench who will inflict maximum instead of minimum punishment.

4. Revolutionize the bail system so that bail would be forfeited if a person is found guilty of an additional crime while on bail for a previous one.

5. Quit "coddling" the criminal.

All of them are worth considering. Some of them instantly commend themselves. The one that the commissioner puts first is probably most important.

Disarmament of the criminal class is the first big practical step in stopping crimes of violence; and if it cannot be accomplished without disarming all private citizens, the country may have to reconcile itself to that. "The right to bear arms" guaranteed in the federal constitution was intended to apply to state militias, no to individuals.

Better than all other remedies, however, is promptness and certainty in the punishment of criminals, by whatever penalties are provided. That is primarily a question of court reform.

Marshall On Free Speech

Here is what might be called a posthumous editorial by Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, widely known and loved for his genial wit and wisdom. It is a passage from the book he completed just before he died, "A Hoosier Salad."

Marshall was in favor of tolerating free speech not necessarily because of any inalienable right to say what a man pleases, and not necessarily because of any constitutional guarantee, but because he considered it the most safe and sensible way.

"I have been led to conclude as the days have gone by," he wrote, "that our English forebears were wiser than we in their knowledge of human nature. Repression on the part of a government sooner or later will result in such an accumulation of gas as will inevitably result in the destruction of the government.

"A government should always keep the cork out of the bottle of its principles. It should let effervesce freely and unrestrained the gas of all those who are not satisfied with what the government is doing. The meetings at Hyde Park and Trafalgar square, in which the discontented get off of their chests all that they have to say about the iniquity of the British government, have done much in preserving that ancient democracy."

Radio Everywhere

A big general hospital planned in New York will have a radio set in every room. It should be a popular hospital—for a while. Whether the popularity will endure is another question. It is possible to imagine an occasionel patient in future years, afflicted by especially sensitive nerves or musical taste, not only scorning a loudspeaker at the foot of the bed, but objecting to the roar of the super-jazz from adjacent rooms.

Perhaps, though, the new generation will get hardened to it. Some of the new hotels are equipping all their rooms with radio. Soon this may be a universal practice. There will probably be radio, too, in every cabin and stateroom on ocean liners, and in every railroad passenger car, and in every airship and every long-distance motor bus. We may come to tolerate all that, as we tolerate street noises in the city, if we can escape having radio in every room at home.

We haven't a doubt in the world that there's every bit as much chance of Dempsey getting into a real fight as there is of France making a real payment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Thoughts and scenes while strolling around New York: The white haired man who sits on the steps of a house near Washington arch. The village girl artist who wears plus fours. Paints ash trays. A peddler going home with a filled pushcart. Poor fellow!

The bareheaded men who walk with big police dogs. Chalif, the Russian dancer. Whatever became of the Marathon steppers? A shoe shine parlor with a girl cashier. Furs, furs, furs. Everywhere. The loft region and buyers with corn fed opulence.

The two tallest men in New York—Robert Sherwood and H. T. Webster. A shuttered shooting gallery. Always a crowd watching a building excavation. A famous criminal lawyer eating a banana as he walks along. Fame is a curious thing.

Look what it did to Babe Ruth. And Fatty Arbuckle. After all civilization has drawbacks. Consider man's slipping garter. Gyp auto stores that radio bargains. An actress and her cavaliere servante entering a bank. The dying radiance of old Murray Hill.

A girl in a green hat. Not Iris, I hope. The long trail of taxis overloaded with luggage. Proclaiming a liner's arrival. A boarding house street. Women doomed to dowdiness and domesticity. Yet perhaps happiest of all. White shaggy poodles who yip all day.

The glum, pipe smoking watchman at Morgan's mansion. Ancient ladies walking with hired messenger boys. A cat playing with a butterfly. Wonder if they still make old fashioned coconut flag candy? When I take long walks some fugitive haunting lines assail me.

Today Byron's "Fare thee well, and if forever, then forever, fare thee well." They'd go fine to train wheels. Sometimes I think I'm nutty and other times I feel real bright. Whatever became of the "Man in white" who paraded the avenue coatless and hatless?

There are six jazz band leaders in New York making more than $1,000 a week exclusive of Paul Whiteman who is said to have collected $250,000 in the past 12 months. Thus does American pay golden tribute to jazz. I often wonder whatever became of its traditional originator. He is said to be Jasbo Brown, a crooning, shuffling figure of the Mississippi levees and later of the Chicago honky-tonks. Jazz followed the name of Jasbo by obvious analogy. The original Pasbo spent most of his life as a steamboat roustabout and sang and clogged for pitched pennies. He rarely had a complete suit of clothes and most of his money went for gin. And of course somebody originated the Charleston down in Charleston, S. C. If he or she could collect royalties from stage exponents, it would be a pork chop life indeed.

Prohibition aftermath. A little shop window on upper Columbus Avenue is emblazoned with: "Home Bottler" — "Selected Hops" — "Max's Magical Mixture."

In all New York parks and along park walls are vast armies of Men Who Sit Alone. They are still and quiet—apparently dreaming. Thoughts, hopes and despair seem to struggle in their minds. They are obvious to passerby. Most of them appear to be men a little beaten by the game and are gazing at broken patterns of life before them. Long after New York is in the first lap of sleep they are still there. There is somthing sullen about them. If you try to engage them in conversation they resent friendly overture and move away. Still, Socrates was a park loafer.

A lady dentist in—let me look—O, yes, Toledo, O. writes: "You gossip well about gossip and that lets you out.' Being thus dismissed, I'm off to play pool.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Treating Leprosy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Announcement by the United States Public Health Service that four lepers, committed to the Marine hospital at Carville, Louisiana, several years ago, have been discharged, awakens interest in the disease with which they were afflicted, and which from time immemorial, has been dreaded by mankind.

These patients were discharged as being no longer a menace to the public health, the disease having been cured, or, to use the language of physicians, arrested. This does not mean a complete cure, but a state wherein the victim may go about his business as he did formerly, without any danger to those around him, and without feeling the effects of the disease.

Where leprosy originated few venture to say. That is expected in Egypt in 4600 B. C. is known. Aristotle described it and the later Greek writers knew of it. That it was prevalent in ancient times in Asia, and that it attacked the Greeks and Romans is also known, but its origin has never been determined definitely.

There have been legends written about this disease and during the middle ages the gripping fear of it persisted. Its curious behavior confounded men and awe was inspired by it. It was believed that China and Japan and the Orient in general were filled with it and a sort of supernatural aura was thrown about it. This, no doubt found its inception in biblical references.

But leprosy of the Bible is a moot question. That it existed is not doubted, but that it was confused with other diseases is also suspected. Tuberculosis is believed to have been confused with it, for the two are somewhat similar in many respects. Likewise other diseases are believed to have been mistaken for it. But the awful stigma placed upon its very name by scriptural passages has placed an almost ineffaceable stamp upon it. The fear of it persists.

However, strip leprosy of the superstition that surrounds it and view it in the cold light of scientific fact. It is extremely difficult to contract. There have been instances of a leper's living with another person in the closest relation—that of marriage—for years and not conveying it. There have been absolute attempts to inoculate persons with it. The most famous of these is the case of the specialist who took a large number of his students and inoculated them with leprous substances. Only one, over a long period of time, showed any traces of it. The rest were as healthy as ever. There are those who doubt the contagion of leprosy. This experiment would tend to substantiate their view.

Its Weird Performances.

Animals can not be inoculated with it. It acts in a weird fashion. It pursues no set course. It sometimes attacks a community with terrific force and then leaves as suddenly as it appeared and for no particular reason. It is found in the tropics and the arctics. Iceland is a focus for it; likewise New Brunswick; likewise the equatorial belt. It is also found in the temperate zone. Climate, therefore, has been dismissed by most authorities as a cause of leprosy, or as a factor. Race also has been thrown out of the question, although the Teutonic peoples have been strangely free from it. They, however, have had several bitter experiences with it.

The peculiar quirks of the disease are explained; its methods of attack, or, to be more exact, the method of contracting it, is unknown. It may reveal itself in a very short time or it may not make itself known for 20 years.

From a clinical point of view there are three classifications of leprosy. They are the nodular, or tubercular type, characterized by spots; the anaesthetic, or nerve typed, which attacks the nerve trunks, and the mixed type, which is a combination of the first two. The first type, where lesions occur, is dangerous as a source of contagion; the second is not believed to be a menace even in localities where the disease is endemic, while the third is dangerous to those around one afflicted with it.

Until recently it was generally considered that leprosy was transmissible from parent to offspring. It is never, or almost never, inherited in the same manner as is syphilis, for example. Experience shows that where a child is taken away from leprous parents soon after birth and reared in a clean environment, the danger of developing the disease is almost nil.

Not Necessarily Unclean.

Cleanliness is a great thing to be considered in discussing leprosy, but there are cases where the most immaculate have contracted it. Almost in every case there is no knowledge on the part of the victim of having been in contact with a leper. There are cases where those in the best strata of society, surrounded by correct sanitation and sheltered from diseases of all sorts have had it. But sanitation naturally, has a great deal to do with it.

There has been progress in the therapeutics of leprosy. Chaulmoogra oil and strychnine have been used and are being used. Some cases appear to have been benefited by these. Locally caustics are helpful.

Refrigeration, due to the application of carbon-dioxide snow has been used in leprosy with fairly good results, but the use of mercurochrome, comparatively an innovation, although mercury has long been used, has attracted wide notice.

Out of 44 cases treated with it 16 showed marked improvement, six were moderately improved, six were slightly improved, seven were unchanged, two were slightly worse, three were moderately worse, three died and one disappeared. These patients were of all types of leprosy, and in all phases of it, from active advanced to early inactive. The use of mercurochrome proved several things; that it was not—and there was none before—a specific for leprosy; that it was helpful in checking the disease; that it was of value in treating ulcers of various types; that it was of no value in checking pulmonary tuberculosis in lepers, but, on the contrary, apparently aggravated the complication which usually occurs.

However, it should be borne in mind that leprosy is not widespread. It is not as bad as tradition and superstition have made it. It can be arrested, and the patient can be sent into the world with all the medical facts in the case showing that he is not a menace to any one, that he may, probably, be married with impunity and will not be impaired by the disease in his life.

Although the cause, method of contraction, and absolute cure of leprosy are as mysterious as ever, and although the disease is yet a deadly thing, the relatively small number of its victims, and the progress made in arresting its ravages have served to dissipate the gnawing fear it once inspired in the minds of most of mankind. The discharge of the four patients from Carville is but one instance of the progress, which, although painfully slow, is being made in the treatment of it.

The original Pasbo spent most of his life as a steamboat roustabout and sang and clogged for pitched pennies. He rarely had a complete suit of clothes and most of his money went for gin. And of course somebody originated the Charleston down in Charleston, S. C. If he or she could collect royalties from stage exponents, it would be a pork chop life indeed.

Prohibition aftermath. A little shop window on upper Columbus Avenue is emblazoned with: "Home Bottler" — "Selected Hops" — "Max's Magical Mixture."

In all New York parks and along park walls are vast armies of Men Who Sit Alone. They are still and quiet—apparently dreaming. Thoughts, hopes and despair seem to struggle in their minds. They are obvious to passerby. Most of them appear to be men a little beaten by the game and are gazing at broken patterns of life before them. Long after New York is in the first lap of sleep they are still there. There is somthing sullen about them. If you try to engage them in conversation they resent friendly overture and move away. Still, Socrates was a park loafer.

A lady dentist in—let me look—O, yes, Toledo, O. writes: "You gossip well about gossip and that lets you out.' Being thus dismissed, I'm off to play pool.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Treating Leprosy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Announcement by the United States Public Health Service that four lepers, committed to the Marine hospital at Carville, Louisiana, several years ago, have been discharged, awakens interest in the disease with which they were afflicted, and which from time immemorial, has been dreaded by mankind.

These patients were discharged as being no longer a menace to the public health, the disease having been cured, or, to use the language of physicians, arrested. This does not mean a complete cure, but a state wherein the victim may go about his business as he did formerly, without any danger to those around him, and without feeling the effects of the disease.

Where leprosy originated few venture to say. That is expected in Egypt in 4600 B. C. is known. Aristotle described it and the later Greek writers knew of it. That it was prevalent in ancient times in Asia, and that it attacked the Greeks and Romans is also known, but its origin has never been determined definitely.

There have been legends written about this disease and during the middle ages the gripping fear of it persisted. Its curious behavior confounded men and awe was inspired by it. It was believed that China and Japan and the Orient in general were filled with it and a sort of supernatural aura was thrown about it. This, no doubt found its inception in biblical references.

But leprosy of the Bible is a moot question. That it existed is not doubted, but that it was confused with other diseases is also suspected. Tuberculosis is believed to have been confused with it, for the two are somewhat similar in many respects. Likewise other diseases are believed to have been mistaken for it. But the awful stigma placed upon its very name by scriptural passages has placed an almost ineffaceable stamp upon it. The fear of it persists.

However, strip leprosy of the superstition that surrounds it and view it in the cold light of scientific fact. It is extremely difficult to contract. There have been instances of a leper's living with another person in the closest relation—that of marriage—for years and not conveying it. There have been absolute attempts to innoculate persons with it. The most famous of these is the case of the specialist who took a large number of his students and inoculated them with leprous substances. Only one, over a long period of time, showed any traces of it. The rest were as healthy as ever. There are those who doubt the contagion of leprosy. This experiment would tend to substantiate their view.

Its Weird Performances.

Animals can not be inoculated with it. It acts in a weird fashion. It pursues no set course. It sometimes attacks a community with terrific force and then leaves as suddenly as it appeared and for no particular reason. It is found in the tropics and the arctics. Iceland is a focus for it; likewise New Brunswick; likewise the equatorial belt. It is also found in the temperate zone. Climate, therefore, has been dismissed by most authorities as a cause of leprosy, or as a factor. Race also has been thrown out of the question, although the Teutonic peoples have been strangely free from it. They, however, have had several bitter experiences with it.

The peculiar quirks of the disease are explained; its methods of attack, or, to be more exact, the method of contracting it, is unknown. It may reveal itself in a very short time or it may not make itself known for 20 years.

From a clinical point of view there are three classifications of leprosy. They are the nodular, or tubercular type, characterized by spots; the anaesthetic, or nerve typed, which attacks the nerve trunks, and the mixed type, which is a combination of the first two. The first type, where lesions occur, is dangerous as a source of contagion; the second is not believed to be a menace even in localities where the disease is endemic, while the third is dangerous to those around one afflicted with it.

Until recently it was generally considered that leprosy was transmissible from parent to offspring. It is never, or almost never, inherited in the same manner as is syphilis, for example. Experience shows that where a child is taken away from leprous parents soon after birth and reared in a clean environment, the danger of developing the disease is almost nil.

Not Necessarily Unclean.

Cleanliness is a great thing to be considered in discussing leprosy, but there are cases where the most immaculate have contracted it. Almost in every case there is no knowledge on the part of the victim of having been in contact with a leper. There are cases where those in the best strata of society, surrounded by correct sanitation and sheltered from diseases of all sorts have had it. But sanitation naturally, has a great deal to do with it.

There has been progress in the therapeutics of leprosy. Chaulmoogra oil and strychnine have been used and are being used. Some cases appear to have been benefited by these. Locally caustics are helpful.

Refrigeration, due to the application of carbon-dioxide snow has been used in leprosy with fairly good results, but the use of mercurochrome, comparatively an innovation, although mercury has long been used, has attracted wide notice.

Out of 44 cases treated with it 16 showed marked improvement, six were moderately improved, six were slightly improved, seven were unchanged, two were slightly worse, three were moderately worse, three died and one disappeared. These patients were of all types of leprosy, and in all phases of it, from active advanced to early inactive. The use of mercurochrome proved several things; that it was not—and there was none before—a specific for leprosy; that it was helpful in checking the disease; that it was of value in treating ulcers of various types; that it was of no value in checking pulmonary tuberculosis in lepers, but, on the contrary, apparently aggravated the complication which usually occurs.

However, it should be borne in mind that leprosy is not widespread. It is not as bad as tradition and superstition have made it. It can be arrested, and the patient can be sent into the world with all the medical facts in the case showing that he is not a menace to any one, that he may, probably, be married with impunity and will not be impaired by the disease in his life.

Although the cause, method of contraction, and absolute cure of leprosy are as mysterious as ever, and although the disease is yet a deadly thing, the relatively small number of its victims, and the progress made in arresting its ravages have served to dissipate the gnawing fear it once inspired in the minds of most of mankind. The discharge of the four patients from Carville is but one instance of the progress, which, although painfully slow, is being made in the treatment of it.

Rheumatism is Called New White "Scourge" At Insurance Meet

BRIGHTON, England—Rheumatism is the new "White Scourge," according to J. M. Roberts, a delegate to the national conference of friendly insurance societies just held here.

More than 3,000,000 working weeks are lost in England alone every year through rheumatic diseases, Roberts told the conference. He said that investigation showed that rheumatic diseases had displaced tuberculosis as the most pressing problem in dealing with the health of the industrial population of England.

"It is no longer necessary to talk of consumption as the white man's scourge," he said, "for rheumatism and rheumatic diseases are taking a much greater toll of the workers of this and other industrial countries."

Town in Erin Adopts Gaelic Name But Finds Big Drop in Business

DUBLIN—The urban council of Bray, County Wicklow, are beginning to wish that they had not been so enthusiastic in adopting an Irish name for their town.

Bray is a fairly fashionable resort, and in the season derives a considerable income from tourists. Some time ago the council changed its name to "Bri Chualann," and a marked slump in the tourist traffic was noticed.

The townspeople, in consequence, decided to return to the old name, but the Wicklow county council refused to give its assent. Permission was given to use "Bray" in brackets underneath the "Bri," but the residents say this will afflict their town with three names, and will result in worse confusion than ever.

Resinol
for skin scrapes and scratches

This healing ointment so quickly stops smarting that it is easy to teach children to call for it when their skin has been scratched, scraped or injured in any way. Wise mothers who have learned from experience that Resinol is perfectly pure and harmless and that it helps to prevent infection because it hastens the healing,—always have it ready for the skin hurts which daily occur in the home where there are children. Get a jar from your druggist today.

Scene in the screaming laugh play, "A Bachelor's Night," to be presented at the Ceramic theatre Saturday evening.

By mixing oil made with red pepper with illuminating gas it will cause anyone breathing escaping gas to sneeze and thus be a danger signal to prevent asphyxiation, according to Captain Frank B. Gorin, secretary of the Chemical Welfare Association.

"Henpeck house," consisting of two rooms and said to have been built by a wealthy man at the end of a long passageway leading from a secluded backwater in London so that he could get away from his nagging wife, is to be torn down.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1925.

Have You Youth In Your Heart?

It can be in your figure, too. You can have that look of suppleness, of buoyance, even though your figure be mature.

If you are taking on weight and wish to retain your former grace of figure, you can realize your desire by wearing a properly fitted Rengo Belt Reducing Corset. This corset has a special steelastic webbing belt which, when worn over the too-prominent abdomen, holds it flat, and the re-enforced back and sides straighten and slenderize the hips.

The Rengo Belt Reducing Corset corrects the abdominal and hip lines in the stout figure, yet gives a degree of ease and freedom much must be experienced to be appreciated.

This corset has a famous seventeen years' reputation for long-service and hard-wearing qualities. They are sensible and hygienic.

They will hold their perfect style lines until thoroughly worn out.

There is a Rengo Belt Reducing Corset to fit every figure. Our corsetiere will advise you.

Priced from $2.75 to $6.00.

SOCIETY

Heeneekis Club Meeting.

Members of the Heeneekis club were entertained last evening, at the home of Mrs. Ralph Lowe of West Eighth street. The home was decorated with fall flowers. During the business session, the following officers were elected: President and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Lowe; secretary, Mrs. Edwin Kountz; reporter, Mrs. Arnold Densmore. Informal social hours were enjoyed, during which Mrs. George Schepp was awarded a trophy in a guessing contest.

Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Fisher, covers being laid for 12 guests.

The next meeting will be held October 22, at the home of Mrs. Edwin Kountz of West Second street.

Birthday Anniversary Observed.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Margaret Smith, who celebrated her eightieth anniversary yesterday at her home in Moore street, a group of friends and relatives delightfully surprised her last evening. Informal social hours were enjoyed, after which a two-course luncheon was served.

'Grounds For Divorce' Will Be Ceramic Show Tonight

Guy Bolton's Famous Play Will be Presented by Chicago Stock Company.

What are "Grounds for Divorce?"

This question seems to be tearing our modern civilization to pieces. Each day the papers blaze forth in headlines all about the "So-and-so's Sensational Divorce Suit."

Consider for a moment the case of the Sorbiers, the two leading characters in Guy Bolton's famous play, "Grounds for Divorce," which the Chicago Stock company is to produce at the Ceramic tonight.

Maurice Sorbier, a highly successful French attorney, married Alice. She was beautiful. He was handsome and rich. What more could a newly married couple wish for? Nothing until it happened.

Their first wedding anniversary finds him wrapped up in his latest case, never for a moment giving a thought to the theatre party his wife had planned for the occasion.

A misunderstanding develops into a small sized riot and ends up in divorce. Alice marries again; Maurice is mixed up in an affair with a French actress, his latest client; the girl finds her new husband worse than the first and has Maurice help her obtain a divorce, and they are remarried.

Great stuff for a play, what! It is chock-full of laughs, sensational at times and altogether "corking entertainment."

The company's highly successful engagement will be brought to a close tomorrow with the thrilling production of "The Bat" repeated because of the numerous requests by the many who were unable to secure seats Wednesday night. Saturday night the korking komikal komedy "A Bachelor's Night" by the author of "Getting Gertie's Garter."

Addresses Bankers.

CARDINGTON — "Counterfeit or raised money never should be allowed to remain in the hands of the public once its spuriousness is discovered," C. J. Bickford, assistant cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank, Cleveland, told members of Group Six of the Ohio Bankers association at their annual meeting here today.

"To allow worthless money to remain in the hands of the public simply is to put a premium upon the criminal act of passing counterfeit," Mr. Bickford said, "as it is the natural thing for the man in whose possession it is to try to pass the buck to some one else."

After strikers of Japanese textile mills in hanghai, China, had agreed to resume work, electric power was not available, and this caused the workers to present new demands.

Lowly Prune Paves Way for Romance of Youth in Bay State

FALMOUTH, Mass.—Many mediums are seized upon to further the machinations of the little blind god, but seldom before has it fallen upon the lowly prune.

George William Smith, prosaic in name and by occupation—a grocer's helper here, is now on his way to sunny California in quest of his sweetheart he has never seen. Of course George has her picture and she has his, and is even expecting him. But neither has ever seen the other in the flesh.

George's 3,000-mile journey in pursuit of the dictates of his heart started with his prying open the cover to a box of prunes several months ago. Carefully tucked between layers of the dried fruit, George found a slip of paper. On this was neatly written address, and a request for the finder to write. George did.

In return he has received more than 50 sweetly worded love letters which have quite captured his heart, and when he wrote a proposal and accompanied it with his photo, the answer was all that any swain could desire.

To Make Test Case.

CANTON — David Stinton fined $10 and costs for fox hunting on the lands of a Lawrence township farmer without permission has carried his case to common pleas court here and will make a test there. Stinson wants to make the fields safe for hunters, he says.

Citizenship Papers Denied Man Who Served Jail Term

HAMMOND, Ind.—John Marca's version of "nothing" is a one to five year prison sentence plus a $200 fine, according to his statements in seeking naturalization papers.

"Were you ever arrested?" the examiner asked. "Not much," John replied.

"You were arrested once, weren't you?" "Maybe, I dunno."

"And weren't you taken to Crown Point and tried before Judge Smith?" "Yes, but they didn't do nothing to me."

"They didn't do anything to you?"

"No, they didn't do nothing to me."

"You were given one to five years in jail and fined $200 and costs, weren't you?"

"Yes, that's all I got."

The judge's gavel came down with a bang:

"Application denied."

Woman Seeks Bargain Even in Court When Arraigned as Speeder

LOS ANGELES—Woman's bargaining instincts evidenced themselves in "speeder's court" today when Mrs. Joseph Jones appeared before Justice Joseph Marchetti. She was fined $15. She turned back to the beach after the sentence was imposed.

"Judge," the woman said, "Make it only $10 this time."

The court smiled and called the next case. But Mrs. Jones insisted.

"Next time I come in you can fine me that much more," she argued.

"Madam, you are in a court of justice, not at a bargain sale," was the rebuke administered by the court. Still hesitating at what she thought was a bad bargain, Mrs. Jones was finally prevailed upon to pay the full $15.

The homecoming play, to be given in the high school auditorium, will be Daddy Long Legs. It is given by a student cast coached by Mrs. C. O. Williamson.

Proceedings of Next Japanese Diet May Be Heard Over Radio

TOKIO—Proceedings of the next session of the Japanese imperial diet may be broadcast by radio. The authorities are considering a request made by the Tokio Broadcasting company for a permit to put the speeches of diet members "on the air."

Eve nthough permission for general broadcasting of debate in the diet is refused, it is considered probable that broadcasting of important speeches on government policies by cabinet ministers will be allowed.

The Peninsular Circulator

A Revelation in Home Heaters

The demand for a heater that becomes a part of the home furnishings has been met in the new Peninsular Circulator. It is different and better than anything else on the market.

Harmonizes with Finest Furnishings

The Circulator embodies all the attributes of an efficient heater, plus a design which blends with the home surroundings. In appearance it is a fine piece of furniture, in performance it will keep five rooms warm even in the coldest weather.

Operates Perfectly

The Peninsular Circulator is easily cleaned. A dry cloth rubbed over its vitreous porcelain surface gives a lustre that lasts for days.

It operates perfectly. Cold air is drawn off the floor, circulated around interior of heater casing, then passes out through the top heated to the proper degree. Heated air is moistened by moisture pan in rear.

The Peninsular Circulator burns hard coal, soft coal or coke. Large feed door makes fueling easy. Not necessary to open door to shake or dump the grate.

Let us show you this tastefully designed, easily cleaned circulator. You will be surprised at what it offers for the price.

Come in and let us demonstrate.

Special Introductory Offer

This Week Only

In order to introduce the Peninsular Circulator we will give for this week only, a ton of the best coal with every order for this heater. Why not take advantage of this liberal offer by coming in today and letting us demonstrate the many attractive qualities of the Peninsular Circulator?

WOMAN INJURED IN COLLISION

Automobile and Wagon Crash on Leetonia-Columbiana Road.

Mrs. Frank Salvino, 25, of Columbiana, suffered a fractured pelvis bone and internal injuries, which may result seriously, in a crash between an automobile and a milk wagon on the Columbiana-Leetonia road near Leetonia yesterday. She was removed to the Salem City hospital.

Mrs. Salvino and her sister, Mrs. Henry Rich, 27, and the latter's two children were returning from Columbiana to their home in Leetonia, with Mrs. Rich at the wheel of her touring car, when the accident occurred. The rear end of the car is said to have crashed into the rear end of a milk wagon driven by Luke Anglemyer, dairyman, living about two miles south of Leetonia, and the automobile overturned.

The two children were thrown from the machine but were unhurt. The women were pinned beneath the car. Bystanders extricated the injured women and were assisted to the office of Dr. Paul Beaver, Leetonia. Mrs. Rich was found to be suffering from cuts and bruises and a nervous shock.

Mrs. Salvino was later taken in an ambulance to the hospital.

TODAY

others, the air will be full of flying machines, as the ground is now covered with automobiles and every Ford flying machine is arranged so that if necessary to defend the country it can carry a bomb and quick firing gun in place of passengers or freight.

Fifty thousand of the Ford commercial flying machines will soon be part of our defense equipment to take care of any invaders as the rifles of the early Americans, used ordinarily for bears and Indians, took care of King George once.

As you see men eagerly reading stock market quotations in the east, so you see them here reading live stock market quotations. Cows sell for $4.50 a hundred pounds "on the hoof." "Canners and cutters,' old animals that have done their duty for years, from $2.60 to $3.50. Bulls bring $2.75 to $4.00. "Wyoming streets" averagaing 1,033 pounds bringing $8.35. But a "feeder steer" leads a dull life.

Hogs were "slow" and run was "plain." They brought $12.90 for "choice" averaging 200 pounds.

These prices mean nothing to a majority of eastern readers. They mean everything to farmers and the nation's prosperity.

Scattered through newspaper columns you read of human weaknesses and crime. The white wife of a Hindu husband is found murdered; no explanation.

A Pueblo citizen, Andrew J. Park, who should have known better, brought a strange lady, unmarried, into his house, and in her presence abused his lawful wife and children. That will cost him $75 a month alimony for Mrs. Park and $300 for her lawyer. "The way to discourage vice is to make it expensive." Almost everywhere you find foolish husbands.

The genuine American crime wave has not rolled out as far as this. However, a few bootleggers and hijackers shoot each other in an amateurish way in Kansas City and points west, but they are mere Sunday school teachers compared to their eastern brethren.

The feverish demand for bootleg poison that exists in the east, is not known in this superior climate.

Ever and anon you read this heading "NEW YORK MULTIMILLIONAIRE IS SUED BY BATHING BEAUTY."

Out here they wonder where the New York multi-millionaires find all the bathing beauties that sue them.

News from far away tells of martial law proclaimed to prevent Greek newspapers publishing unpleasant facts about the Greek government, but who cares about that, 10,000 feet up in Colorado?

Or Mussolini's refusal to accept the apology offered by Austria, following an attack on Italy by Ellenbogen, Austrian Socialist deputy.

A man in Mussolini's position must be particular about points of honor, and you admire his intelligence, shaking his finger at little Greece, or hamstrung Austrian.

But foreign affairs seem utterly trivial. Even the news that 100,00 extra people crowded into Pittsburgh, where $5 tickets sold at $50 for the great ball game, scarcely moves you.

Along the track, on both sides, white-faced Herefords raise their heads, and you can understand that, to so many, the important thing in the world is the price of those animals "on the hoof."

Misisng Pilot's Plane

man may have crashed, and because of the density of the trees his body may not be found for weeks. Gater believes that the flyer was having engine trouble or he would not have been flying so close to the ground after darkness.

A squadron of planes flew over the district north of here and also passed over Pughtown, Monday afternoon, evidently searching for the missing aviator. The birdman left Clarion, Pa., for Cleveland, his next stopping point, last Thursday, and since then nothing has been heard from him. Goverument officials believe that the plane was crashed to the ground, killing the pilot.

Baby Alice Russell

even momentarily left to his own conversational devices, he branches off into discussions of magazine editors and ball players and the extreme value of P. G. Wodehouse to the Saturday Evening Post. It got so that I dared not pause for breath between interrogation points, lest he roam far afield and squander one or two of the very few minutes I had in which to find out all about him.

Doesn't Like to Write

The net result of my catechism is as follows: He doesn't like to write in a press-box at a World's series game, with a lot of people peeking over his shoulder. And he doesn't like the things he writes very well—which proves better than anything I could tell you my firm contention that he's different from the rest of the world. I said, "Why do you write, then, if you don't enjoy it?" "I have to eat," he answered laconically. There are four little Lardners who also have to eat, ranging in ages from 13 down. I asked if any of them showed literary potentialities, and Mr. Lardner, with the first gleam of interest in anything pertaining to himself that he had shown, replied that indeed they did. "They're all doing short stories now," he informed me. "The eldest showed me one the other day, entitled 'A Day in the Life of Mr. Jones.' The opening sentence was this: 'Mr. Jones married a wife because he wanted someone to complain to.' "

Neat, what?

Mr. Lardner has very heavy black eyebrows, projecting over the sharpest and shrewdest black eyes I've ever seen. His face is long, with a long, square chin, and his black hair has receded somewhat from his forehead, leaving a small tuft in its wake. He looks as if he might have made a good center on a football team — or still might, for he isn't old by any means. He wears his hat at an angle sophomoric, not to say actually Prince of Wales. I ventured to mention this sartorial peculiarity, and met with protest instant, though not violent. "That isn't Prince of Wales," said Mr. Lardner, "that's because my face is dirty."

Mrs. Johnson Is Proudest Wife.

And lastly, the proudest wife. That means ball-player's wife, of course—no other wives are of the slightest importance this week. Perhaps since yesterday's game, Mrs. Vic Aldridge is the proudest. But up until 2 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Walter Johnson held the undisputed title, and perhaps she still does. I talked to her in her room at the Morrowfield apartments while she was in the throes of packing to return to Washington. Even under those circumstances—harrowing, as every woman knows—she was agreeable and sweet. A tall slender young woman, with brown wavy hair cut in a shingle bob and brilliant blue eyes, she compels with her personality as well as with her voice, which is unusually low and vibrant.

"I have all the nerves for the family," she said. "Walter hasn't any. He's amazing." And yet she told me that her famous husband "pitched all night in his sleep" the night after his sensational first victory at Forbes Field, and that he never can eat for several hours after a game, so great is the reaction. Mrs. Johson is Walter's unofficial secretary, and last year between the close of the 1924 world's series and the opening of spring training she personally acknowledged more than 6,000 fan letters that came for him. She also keeps scrap-books of clippings about his work, and told me with pardonable enthusiasm that she has 19 large ones entirely filled, one of them with editorials alone.

The Johnsons have lately moved into a new home in Alta Vista, Md., where they have nine acres of land for their four children to play in and a private ball field where Daddy Johnson teaches the young Johnsons how to do it. Both the older boys, who are 8 and 10, respectively, are wild about baseball, and the 8-year-old ("who looke like Walter," Mrs. Johnson said) has what his father calls a perfect natural delivery.

The Johnsons have spent most of their winters in recent years in Reno, where the great Walter hunts by way of relaxation. This year they will winter in Florida, whither they are to betake themselves as soon as the present business is off their minds.

School Board Denies

dent of the board, is attached to the petition.

Text of Brokaw's Answer.

The complete text of Brokaw's answer follows:

"For answer to the plaintiff petition, this defendant admits that plaintiff, R. H. Perry, is a resident and taxpayer of the East Liverpool city school district; that he made a request of the city solicitor to bring suit as set forth and that the said city solicitor refused to bring suit; that a petition signed by the Ministerial association and divers citizens was filed with the defendant board; that the resolution set forth in plaintiff's petition was adopted by said board; that said Ministerial association consists of Protestant ministers of the city and that divers citizens were correctly named; that a course of religious instruction was intended and that some of the pupils in said schools are Israelites, some Catholics and some of other beliefs.

"For further answer the defendant says that no course of study has been outlined; that no rules and regulations to govern such a course have been adopted; that no teachers have been hired, and that no rooms have been designated; but that adequate rooms may be supplied for such a course without injury to any other course of study in said schools and without additional cost to taxpayers.

"This defendant further denies that it contemplates the hiring of teachers without certificates and that they are to be teachers in private employ.

"For further answer defendant denies each and every allegation not herein specifically admitted or denied."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Stocks were active and buoyant in the early trading today. Wall street appeared to be very much relieved at the maintenance of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate in the federal reserve bank of New York and the slight improvement in its reserve holdings as evidenced by the advance in the reserve ratio from 75.6 to 76 per cent. Pools whipped up prices of Chrysler Motor to 198, up about 6 points from the previous close; of United Cigar Stores 3 points to 93; Baldwin sold about a point higher; Steel common led a spirited buying movement in the steel stocks. Oils appeared to be stronger, while tire and rubber, and other auto accessory companies moved up to higher levels. The move in Timken carried that stock about 3 points higher.

Announcement of the full operation of the reorganization plan of the St. Paul road was without much effect on the market for the stock, though all of the junior bonds moved up a point or more in active trading. The rails as a group completely ignored the most favorable item of news that has been published in many months, the bureau of railway economics reporting that earnings of the class roads in August reached the high total of $124,804,665, the highest in history for that months and exceeded only once since records of transportation earnings have been kept.

Bullish movements were confined mostly to the industrial, motor and specialty stocks, a few new ones joining the latter group. These included Vivaudou, Gold Dust, Worthington Pump, Brown Bovri and Martin Parry. Meanwhile Fleischman continued its sensational advance to 145; Foundation company reached 152; Spricer, 33; Timken, 55; Freeport Texas, 24; Kennecott Copper, 55½; Kresge, 675 (up 21 points); Woolworth, 195; Goodrich, 69¾.

Call money 4½ per cent.

pared in advance, was received in dead silence. The board's surprise, in fact, was so great that its members conferred for five minutes in whispers before continuing the inquiry.

Court Adjourns Until Monday.

The court adjourned until Monday immediately after the whispered conference without subjecting Mrs. Lansdowne to cross-examination.

Her husband, Mrs. Lansdowne declared, regarded the Shenandoah as a "man of war" which should never be used for "political purposes." He took the ship on its last voyage, she added, because he did not want to receive the "stigma of cowardice."

His protests, so she declared, were officially overruled "because state fairs were being held during the first week of September and must be flown over as scheduled."

In beginning, Mrs. Lansdowne asked to be sworn. She said she preferred to make her statement "under oath."

A second protest by Lansdowne, the widow testified, was against flying the ship to Detroit, without first testing the mooring mast there. This protest, she added, was also disapproved.

Orioles, Colonels Are All Tied in Class AA Series

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9.—The "little World series" in which Louisville and Baltimore are fighting for the class AA championship was all tied today at three games each, with three more games to go.

Behind great pitching by George Earnshaw, the Orioles won yesterday's game, 5 to 3, the Colonels gaining only five hits. A couple of Louisville errors also helped.

The series was in adjournment today until Saturday, when it will be resumed in Baltimore.

HEAR ARGUMENT ON ROAD ROUTE

H. F. Perry Presides at Hearing in Lisbon.

Route of the proposed East Liverpool-East Palestine inter-county highway was discussed at a hearing conducted by H. F. Perry, assistant engineer of maintenance of highways of the state highway department, Columbus, in the court house at Lisbon this morning.

Delegations of residents along the proposed routes and representatives from East Liverpool and East Palestine attended the session. The local Chamber of Commerce was represented by the road committee.

Three routes were suggested, two of them leading through Fredericktown, the other branching to the left at the top of the Fredericktown hill and crossing the valley near the Toland farm. This route, it is declared, will necessitate the erection of a bridge which would cost $50,000 or more.

The majority of those present urged one of the two Fredericktown routes. The county commissioners, it is claimed, favor the eastern road, a seven and one-half per cent grade being available on this route.

Perry took the matter under advisement, and the state highway department's decision will be announced later.

This road is included in the proposed road building program, which will start next year if voters approve the $950,000 bond issue at the polls on Nov. 3.

Game Called Off

or defeat on what Johnson's arm may be able to do in the next five days.

To the Pirates, the postponement was a vast disappointment. They came on from Pittsburgh last night, in the full flush of a victory over Stanley Coveleskie in the second game of the series, deadlocking the issue at one-all and were more than passing confident of their ability to make it two straight today.

BLUEGE ORDERED TO BED TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Oswald Bluege, the Senators' third baseman, who was "beaned' during yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, will not be permitted to play today, it was announced after a physical examination this morning.

Dr. Edward P. Larkin made a thorough examination of the injured player's head, and then ordered him to remain in bed all of today.

He probably will get in tomorrow's game the physician said, if no complications develop.

Scalpers Busy.

This meant that the contending teams would remain here over Monday and then return to Pittsburgh for the last two games, unless one club or the other reels off three straight victories here. This would put an automatic end to the proceedings.

However, few looked for such a contingency. In the opinion of the majority, it was to be Pittsburgh again on Tuesday, provided no further postponements occurred here. The seventh game, if one is necessary, also will be played in the land of smoke.

The forecast for tomorrow was favorable.

Scalpers took advantage of the lull of cajole visitors as they strolled along Pennsylvania avenue or stood idly in the hotel lobbies. The pasteboard bandits worked openly and with almost pernicious insistence. They seemed, however, to do little business, if at all. Fifty dollars for single tickets was the general price quoted to anyone who seemed interested.

Welcomed by Bluege.

The Senators also can muster a few "maidens" in the pitching stakes, namely Dutch Ruether, Alex. Ferguson and Tom Zachary, but it wasn't the exigencies of the moment that counted so much. What the Senators really wanted was additional rest for Johnson and they got it. The interval, likewise, was welcome to Ossie Bluege, who still was a bit groggy from the blow on the head he sustained yesterday.

Otherwise, however, the situation remained unchanged, the third game going over to tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and next two contests on the local schedule being put forward one day each.

The change of scene served to reduce the odds of 6 to 5 on the Pirates to something very close to even money. Washington, overnight, had lined up behind its champions in what little betting transpired.

The postponement disappointed thousands of capital fans—particularly the hundreds who had stood in the rain in the early morning hours striving for the general admission bleacher tickets.

Thirty-seven Motorists Arrested.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Charged with violating provisions of the local traffic code 37 Columbus motorists today are scheduled to be arraigned in traffic court Tuesday.

SPEED UP WORK ON NEW ROAD

East Liverpool Midland Highway May Open Before Winter.

Rinehart Brothers are speeding up the improvement of the Midland-East Liverpool road, with the expectation of completing the job before winter sets in.

All grading work has been completed and about one third of the concrete surfacing for the road is in place. The concrete mixer has been moved to a point about half way between Smith's Ferry and Midland where it is now working in the direction of Smith's Ferry. With weather conditions favorable, the concrete work is expected to be finished within a month.

That part of the road from the state line to the new bridge over Beaver Creek is completed, but cannot be used until the bridge is opened to traffic.

The Ferris Engineering company, Pittsburgh, building the bridge across the creek, is now workong on one of the two spans. The road from the state line to Smith's Ferry probably will be opened about November 15.

The Pennsylvania highway department next year will reroute the new road above the railroad tracks through Smith's Ferry, which will eliminate the rail crossing at the upper end of the village. For the present time, however, all traffic must move over the streets traversed by the traction cars.

Austen Chamberlain Is Optimistic at Security Pact Meet

LOCARNO, Oct. 9.—Frankly admitting that "many difficulties remain for which no solution has been found,' Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, today declared that he believes the security pact conferences are extending their "sphere of agreement."

Chamberlain declared that where "so much good will exists" it is hard to see how there can be failure to reach a final agreement.

BOWLING GREEN REPORTS SNOW

BOWLING GREEN, O., Oct. 9.—Bowling Green felt its first touch of winter today when a cold rain changed into snow. The white flakes fell for about half an hour, but melted as fast as they reached the ground.

The thermometer registered 34 degrees.

Baseball Ticket Scalper is Chased Into White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A world's series ticket scalper was chased by the capital's diligent police today to the very doors of the White House—and then inside.

Arrested for trying to dispose of a world's series ticket at a considerable advance over the market price, Mickey Bushrod, a colored messenger at the executive mansion, proved to be a veritable safe deposit vault of the coveted pasteboards.

The police claim that when they searched Mickey they found 19 tickets and tracing them back through the Washington club found that all constituted a part of the White House allotment.

Whether the president's ticket was among them or not the police did not state.

Mickey was relieved of the tickets and ridden to the station house, where he put up $100 collateral, which he later forfeited in police court.

An investigation was under way, however, at the executive offices this afternoon that promised to cost some of the employes their jobs.

NORTH OLMSTEAD BANK HELD UP

NORTH OLMSTEAD, O., Oct. 9.—Three bandits entered the North Olmstead bank here today shortly after noon, held up George Dewey, the president, and escaped with between $2,500 and $3,000 in cash.

This town is ten miles west of Cleveland.

BUILDING BOOM LOOMS IN U. S.

Business Healthy, Says Federal Reserve Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The nation is in the vortex of a great building boom, it was disclosed today in figures announced by the federal reserve board.

Building contracts for August totalled more than half a billion dollars ahead of the same month last year. The August figures were $611,000,000, an increase of $67,000,000 over July figures, and early reports of September activity indicate the pace is being maintained.

Residential building made up 44 per cent of that for August and early September, according to the board. Although there is still a housing shortage in the United States conditions are rapidly improving. In the big cities much of the building was of apartment houses.

The heavy increase in construction work is viewed by officials as an important index of improved business conditions.

The business situation, as indicated by the report, is favorable as the crop movement season is under way. There has been also a substantial increase in the demand for bank credit.

WOMAN INJURED IN COLLISION

Automobile and Wagon Crash on Leetonia-Columbiana Road.

Mrs. Frank Salvino, 25, of Columbiana, suffered a fractured pelvis bone and internal injuries, which may result seriously, in a crash between an automobile and a milk wagon on the Columbiana-Leetonia road near Leetonia yesterday. She was removed to the Salem City hospital.

Mrs. Salvino and her sister, Mrs. Henry Rich, 27, and the latter's two children were returning from Columbiana to their home in Leetonia, with Mrs. Rich at the wheel of her touring car, when the accident occurred. The rear end of the car is said to have crashed into the rear end of a milk wagon driven by Luke Anglemyer, dairyman, living about two miles south of Leetonia, and the automobile overturned.

The two children were thrown from the machine but were unhurt. The women were pinned beneath the car. Bystanders extricated the injured women and were assisted to the office of Dr. Paul Beaver, Leetonia. Mrs. Rich was found to be suffering from cuts and bruises and a nervous shock.

Mrs. Salvino was later taken in an ambulance to the hospital.

others, the air will be full of flying machines, as the ground is now covered with automobiles and every Ford flying machine is arranged so that if necessary to defend the country it can carry a bomb and quick firing gun in place of passengers or freight.

Fifty thousand of the Ford commercial flying machines will soon be part of our defense equipment to take care of any invaders as the rifles of the early Americans, used ordinarily for bears and Indians, took care of King George once.

As you see men eagerly reading stock market quotations in the east, so you see them here reading live stock market quotations. Cows sell for $4.50 a hundred pounds "on the hoof." "Canners and cutters,' old animals that have done their duty for years, from $2.60 to $3.50. Bulls bring $2.75 to $4.00. "Wyoming streets" averagaing 1,033 pounds bringing $8.35. But a "feeder steer" leads a dull life.

Hogs were "slow" and run was "plain." They brought $12.90 for "choice" averaging 200 pounds.

These prices mean nothing to a majority of eastern readers. They mean everything to farmers and the nation's prosperity.

Scattered through newspaper columns you read of human weaknesses and crime. The white wife of a Hindu husband is found murdered; no explanation.

A Pueblo citizen, Andrew J. Park, who should have known better, brought a strange lady, unmarried, into his house, and in her presence abused his lawful wife and children. That will cost him $75 a month alimony for Mrs. Park and $300 for her lawyer. "The way to discourage vice is to make it expensive." Almost everywhere you find foolish husbands.

The genuine American crime wave has not rolled out as far as this. However, a few bootleggers and hijackers shoot each other in an amateurish way in Kansas City and points west, but they are mere Sunday school teachers compared to their eastern brethren.

The feverish demand for bootleg poison that exists in the east, is not known in this superior climate.

Ever and anon you read this heading "NEW YORK MULTIMILLIONAIRE IS SUED BY BATHING BEAUTY."

Out here they wonder where the New York multi-millionaires find all the bathing beauties that sue them.

News from far away tells of martial law proclaimed to prevent Greek newspapers publishing unpleasant facts about the Greek government, but who cares about that, 10,000 feet up in Colorado?

Or Mussolini's refusal to accept the apology offered by Austria, following an attack on Italy by Ellenbogen, Austrian Socialist deputy.

A man in Mussolini's position must be particular about points of honor, and you admire his intelligence, shaking his finger at little Greece, or hamstrung Austrian.

But foreign affairs seem utterly trivial. Even the news that 100,00 extra people crowded into Pittsburgh, where $5 tickets sold at $50 for the great ball game, scarcely moves you.

Along the track, on both sides, white-faced Herefords raise their heads, and you can understand that, to so many, the important thing in the world is the price of those animals "on the hoof.'

man may have crashed, and because of the density of the trees his body may not be found for weeks. Gater believes that the flyer was having engine trouble or he would not have been flying so close to the ground after darkness.

A squadron of planes flew over the district north of here and also passed over Pughtown, Monday afternoon, evidently searching for the missing aviator. The birdman left Clarion, Pa., for Cleveland, his next stopping point, last Thursday, and since then nothing has been heard from him. Goverument officials believe that the plane was crashed to the ground, killing the pilot.

even momentarily left to his own conversational devices, he branches off into discussions of magazine editors and ball players and the extreme value of P. G. Wodehouse to the Saturday Evening Post. It got so that I dared not pause for breath between interrogation points, lest he roam far afield and squander one or two of the very few minutes I had in which to find out all about him.

Doesn't Like to Write

The net result of my catechism is as follows: He doesn't like to write in a press-box at a World's series game, with a lot of people peeking over his shoulder. And he doesn't like the things he writes very well—which proves better than anything I could tell you my firm contention that he's different from the rest of the world. I said, "Why do you write, then, if you don't enjoy it?" "I have to eat," he answered laconically. There are four little Lardners who also have to eat, ranging in ages from 13 down. I asked if any of them showed literary potentialities, and Mr. Lardner, with the first gleam of interest in anything pertaining to himself that he had shown, replied that indeed they did. "They're all doing short stories now," he informed me. "The eldest showed me one the other day, entitled 'A Day in the Life of Mr. Jones.' The opening sentence was this: 'Mr. Jones married a wife because he wanted someone to complain to.' "

Neat, what?

Mr. Lardner has very heavy black eyebrows, projecting over the sharpest and shrewdest black eyes I've ever seen. His face is long, with a long, square chin, and his black hair has receded somewhat from his forehead, leaving a small tuft in its wake. He looks as if he might have made a good center on a football team — or still might, for he isn't old by any means. He wears his hat at an angle sophomoric, not to say actually Prince of Wales. I ventured to mention this sartorial peculiarity, and met with protest instant, though not violent. "That isn't Prince of Wales," said Mr. Lardner, "that's because my face is dirty."

Mrs. Johnson Is Proudest Wife.

And lastly, the proudest wife. That means ball-player's wife, of course—no other wives are of the slightest importance this week. Perhaps since yesterday's game, Mrs. Vic Aldridge is the proudest. But up until 2 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Walter Johnson held the undisputed title, and perhaps she still does. I talked to her in her room at the Morrowfield apartments while she was in the throes of packing to return to Washington. Even under those circumstances—harrowing, as every woman knows—she was agreeable and sweet. A tall slender young woman, with brown wavy hair cut in a shingle bob and brilliant blue eyes, she compels with her personality as well as with her voice, which is unusually low and vibrant.

"I have all the nerves for the family," she said. "Walter hasn't any. He's amazing." And yet she told me that her famous husband "pitched all night in his sleep" the night after his sensational first victory at Forbes Field, and that he never can eat for several hours after a game, so great is the reaction. Mrs. Johson is Walter's unofficial secretary, and last year between the close of the 1924 world's series and the opening of spring training she personally acknowledged more than 6,000 fan letters that came for him. She also keeps scrap-books of clippings about his work, and told me with pardonable enthusiasm that she has 19 large ones entirely filled, one of them with editorials alone.

The Johnsons have lately moved into a new home in Alta Vista, Md., where they have nine acres of land for their four children to play in and a private ball field where Daddy Johnson teaches the young Johnsons how to do it. Both the older boys, who are 8 and 10, respectively, are wild about baseball, and the 8-year-old ("who looke like Walter," Mrs. Johnson said) has what his father calls a perfect natural delivery.

The Johnsons have spent most of their winters in recent years in Reno, where the great Walter hunts by way of relaxation. This year they will winter in Florida, whither they are to betake themselves as soon as the present business is off their minds.

Text of Brokaw's Answer.

The complete text of Brokaw's answer follows:

"For answer to the plaintiff petition, this defendant admits that plaintiff, R. H. Perry, is a resident and taxpayer of the East Liverpool city school district; that he made a request of the city solicitor to bring suit as set forth and that the said city solicitor refused to bring suit; that a petition signed by the Ministerial association and divers citizens was filed with the defendant board; that the resolution set forth in plaintiff's petition was adopted by said board; that said Ministerial association consists of Protestant ministers of the city and that divers citizens were correctly named; that a course of religious instruction was intended and that some of the pupils in said schools are Israelites, some Catholics and some of other beliefs.

"For further answer the defendant says that no course of study has been outlined; that no rules and regulations to govern such a course have been adopted; that no teachers have been hired, and that no rooms have been designated; but that adequate rooms may be supplied for such a course without injury to any other course of study in said schools and without additional cost to taxpayers.

"This defendant further denies that it contemplates the hiring of teachers without certificates and that they are to be teachers in private employ.

"For further answer defendant denies each and every allegation not herein specifically admitted or denied."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Stocks were active and buoyant in the early trading today. Wall street appeared to be very much relieved at the maintenance of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate in the federal reserve bank of New York and the slight improvement in its reserve holdings as evidenced by the advance in the reserve ratio from 75.6 to 76 per cent. Pools whipped up prices of Chrysler Motor to 198, up about 6 points from the previous close; of United Cigar Stores 3 points to 93; Baldwin sold about a point higher; Steel common led a spirited buying movement in the steel stocks. Oils appeared to be stronger, while tire and rubber, and other auto accessory companies moved up to higher levels. The move in Timken carried that stock about 3 points higher.

Announcement of the full operation of the reorganization plan of the St. Paul road was without much effect on the market for the stock, though all of the junior bonds moved up a point or more in active trading. The rails as a group completely ignored the most favorable item of news that has been published in many months, the bureau of railway economics reporting that earnings of the class roads in August reached the high total of $124,804,665, the highest in history for that months and exceeded only once since records of transportation earnings have been kept.

Bullish movements were confined mostly to the industrial, motor and specialty stocks, a few new ones joining the latter group. These included Vivaudou, Gold Dust, Worthington Pump, Brown Bovri and Martin Parry. Meanwhile Fleischman continued its sensational advance to 145; Foundation company reached 152; Spricer, 33; Timken, 55; Freeport Texas, 24; Kennecott Copper, 55½; Kresge, 675 (up 21 points); Woolworth, 195; Goodrich, 69¾.

HEAR ARGUMENT ON ROAD ROUTE

H. F. Perry Presides at Hearing in Lisbon.

Route of the proposed East Liverpool-East Palestine inter-county highway was discussed at a hearing conducted by H. F. Perry, assistant engineer of maintenance of highways of the state highway department, Columbus, in the court house at Lisbon this morning.

Delegations of residents along the proposed routes and representatives from East Liverpool and East Palestine attended the session. The local Chamber of Commerce was represented by the road committee.

Three routes were suggested, two of them leading through Fredericktown, the other branching to the left at the top of the Fredericktown hill and crossing the valley near the Toland farm. This route, it is declared, will necessitate the erection of a bridge which would cost $50,000 or more.

Perry took the matter under advisement, and the state highway department's decision will be announced later.

This road is included in the proposed road building program, which will start next year if voters approve the $950,000 bond issue at the polls on Nov. 3.

BLUEGE ORDERED TO BED TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Oswald Bluege, the Senators' third baseman, who was "beaned' during yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, will not be permitted to play today, it was announced after a physical examination this morning.

Dr. Edward P. Larkin made a thorough examination of the injured player's head, and then ordered him to remain in bed all of today.

He probably will get in tomorrow's game the physician said, if no complications develop.

Scalpers Busy.

This meant that the contending teams would remain here over Monday and then return to Pittsburgh for the last two games, unless one club or the other reels off three straight victories here. This would put an automatic end to the proceedings.

However, few looked for such a contingency. In the opinion of the majority, it was to be Pittsburgh again on Tuesday, provided no further postponements occurred here. The seventh game, if one is necessary, also will be played in the land of smoke.

The forecast for tomorrow was favorable.

Scalpers took advantage of the lull of cajole visitors as they strolled along Pennsylvania avenue or stood idly in the hotel lobbies. The pasteboard bandits worked openly and with almost pernicious insistence. They seemed, however, to do little business, if at all. Fifty dollars for single tickets was the general price quoted to anyone who seemed interested.

Welcomed by Bluege.

The Senators also can muster a few "maidens" in the pitching stakes, namely Dutch Ruether, Alex. Ferguson and Tom Zachary, but it wasn't the exigencies of the moment that counted so much. What the Senators really wanted was additional rest for Johnson and they got it. The interval, likewise, was welcome to Ossie Bluege, who still was a bit groggy from the blow on the head he sustained yesterday.

Otherwise, however, the situation remained unchanged, the third game going over to tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and next two contests on the local schedule being put forward one day each.

The change of scene served to reduce the odds of 6 to 5 on the Pirates to something very close to even money. Washington, overnight, had lined up behind its champions in what little betting transpired.

The postponement disappointed thousands of capital fans—particularly the hundreds who had stood in the rain in the early morning hours striving for the general admission bleacher tickets.

Thirty-seven Motorists Arrested.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Charged with violating provisions of the local traffic code 37 Columbus motorists today are scheduled to be arraigned in traffic court Tuesday.

SPEED UP WORK ON NEW ROAD

East Liverpool Midland Highway May Open Before Winter.

Rinehart Brothers are speeding up the improvement of the Midland-East Liverpool road, with the expectation of completing the job before winter sets in.

All grading work has been completed and about one third of the concrete surfacing for the road is in place. The concrete mixer has been moved to a point about half way between Smith's Ferry and Midland where it is now working in the direction of Smith's Ferry. With weather conditions favorable, the concrete work is expected to be finished within a month.

That part of the road from the state line to the new bridge over Beaver Creek is completed, but cannot be used until the bridge is opened to traffic.

The Ferris Engineering company, Pittsburgh, building the bridge across the creek, is now workong on one of the two spans. The road from the state line to Smith's Ferry probably will be opened about November 15.

The Pennsylvania highway department next year will reroute the new road above the railroad tracks through Smith's Ferry, which will eliminate the rail crossing at the upper end of the village. For the present time, however, all traffic must move over the streets traversed by the traction cars.

Austen Chamberlain Is Optimistic at Security Pact Meet

LOCARNO, Oct. 9.—Frankly admitting that "many difficulties remain for which no solution has been found,' Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, today declared that he believes the security pact conferences are extending their "sphere of agreement."

Chamberlain declared that where "so much good will exists" it is hard to see how there can be failure to reach a final agreement.

BOWLING GREEN REPORTS SNOW

BOWLING GREEN, O., Oct. 9.—Bowling Green felt its first touch of winter today when a cold rain changed into snow. The white flakes fell for about half an hour, but melted as fast as they reached the ground.

The thermometer registered 34 degrees.

Baseball Ticket Scalper is Chased Into White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A world's series ticket scalper was chased by the capital's diligent police today to the very doors of the White House—and then inside.

Arrested for trying to dispose of a world's series ticket at a considerable advance over the market price, Mickey Bushrod, a colored messenger at the executive mansion, proved to be a veritable safe deposit vault of the coveted pasteboards.

The police claim that when they searched Mickey they found 19 tickets and tracing them back through the Washington club found that all constituted a part of the White House allotment.

Whether the president's ticket was among them or not the police did not state.

Mickey was relieved of the tickets and ridden to the station house, where he put up $100 collateral, which he later forfeited in police court.

An investigation was under way, however, at the executive offices this afternoon that promised to cost some of the employes their jobs.

NORTH OLMSTEAD BANK HELD UP

NORTH OLMSTEAD, O., Oct. 9.—Three bandits entered the North Olmstead bank here today shortly after noon, held up George Dewey, the president, and escaped with between $2,500 and $3,000 in cash.

This town is ten miles west of Cleveland.

BUILDING BOOM LOOMS IN U. S.

Business Healthy, Says Federal Reserve Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The nation is in the vortex of a great building boom, it was disclosed today in figures announced by the federal reserve board.

Building contracts for August totalled more than half a billion dollars ahead of the same month last year. The August figures were $611,000,000, an increase of $67,000,000 over July figures, and early reports of September activity indicate the pace is being maintained.

Residential building made up 44 per cent of that for August and early September, according to the board. Although there is still a housing shortage in the United States conditions are rapidly improving. In the big cities much of the building was of apartment houses.

The heavy increase in construction work is viewed by officials as an important index of improved business conditions.

The business situation, as indicated by the report, is favorable as the crop movement season is under way. There has been also a substantial increase in the demand for bank credit.

HIGHS OPEN WITH DOVER

Center Mathes Ineligible for Saturday Clash.

Handicapped to start with by the absence of a sufficient number of seasoned men around whom could be constructed a team sufficiently strong to withstand the assaults of the season's schedule, Wellsville high school's squad this week sustained another blow when school authorities declared Center Mathes ineligible, and, as a result, the Orange and Black faces anything but rosy prospects for their opening tilt of the season tomorrow afternoon at Dover.

Mathes, one of the larger men of the squad whose bulk is needed on the line, was declared ineligible, as a result, it is said, of scholastic difficulties, at the last moment. He will be out for the Dover game at least.

Having depended upon Mathes as practically a sure bet for the center job, Coach Earl Klinck was left in somewhat of a dilemma when Mathes left the lineup and tomorrow, through necessity, must call upon an inexperienced substitute. Although he has not decided definitely, his choice probably will be Magill, who, playing his first year of high school football, has shown exceptional promise as a lineman.

A squad of approximately 20 players will make the trip to Dover, leaving here tomorrow morning shortly after 8 o'clock by auto.

Although Coach Klinck has not announced a definite lineup, he may call on Calhoun and Kenney for the ends; Hepp and Thorne, tackles; Klavaughn and Holliday, guards, and Magill or Farrell, center. In the backfield Miller will call signals, Pignatore will be at fullback and Captain Campbell at left half. The choice for the other half rests among Eschbacher, Harrison and McLaughlin.

CHILDREN'S HOME HEAD APPOINTED

Jefferson county commissioners today announced the appointment of Edward Rutherford, county probation officer, as superintendent of the Jefferson county children's home, at Yellow Creek, to succeed F. E. Cunningham.

Superintendent and Mrs. Cunningham, who have been in charge of the home for a number of years, recently tendered their resignation and will relinquish their duties at the institution on December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham receently entertained at a dinner in the home for the county commissioners and board of trustees of the home.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rutherford, of Steubenville, the successful applicants, others who took the examination for the post included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McNary, of Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson, of Wintersville.

MISS VERNIA IS BRIDGE HOSTESS

Miss Helen Vernia entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home in Broadway, the occasion honoring Mrs. Dwight Chapman, of Tarentum, Pa.

Mrs. Chapman, prior to her marriage several months ago, was Miss Lucile Cosby, former member of Wellsville high school teaching staff.

Several tables of bridge were in play during the evening, honors being awarded Mrs. Chapman and Miss Elizabeth McKenzie. At the close of the affair luncheon was served by Mrs. F. E. Vernia, the hostess' mother.

Guests included Misses Jeanette Grafton, Elizabeth McKenzie, Loretta Hogenmiller, Eileen Tood, Laura Jeffrey, Virginia Shea, Virginia Vernia, Minnie Rabinovitz, and Grace Croft, the latter from East Liverpool.

MAYOR RECOVERS HIS "LOST" CAR

Mayor James S. Barnes "almost" lost his automobile.

Thursday afternoon, the city's chief executive went out in front of the city hall and looked for his car. It was not there. Immediately suspecting auto thieves and probably a duplication of the theft in which the car belonging to a Louisville man was stolen from Riverside avenue several days ago, he notified Sheriff George Wright and other authorities throughout the district.

Later local police combed the streets and territory adjacent to the city for a trace of the missing car.

Having failed, police were returning to the city hall late yesterday afternoon and, suddenly, discovered the "lost" auto parked near Calhoun's garage in upper Main street.

Simultaneously with the finding of the car came the thought to the mayor that he had parked the car there earlier in the day and had forgotten it.

Wilma Boring Hostess.

Miss Wilma Jane Boring entertained a number of her friends at her home on Riverside avenue Wednesday evening, the affair honoring her eleventh birthday anniversary.

Music, games and a guessing contest were diversions. Miss Veecile King won honors in the guessing contest. Fall flowers were used in the decorations. At the close of the evening, luncheon was served by the hostess' mother, Mrs. Williams, assisted by Miss Marguerite Carnahan and Miss Kathleen Stetler.

Among the guests were: Misses Margeurite Carnahan, Kathleen Stetler, Poal Hacker, Elizabeth Craige, Irene Bell, Laberta Carnahan, Laila Stetler Veecile Kin, Eveylene Davis, Pearl Williams, Mary Zearley, Mary Peck, Elizabeth Zearley, and Jayne Boring.

WILL TELL HOW MONEY'S SPENT

Auditor Calls Public Meet for Friday, Oct. 16.

City taxpayers will have an opportunity to learn what becomes of the money they pay into municipal and county coffers.

Acting on the request of Councilman Clyde Baker, City Auditor Fred Eckfeld today announced that a mass meeting of citizens will be held on Friday evening, October 16, in the city hall, and there, he said, will be given a complete outline of the manner in which tax money is spent.

Auditor Eckfeld will explain the situation himself. Whether the meeting will be held in the council chamber or the more spacious auditorium depends upon the size of the audience.

Several weeks ago Councilman Baker, prompted by citizens' inquiries regarding the city's financial condition and how it became that way, suggested to solons that a public meeting be held for the purpose of explaining the tax system.

The matter was referred to Auditor Eckfeld who has set the date for the session.

Must Prove Age to Drive Automobile in New York

New York.—Youths who desire licenses to drive autos hereafter must file birth certificates to show their real ages.

Commissioner Charles A. Hartnett, head of the state motor vehicle bureau, issued an order that all applicants between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one must file birth certificates with their applications, effective September 1. Formerly birth certificates were demanded only in cases where the applicant stated that he was between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one.

William M. Arnstein, executive assistant to Commissioner Hartnett, in explaining the new order, said:

"This order is intended to put a check on the so-called automobile schools, which purport to teach persons to drive cars and which will not stop at criminal means to obtain drivers' licenses for their pupils. In one case it was shown that a boy, not yet seventeen, had attended one of these schools, and obtained a driver's license."

Mr. Arnstein added that it is an easy matter for a husky youth of sixteen or seventeen to pose as more than twenty-one, and thus avoid having to produce a birth certificate, and added that the practice is a common one in New York.

England's Babe Ruth Still Idol of British Sunday School Pupils

LONDON—Jack Hobbs, the "Babe Ruth" of English cricket, still qualifies as the hero of every British Sunday school scholar.

When Hobbs recently equaled the world's record for cricket "centuries" he quaffed what was reported to have been a cup of champagne offered him by his captain.

Now, in answer to a query from the secretary of the Western Temperance league, Hobbs maintains the liquid was not champagne but ginger ale.

Prohibition opponents are also satisfied, for, after drinking the ginger ale Hobbs made only one more run before being put out. He would have done better on champagne, they maintain.

"Dead" for Five Minutes, Is Restored to Life

Los Angeles, Cal.—Dying is easy, but coming back to life is a living hell.

"Dead" for five minutes and restored to life by adrenalin, William Bethurum, seventy-two years old, described recently his excursion into the realm of the "hereafter."

Bethurum collapsed in the county sheriff's office when informed that friends had bailed him out of jail where he was held on a minor charge.

County jail physicians pronounced him dead and Dr. Benjamin Blank was called to sign the death certificate. Although he had little hope of reviving Bethurum because of his extreme age, Blank decided to administer adrenalin.

Bethurum responded quickly to the treatment and was delivered smiling to his home in less than an hour.

"The dying didn't hurt a bit," he said. "I don't remember a thing about it. It was just like going to sleep."

"But the coming to was hell. I was never so deathly ill in all my life as when the effects of the adrenalin were wearing off."

Bethurum was proprietor of a restaurant.

"I'll just rest up a bit for a few days and then go back to work," he said. "I am too young and full of life to be lying around and doing nothing."

"Small cars," of fourteen horsepower and less, are becoming so popular in Europe that factories there are turning out more of them than of the heavier types, their low operating costs offsetting the fact that many are higher priced than the larger ones.

Zagreab, Yugoslavia, is to have a large state boradcasting station.

NAT-PIRATE DEADLOCK WILL BE BROKEN TODAY IF WEATHERMAN ALLOWS

Washington Fans Set to Repeat Celebration of Last Year in Event of Senatorial Victory; Ray Kremer Will be Opposed by Either Ferguson or Ruether; Pittsburgh Again on Long End of Series Odds.

By Davis J. Walsh.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Geographical scene shifting between darkness and dawn carried the world series out from the spot where the opaque begins and into the home of everlasting marble today and all was far from quiet along the Potomac. The late General Grant to the contrary, all, as a matter of fundamental fact, was most unquiet, Washington having lashed itself into a lather of expectancy.

The occasion today was to mark the breaking of the deadlock and to prove, at the same time, that the days of romance were not dead.

It was apparent today that they had just begun to live, with the fans of the nation's capital re-enacting the scenes of 1924 when the Senators wrested the world's title from the New York Giants. Romance surely lived last night when lines of otherwise sane citizens stood patiently through the zero hours that they might be assured of a seat in the unreserved sections for the first world series game Washington has seen in the twelfth month.

Washington, in fact, was about to run amuck all over again, the novelty of last year's celebration still being dulcet sweet to its civic palate. Whether that celebration will be repeated or whether Pennsylvania avenue will resound to not the slightest note of revelry by night depended upon the performance of the Senators in the next two games.

Ferguson and Kremer.

The pre-game choice of the pitchers today named Alex Ferguson of Washington, whom Miller Huggins of the Yankees esteemed but lightly, and Ray Kremer of Pittsburgh.

The Senators won on Wednesday because Walter Johnson pitched a typical Johnson ball game. They lost yesterday because Coveleskie recited little boy blew in a Polish translation. In neither game, to be candid, did the Senators look like the champions of the world.

They looked so shaky, in fact, that the professional gamblers circulated through special trains enroute to the capital last night professing willingness to chance their all on the belief that the Pirates had lost their last game of the series. They wanted odds, perforce, but their idea merely mirrored the general trend of opinion.

Pirates Favorites.

This was best illustrated by the fact that the odds shifted from 5 to 4 on the Senators to 6 to 5 on the Pirates as the result of yesterday's game.

However, pro-Washington men looked for an immediate change in the situation with the Senators operating on their own happy hunting ground. They are not regarded as a home town club but the theory was that they were due to play better ball some time and the present was as good as any.

The all night vigil and the fact that reserved sections were sold out weeks ago indicated that Griffith park this afternoon would play host to the third world series crowd of more than 40,000 in exactly three games. The series will break no attendance records only because Thomas Edison has yet to invent elastic concrete.

The possibility existed that Stanley Harris would alter his announced plan and send Walter "Dutch" Reuther against the Pirates today. Some doubt was current as to the stability of Alex Ferguson, in spite of his fine record with the Senators.

Romance In Series.

Should Ruether be the pitcher to oppose Kremer, then romance would live as never before.

This possible selection might be an insignificant fact in itself, unless one happened to remember that both Ruether and Kremer were graduates of St. Ignatius college, Calif.

It might be without further significance if it wasn't for the fact that Ruether and Kremer, far from being competitive strangers, would thus engage in the rubber contest of a three game duel that endured through thirteen years.

It started back in old Sonoma county, California, in the days when men were strictly males; the year 1913 to be precise.

Petaluma and Sebastopol were to play a three game series for the championship of the county. Two obscure but rising young men of the profession were engaged as the opposing pitchers. Their names were Walter Ruether and Ray Kremer and the game they pitched that first day was worthy of a niche in the hall of fame. Ruether carried Petaluma to a 2 to 1 decision, getting away with a four-hit game while Kremer allowed but three. Kremer would have tied the score with a drive in the ninth inning if it hadn't been for a diving catch in center field by Warren Brown, now a nationally known sports writer.

Kermer Wins Series.

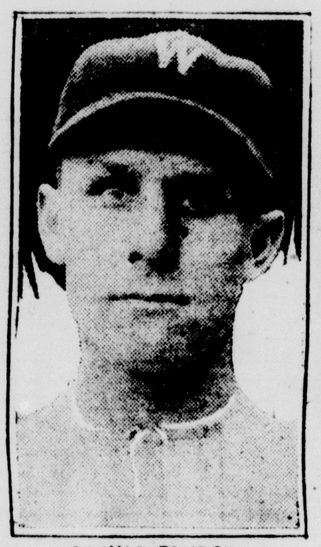
Having done that much, Brown shifted to Sebastopol for the second game just in time to be with the winning ball club, Kremer gaining a 2 to 0 victory over Ruether. The latter was good for seven hit game on this occasion, but Kremer again weighed in with a three-hit performance and that was distinctly that.

Reuther did not appear in the third game, also won by Kremer. He did not appear because a major league club had signed him in the meantime. The identity of the major league club? Certainly. The Pittsburgh Pirates, the same team he would attempt to left hand to defeat this afternoon.

Ruether got his chance because of an exhibition game he pitched against the Chicago White Sox, in which he was opposed by a certain Tom Heaton. Thomas is worthy of mention only because he was the man who pitched against Kremer in the third game of the Petaluma-Sebastopol series.

Vessels passing through the Panama canal in the last year numbered 4,673, or more than four times the number in the first year of the canal ten years ago.

BADLY BUMPED



OSWALD BLUEGE

Oswald Bluege, Nats' third baseman, beaned by a pitched ball in yesterday's clash, may not be able to take part in today's third game, and possibly the series. Although he is still suffering pain, no serious consequences are expected.

Bluege's place will likely be taken by young Buddy Meyer, who recently went to the Senators from the New Orleans club of the Southern association.

CROWD WILL SEE WOOSTER OBERLIN

WOOSTER, Oct. 9.—The advance ticket sale for the Wooster-Oberlin football game to be played here Saturday indicates a record crowd which will more than fill the new $50,000 football bleachers. Saturday is Wooster's annual homecoming and several thousand visitors are expected here for the day.

John D. McKee, alumni secretary, has arranged for a meeting of all Wooster colleeg alumni in Hoover Cottage immediately after the game. An alumni section at the football game and at the homecoming play will put all homecomers together.

TACKLE PLAYS BISON'S BEST

Line Thrusts Will be Used Against Thiel Eleven.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 9—The best bet for the Bisons in Saturday's game with Thiel is in their fast and elusive off tackle plays. With such men as Loppacker, Hamil, Stobbs, Barlow and Kinsey to alternate in carrying the ball, the Thiel defense should be run ragged in the first half. If by any chance Bethany's strong and deceptive line plays are halted, they can always resort to the aerial route—of which they are masters.

It will be impossible for Thiel to stop Stobbs and Hamil from routing out their light line. On every attempt in the Duquesne conflict, Stobbs as well as Hamil, could not be halted in their charge down the field. The strength of these two men is greatly under-estimated by local critics because their efforts to date have been used in interferring for the shifty halves of the Bison squad.

Capt. Loppacker was in the real work-out today for the first time since his injury. During the scrimmage he easily zigzagged through the entire reserve squad many times. His return will greatly strengthen the Green and White team. Although Barlow did well in his punting last Saturday, Capt. Loppacker's educated toe will make the going much harder for the Thiel eleven.

This being a short week because of the early departure of teh team for Greenville, Coach Nuss is working his men at a fast clip. Calisthenics are still being given to the squad although the condition of all the men is well-nigh perfect. Signal drill, scrimmage, and punting fill out the day's program.

WORLD'S SERIES SIDELIGHTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9.—Goslin certainly gave Wright's homer the old college try. He leaped frantically after a ball that cleared the left field barrier by almost 15 feet.

Cuyler's game-winning homer would have been a long hit on any field. Neither Rice nor Joe Harris got within yards of it as it hit the ground preliminary to its long hop into the stands.

The old break wasn't on Coveleskie's spitter after the first few innings. He got by to the eighth on what he knew.

One of Peckinpaugh's errors was excusable, the ball slipping out of his hand as he attempted to throw it, due to a liberal application of saliva. The other was unpardonable. Roger simply scored a drop kick with an easy double play in front of him.

Earl Smith seemed to annoy Goslin no little. He clowned around when the Goose walked out of the box because Aldridge was taking so much time to pitch in the fifth and earlier in the game he was alleged to have tipped Goslin's bat.

Grantham was supposed to afford most of the comic relief of the series but, to date, he has played a remarkable game at first base. He saved three wild throws with great stops yesterday.

After smacking a whistling foul down the right field line in the eighth, Goslin rushed back to the dugout to change bats. Then he tapped weakly to the pitcher.

Stanley Harris has yet to make his first hit. The well known young man can't grip the bat firmly, owing to his lacerated finger. But probably will break out in a rash of base hits at a very early moment.

With three on and none out in the ninth, Veach was sent up as a pinch hitter with evident instructions to wait Aldridge out. That seemed like bad business for a free-swinger of this type.

Peck and Ruel got successive Texas leaguers to open the fifth, a thing that is not often seen on a ball field. All too few of the Senators' hits to date have been without the taint of real legitimacy.

Ruel saved a run in the sixth with Carey on third base. He made a fine diving stop of a near-wild pitch by the Pole.

JIMMY FINLEY TO MEET JONES

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, K., welterweight champion of the south and also holder of the welter title of Cuba will be Jimmy Jones' opponent in the first indoor boxing show of the season at Rayon-Wood next Tuesday night. Joe Simonich wired in that he wanted more time to get in shape for a Jones match, but owing to Jones being booked solid for later dates Promoter Zill wos forced to line up a new opponent for him, and for Finley it can be said that he is one of the very best among the younger crop of welter weights.

On paper Finley has everything that can be expected. He has knocked out 50 opponents in 130 fights, won the welter weight title of the south by knocking out Red Hill of New Orleans, in a slashing ten rounder, and Herring its to be remembered, is the boy that beat Pinkie Mitchell out of the junior welter weight title. He also beat Joe Anderson, Henry Molchoir, Warnie Smith, Joe Delaney, Tommy Freeman and won the Cuban middleweight title from Kid Charol in 15 rounds, the welter title of Cuba from Ponce DeLeon, by a Kayo in 11 rounds.

Fate of Series Rest on Fingers?

Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators is seen examining his spiked finger. The wound, received in a game with Cleveland, was not properly healed when world's series opened. A hard blow may reopen it or cause the finger to swell and force him—the mainspring of the Washington defense, from the series at any time. Arrow points to the vital digit.

Diamond Classic Now At Strategy Stage

History of 20 World's Series Shows That Third Game, Following an Even Split in First Two is Generally a Wild and Hectic Affair; Second Line Boxmen, Several, in Fact, May be Called on Today.

By Sid Mercer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The world series transferred here overnight from Pittsburgh reached the strategy stage as the Senators and Pirates squared off for the third round. With Walter Johnson in the wings until tomorrow or possibly Sunday, the new stage is set for a jockeying of pitchers that may result in heavy scoring today.

In the rapid shifting that featured the final game between the Giants and Senators last year, the youthful Stanley Harris played his cards well. He had Johnson as his ace in the hole and it was Johnson who finally won the game and the series for him.

Today both managers must call upon second line boxmen—may call on several, in fact. The history of 20 world championship struggles shows that when the first two games result in an even split the third is generally a wild and hectic affair.

With no more than five games left to play, the American league champions are in a softer spot than the Pirates. For one thing, they are at home and their opponents are playing on a field that is unfamiliar to them. This field is more capacious than the Pittsburgh lot, on which temporary stands encroach.

There are several long distance hitters on the Washington team—more than Pittsburgh can muster—and there will be no fluke home runs to ruin good pitching efforts.

Washington, furthermore, can fall back on Johnston tomorrow if the Pirates win today. If they win the third game, Sir Walter probably will rest until Sunday.

The betting odds on the series have been shaved down, but from where I sit the Senators still are favorites. A Washington fan who has wagered heavily on the American league champions explained it this way coming over on the train from Pittsburgh last night:

"After Washington won the first game," he argued, "it was up to Pittsburgh to win four out of the next six. They grabbed one yesterday, but they still must take three out of the next five, and they will get about two more doses of Johnson if the series goes to seven games. Our second string pitchers are as good as theirs, so we should worry."

Lower wages and longer hours of work of glove makers in Czechslovakia has permitted cutting of costs to such an extent that English glove factories are unable to compete even at home, and are laying off hands.

$366,473.95 IS PAID IN BY FANS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—Statisticians, who always appear after world series teams leave, announced today that 85,069 paid customers witnessed the two games played in Pittsburgh after depositing $366,473.95 at Barney Dreyfuss' several box offices.

Of the amount already taken in $186,901 goes to the players, $62,300.41 to each club and $54,970.25 to the advisory council.

From the same statisticans it was learned that Pittsburghers and their neighbors took a livelier interest in the baseball classic thus far than the Washingtonians did in the first two games last year, when the total attendance was only 71,682 and receipts $270,952.

CARDINALS PLAY AT HANOVERTON

Postponed from last Sunday on account of rain, the clash between the Hanoverton nine and the East Liverpool Cardinals will be played next Sunday afternoon at Hanoverton. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Hi Myers will be seen in the Hanoverton lineup, with Burleigh Grimes pitching.

Dad Jones, veteran pastimer, will do the receiving for the Cardinals.

With Walter Johnson in the wings until tomorrow or possibly Sunday, the new stage is set for a jockeying of pitchers that may result in heavy scoring today.

In the rapid shifting that featured the final game between the Giants and Senators last year, the youthful Stanley Harris played his cards well. He had Johnson as his ace in the hole and it was Johnson who finally won the game and the series for him.

Today both managers must call upon second line boxmen—may call on several, in fact. The history of 20 world championship struggles shows that when the first two games result in an even split the third is generally a wild and hectic affair.

With no more than five games left to play, the American league champions are in a softer spot than the Pirates. For one thing, they are at home and their opponents are playing on a field that is unfamiliar to them. This field is more capacious than the Pittsburgh lot, on which temporary stands encroach.

There are several long distance hitters on the Washington team—more than Pittsburgh can muster—and there will be no fluke home runs to ruin good pitching efforts.

Washington, furthermore, can fall back on Johnston tomorrow if the Pirates win today. If they win the third game, Sir Walter probably will rest until Sunday.

The betting odds on the series have been shaved down, but from where I sit the Senators still are favorites. A Washington fan who has wagered heavily on the American league champions explained it this way coming over on the train from Pittsburgh last night:

"After Washington won the first game," he argued, "it was up to Pittsburgh to win four out of the next six. They grabbed one yesterday, but they still must take three out of the next five, and they will get about two more doses of Johnson if the series goes to seven games. Our second string pitchers are as good as theirs, so we should worry."

Lower wages and longer hours of work of glove makers in Czechslovakia has permitted cutting of costs to such an extent that English glove factories are unable to compete even at home, and are laying off hands.

$566,473.95 IS PAID IN BY FANS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—Statisticians, who always appear after world series teams leave, announced today that 85,069 paid customers witnessed the two games played in Pittsburgh after depositing $566,473.95 at Barney Dreyfuss' several box offices.

Of the amount already taken in $186,901 goes to the players, $62,300.41 to each club and $54,970.25 to the advisory council.

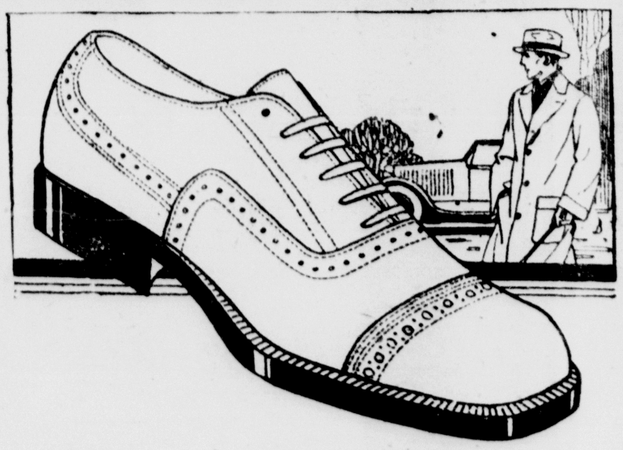
From the same statisticans it was learned that Pittsburghers and their neighbors took a livelier interest in the baseball classic thus far than the Washingtonians did in the first two games last year, when the total attendance was only 71,682 and receipts $270,952.

CARDINALS PLAY AT HANOVERTON

Postponed from last Sunday on account of rain, the clash between the Hanoverton nine and the East Liverpool Cardinals will be played next Sunday afternoon at Hanoverton. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Hi Myers will be seen in the Hanoverton lineup, with Burleigh Grimes pitching.

Dad Jones, veteran pastimer, will do the receiving for the Cardinals.



MOST MEN LIKE GOOD SHOES!

Most men consider quality ahead of price. The assurance that the shoes they choose are absolutely O. K. is the big consideration.

To such men we recommend Stetson Shoes. We have been selling Stetson Shoes in this city for 36 years and know that while they are a little more by the pair, they are much less by the year.

The oxford shown is made in Brown and black Calfskin, at $10.

Rival School Squads Set For Annual Gridiron Clash Saturday

BOONE'S ELEVEN FACES REAL STRUGGLE WITH WILE'S CHESTER LADS

Hanes and McVey, of Reserve Eleven, May be Used on First Squad by Blue and White Mentor as Result of Injuries to Bough and Shaffer; Hancock Countians Expected to Develop Strong Attack.

Despite the fact that the greatest sport spectacle of the year will be in progress in Washington, with the Senators and Pirates vieing for acclaim in the world's series, district football fans will allow their attention to be diverted momentarily to Rock Springs park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the 1925 gridiron meeting of East Liverpool and Chester high schools.

The engagement between the rival institutions takes rank with the chief battles of the schedule, inasmuch as the Hancock countians, this year departing from tradition, are not at all likely to prove a doormat for the cleated feet of rival footballers.

Strength in abundance—a strong offense, a viritable stonewall defense, with a potent air threat and a knowledge of the fine points of the game—all these things were displayed in Chester's first victory of the season in their opening game with Wellsburg a week ago down on the Brooke county school's lot. The Chester eleven won by a two touchdown margin, holding the home guard scoreless.

But the proteges of Coach R. V. Wile, who, by the way, was a four letter man at Geneva college, will find a stronger foe in the Blue and White than they did at Wellsburg, and, at the same time, will be keyed to a higher pitch doubtlessly, than they were for their inaugural tilt.

Rival coaches, products of rival colleges, will be sitting on benches of their rival high school teams. Wile, Geneva star, will be matching gridiron strategy with O. V. Boone, mentor of the Blue and White and former star at Grove City.

Wile, at Chester, has built his team around a five-man combination remaining from last year, and apparently has done a good job of it. He had Miller, end; Campbell, center; Harold Campbell, Pinney and Shaw, backs, from last year's team.

The East Liverpool eleven tomorrow will probably be without the services of Shaffer, quarter, and Bough, tackle, both of whom are suffering from injuries. According to Coach Boone it is likely that Hanes will take Bough's job, but the quarterback post presents a problem which, he announced today, he had not definitely solved.

Boone may use his reserve eleven at the outset of the clash, but the regular lineups will likely be as follows:

East Liverpool.		Chester.
Perry	L. E.	Miller
Banks	L. T.	Rodocker
McKim	L. G.	Kimble
Larkins	C.	C. Campbell
Kinsey	R. G.	Edwards
Hanes	R. T.	Hinds
R. Shaffer	R. E.	Ewing
McVey	Q.	H. Campbell

COMPTON TELLS FRESHMEN HOW

Baldy Compton, 1924 star end of Wittenberg college, is telling freshmen how to play football.

JUNIORS BEATEN BY COLLEGIATES

The Collegiates defeated the Hilltop Junior eleven Wednesday evening, 6-0. Although it was the first game of the esason for both teams, they played a good brand of football throughout. The only score of the tilt followed a line lunge by Smith, of the Collegiates, from the one-yard line. The Collegiates seek games for Wednesdays. Their phone is 1441-J. The lineup:

HUSKERS GIVE WAY TO SPEED

Forward Pass Also Gets Rightful Place at Nebraska.

By WILBUR C. PETERSON.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 9.—Tradition has been woven around the husky teams developed at Nebraska university. It has come to be an accepted belief that any team that represents the Nebraskans will run much to beef.

CAPT ED WEIR

In building up such teams in the past coaches have sacrificed speed. The forward pass, as a method of attack, was given much less attention than in any other of the leading colleges.

This year Ernest Bearg, serving his first year as coach after four years as assistant to Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, is changing things. The Nebraska varsity this year is being selected for speed. The forward pass is being given its rightful place. The team is much lighter.

Sprint Stars in Backfield.

The Husker backfield, composed of John Rhodes, fullback; John Brown and Roland Locke, halfbacks, and Robert Stephens, quarter, is one of the fastest quartets in the Missouri valley. Rhodes does the sprints as a track man in near 10 seconds, while Stephens also comes near that mark. Roland Locke equaled the world's records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes last year.

In the line Captain Weir and Lonnie Stiner play the tackle positions, with Walter Scholz and Frank Pospisil at the guards. At ends appear Joe Weir, and Leon Sprague or Dorsey McIntyre. Roy Mandery and Willard Dover also are good prospects for the wing positions. At center is Harold Hutchison, reputed to be one of the best centers in Cornhusker football history—and Nebraska has had some good ones in Robert Cameron, all-Valley center in 1915 and 1916, and Bill Day, a nominee on a number of all-western mythical teams in 1919 and 1920.

Good Reserve Material.

Reserve material which looks good includes Walter Kriemelmeyer, 225-pound guard; Roy Randels, tackle; Cecil Molzen, guard or tackle; Joe Wostonphal, tackle or center; Clarence Raisch, guard; Merle Zuver, tackle; Lloyd Grow, center; Elfred DuTean, quarter; Arnold Oehlrich, full; Archie Hecht, half; Glen Presnell, half; Avard Mandery, half; Roy Andreson, end.

NEW TYPE OF BACKS FOR HARVARD

Daly, Picking Them, Wants Weight, and Is Getting It

Interest in the Harvard team centers around the work of Major Daly, backfield coach, in developing a combination. Daly wants weight back of the line and has one combination now averaging 187 pounds—Captain Cheek, Al Miller, Clem Coady and Joe Crosby. Stafford is Cheek's rival for quarter, but is light. Harvard has Charley and Eddie Bradford, twins, among its candidates.

TWO BUNTS AND A MORAL

A Lesson From Walter Johnson's Triumph

By Norman E. Brown.

WITH THE WORLD'S SERIES TEAMS, Oct. 9.—Buried deep in the realms of copy written around the opening of the world's series lies a story of two bunts and a moral.

Hughie Jennings, the man who gave Detroit three pennants in a row back in 1907-08-09, tells the tale of the two bunts. They draw their own moral.

During the first of those three heyday years for Detroit, Jennings led his Tigers, one day, against the Washington club. A rookie, tall, willing, raw and eager, faced the Junglemen.

Hughie himself doesn't recall the exact score. But he recalls that the Detroit team beat the rookie—and that two bunts, placed at the youth's feet, spelled his undoing.

That rookie was Walter Johnson.

"Boy, take my word that he had speed that day—burning speed. Speed that made the ball come at you as small as a pea—until it came up to the plate. Then it loomed as big as a balloon—too late to hit," says Jennings, now first aide to John McGraw.

The next time the Detroit club faced Johnson they looked for that speed again, and got it. They figured, too, on beating him the same way—by bunting him "to death."

"We didn't get a bunt off him that second time," says Hughie.

And therein lies the basic secret of Walter Johnson's success, triumphs of 18 years, crowned by two championships in which he played a major part, and two chances to prove more conclusively his greatness as a pitcher.

Johnson himself realized his weakness that day. That fault was corrected. That same spirit dominated his early days in the big show—and still exists.

Johnson studied himself—was his severest critic. He corrected his faults willingly, confident that through such study lay the road to success.

Came the time when he had mastered these defects—in the eyes of the baseball world at least. Then, next, came the day when he found the "smoke" which had sent him on the high road to fame failing him. No, not exactly failing him, but beginning to exact its toll in soreness, fatigue and a crying need for more rest between days on the mound.

It was Johnson who first realized it and proceeded to correct the new fault—the heavy tax on his arm.

And so, today, after 18 years of ceasless training, self imposed, he finds himself still riding the crest—still ranking as baseball's greatest idol.

Men who entered the big leagues when he did—and ten years after—have passed by. Some achieved a fair measure of fame. Some much. But baseball men who know—Jennings, McGraw, Robinson—men who have lived a lifetime in the game, will tell you that most men set their own pace and hold it by the measure of their earnest desire to learn—improve their own game.

W. V. U. CONCLUDES HOME LOT WORK

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Warriors who will wear the moleskins of West Virginia at the new Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon in the annual Mountaineer-University of Pittsburgh football game finished their home field pre-battle work here yesterday afternoon. The next time the Mountaineer regulars put on their uniforms it will be at an unannounced hour this afternoon when they will go through a light workout at the Pitt Stadium. After that brief session the squad will remain in seclusion at its quiet hotel until the kick-off Saturday at 2:30 p. m. The Mountaineers are to be kept away from the crowd of enthusiastic fans.

Head Coach Ira Rodgers has not made any changes in the West Virginia lineup this week, except to work "Sleepy" Glenn at right halfback for Mike Hardy a part of each session, and the team held to a 6-0 score by Davis Elkins is almost sure to be in act at the kick-off Saturday. Trainer Art Smith has all the first string performers in good shape and the Mountaineers will go into the game with their full strength available.

The varsity squad is scheduled to leave for Pittsburgh in a private parlor car over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad this morning at 8:00 o'clock. Members of the freshman team will leave at 5:03 over the Pennsylvania this afternoon and second string varsity, bands, students and hundreds of fans on the special rain Saturday morning at 8:00.

SPEEDING ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

Contractors Expect to Complete Surface Jobs in 30 Days.

Because of favorable weather prevailing, contractors now engaged on road work in this county have been making rather fast progress on all jobs, within the next 30 days it is claimed all surface jobs will have been completed and grading on other contracts will be continued through the earlier winter months, should necessity require.

Interest at this time is centered mainly in the speed of Lewis & Copeland, who have the contract for surfacing the Yellow Creek section of the Wellsville-Salineville road. This job is three and three quarter miles pouring of concrete passed the two mile mark, leaving one and three quarters miles to be completed.

It is the opinion of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk that the pouring of concrete on this entire job will be finished about Oct. 31, according to the present rate of construction.

Residents of Salineville are very much interested in this road and it has been announced by the Good Roads Boosters' club of Salineville that when the new road is thrown open to traffic it is proposed to hold a celebration in Salineville, to be followed by a dinner in honor of county officials, contractors and others who have been active in the construction of an improved highway between Salineville and Wellsville.

The first coat of asphalt has been applied to the Petersburg-Unity road next few days the "seal coat" or the last of the top surfacing will be finished. With this part of the road completed contractors will then begin work in the berms. This road should be ready for traffic within the month, judging from the situation as it now exists.

On the Hanover-Salem road, Contractor J. C. Cain has moved the second steam shovel in on the 4.44-mile job. Only grading and draining are and the road will be surfaced from Hanoverton to connect with the Salem-Winona road, in Butler township next year out of funds that will be provided by the sale of bonds, and as is now outlined in the road program of the county commissioners.

Pouring of concrete has been completed by Frank L. Cox who has the contract for the construction of a 22-foot bridge on the Lincoln highway at Kensington. The former "one-way" bridge has been razed, and the new structure is expected to be open to traffic before the end of October.

16 ADDITIONAL JURORS CALLED

Sixteen additional jurors have been summoned to report for duty next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The list includes:

Forest Mason, Lisbon, R. F. D.; Gus Lintner, Salineville; John J. Smith, Beloit, R. F. D. No. 2; Bernard Kenper, Sr., Frank O'Hanlon, Carlisle D. Mackall, John S. Scott, William G. Pollock and Samuel B. Burgess, all of East Liverpool; Albert Ferrall, Homer Brumgard and James Windle, Columbiana; Edith Evans, Wellsville; Clara Crist, Homeworth; Louis J. Griseb, Arthur Brian, both of Salem.

A number of jurors who have been serving on the petit jury in No. 1 court this week will be continued in service next week, when two branches of common pleas court will be in session.

Have Narrow Escape.

David Eason and Asa Hill, colored, both of Lisbon, narrowly escaped injury when a spindle on the front axle of the automobile Eason was driving broke as it was being driven across the Fort Wayne railroad crossing on the Lisbon-Salem road Wednesday night.

The front of the automobile dropped to the railroad tracks and the machine was pulled off the tracks southward just a few minutes before a fast eastbound passenger train passed over the crossing.

FIVE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Harry Hannan, a farmer of near Lisbon, and Miss Phoebe Stoudt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stoudt, of Salem, and who has been employed as a teacher, have obtained a marriage license. They were married by the Rev. P. W. Macauley, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church.

Richard Harvey Jackson and Miss Laura W. Tullis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey Tullis, both of East Liverpool, have obtained a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Cheeks, of Calcutta.

Bert Woods, a potter, of East Liverpool, and Miss Pearl Gates, also of East Liverpool, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gates, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church by the Rev. J. M. Cameron.

The same minister officiated at the wedding of Lowell J. Whinnery, of Winona, a rural mail carrier, and Miss Esther Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, fo Winona.

A marriage license has been issued to R. V. Miller, of Spencerville, O., a chemist, and Miss Ethel Unger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Unger, of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John G. Reinartz, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

ROAD PROGRAM TO BE DISCUSSED

An exhaustive explanation of the proposed road program as outlined by the county commissioners, and upon which is based the proposed issue of $950,000 bonds, will be given at a meeting of Clarkson grange the evening of October 28.

At this meeting the trustees of Middleton township will appear before the grange, and also L. H. Johnson, clerk of the county commissioners.

Maps showing the roads to be improved will be distributed at this meeting, and particular stress will be laid upon the benefits that will be derived by both Middleton and St. Clair townships.

Trustees of St. Clair township may attend this meeting as guests of the grange.

Construction of the new roads in St. Clair and Middleton townships will in time add greatly to the tax duplicate of both townships, it has been pointed out by some members of Clarkson grange, as the roads will cause considerable new building to be done in both townships.

TALE OF MIGHTY EATER OF ETAH

Old Man of the North Makes Friends With MacMillan's Party.

Washington.—This is the tale of Akkomidingwa, Old Man of the North, once a mighty hunter, and now a mighty eater and patriarch of Etah, as told by Maynard Owen Williams of the MacMillan Arctic expedition forwarded by "the machine that talks through the air," as the Eskimos call it, to the National Geographic society at Washington.

The amateur radio operator, who relayed the message, was A. W. Everest of station 1 ARE, at Pittsfield, Mass.

"Although it is known as the most northerly settlement in the world, Etah's population is unstable," the message says.

"Tupik and igloo, summer tent and winter rock house, are not always in the same location. The Eskimo, still a hunter, moves his dwellings to sea or hill according to whether he is pursuing the savage walrus or searching his stone or metal traps for blue foxes or other game. Summer or winter there are likely to be Eskimo settlements at Anoritok and other places farther north.

Not Afraid of Work.

"The dean of Etah society, by living the year round in a rock igloo at the inner break of the Etah harbor, Boomerang, enables Etah to maintain its reputation. When there was work to be done in assembling the planes, this old Eskimo chose for himself a convenient viewpoint and restricted his heavy labor to overseeing the job of paring a new back plaster whose presence was proclaimed only by his peculiar stoop.

"Akkomidingwa came to be known as Old-Crick-in-the-Back. He is father of the tribe's best hunter, Nookapingwa. The old man has staked out for himself a sitting-out job and taken into his home as partner and helpmate a seventeen-year-old girl whose industry is as unnoticeable as his own.

"As an eater, Akkomidingwa is without a peer among the Smith Sound Eskimos and he is as regular with his meals as there are meals. Acquisitive by nature, his stomach, acting as general staff of operations, looks out for itself first.

"When I first heard of him he was reputed the greatest 'bummer' and beggar among a people whose way of inviting themselves to partake of the white man's food might beget more censure were it not for the fact that when opportunity arises they are as eager to share their own as another's.

"Akkomidingwa is as clever as any of his juniors and has a real sense of humor. His head not only serves his feet and his stomach, but contains a craftiness that he is ready to place at the disposal of his friends. When a visitor wants a section of walrus tusk made into a gavel head bearing the insignia of his lodge, Akkomidingwa is the one who can do the job.

"He conceived a real friendship for Doctor Davidoff (Dr. Leo Davidoff of Boston), and in return for professional services rendered, which not only relieved the aches of age but also gave the old man a certain standing in his own community, he made a generous present for which he obstinately refused any return. Koels also won his admiration and our ichthyologist proclaims that he has never detected a sign of the mercenary in the old man's makeup.

Weeps for Son.

"When Nookapingwa sailed with Captain Bernier for Ellesmere island on the Canadian patrol steamer, the Arctic, Akkomidingwa shed real tears, not so much at the temporary loss of his meal ticket, for Nookapingwa's caches of walrus meat will always be at his father's disposal, as at the thought that they may never meet again. Akkomidingwa, clever at keeping inside the law, is committing that unpardonable sin against the cruel North. He is getting old.

"When Akkomidingwa salvages gasoline boxes and coffee cans from the wreckage of expedition work, some of his fellows think him stingy and grasping, but it is really foresight which prompts him to gather fuel for his American cook stove, also salvaged in other years, so that his rock igloo, embellished by his youthful mate and the colorful labels from cans which to him are not entirely legendary fruits, will not be without cheer in that day when cold and hunger exact their toll and the dean of the Smith Sound Eskimos of Etah goes home; let us hope to a land where the joys of the stomach are not unknown.

"It was not mere chance that enabled Captain MacMillan to picture for geographic readers the Eskimo patriarch in the act of eating. That is one task in which Akkomidingwa, whose hard work has long since, if ever, been done, is still a leader without a peer."

Stork Fancies May 6

Port Townsend, Wash.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas Johnson of this city have no difficulty in remembering the birthdays of their three children. Bernice Marian, the eldest, was born May 6, 1920, and three years later, Elizabeth Julia made her appearance on the same date. Little Olive Nona kept up the family regularity as to birthdays by arriving on May 6 this year.

MOUND REVEALS PERIOD OF PEACE

Explorers Make Important Discoveries Regarding Ancient Race.

Chillicothe, Ohio.—The autumn season with its uncertain weather conditions called a halt to the excavations in the Siep mound near Bainbridge just as archeologists announced they had made one of the greatest finds in the history of their explorations into the works of the American mound builders.

Until next spring the three-fourths of the mound which has not yet been opened will retain the secret it has held for centuries. During the winter the curators of the Ohio archeological and historical society, Columbus, will study their findings in the burial place of the "Princess of the Pearls."

Bodies to Be Arranged as Found.

The skeletons of the four supposed princes were removed from the platform on which they have long rested, preparatory to their transfer to the society's museum in Columbus. At the museum the bodies will be arranged as they were found a few days ago by H. C. Shetrone, archeological curator.

An ornament which is thought to be an instrument similar to the "pipes of pan" will be studied. If the ornament turns out to be an instrument, it will be the first time any record of the mound builders' musical inclinations has been found.

The discovery of a piece of colored cloth in the mausoleum of the four supposed princes wrote a new chapter in the endeavors of archeologists, for cloth has never before been found in the mounds. Besides the finding of the cloth, imprints of a canopy of fabric were found on the ceiling of the tomb. The intact piece of fabric was found under a copper plate beneath the skull of one of the skeletons. It bore circular designs done in colors of tan, green, black and white, it appeared. When exposed to the warm air, the fabric began to crumble, but not before artists had sketched the design and it had been photographed.

Quarts of Pearls About Bodies.

The early contention of the explorers that the four bodies had been shrouded in a fabric of pearls of varying sizes was borne out by later explorations. When the skeletons were lifted from their resting places, it was found that they had lain on a layer of small pearls, all pierced as if they had been strung or woven together. Several quarts of pearls were swept up and stored away for transportation to the museum.

Pieces of fragments of tortoise shell, etched with figures of birds and highly burnished, were uncovered with the bodies. The figure of a swan cut from tortoise shell was found. A necklace of tusks, some of which are the largest ever found in Ohio, was unearthed. There were no weapons found buried with the dead. Curator Shetrone said the absence of weapons in the tomb is another evidence that the mound builders were a peaceable people more devoted to art than other ancient races.

Bear Attacks Driver Who Knocked Him Down

Yakima, Wash.—Big game hunting by automobile is not so good, L. D. Gaines, driver of an oil truck, is convinced after an encounter he had with a black bear while on the Rimrock road in the Cascade mountains, east of here, recently.

When first seen, the animal was loping along the highway ahead of him, Gaines related. Speeding up his machine, Gaines forced the creature toward the rocks at one edge of the road. Suddenly turning, the bear sprang onto the hood of the truck, but skidded off, fell under the wheels, and lay still.

To take home proof of his prowess, Gaines returned and grasped the bear by an ear. The truck massage, however, had not killed, only dazed him, and the animal sprang up with an angry "Woof!"

At this point Gaines decided to allow the bear his life and liberty, and sped back to his machine without dignity and only a part of his trousers. The bear disappeared up a canyon.

Cricket in Cage Sings All Way From Japan

Seattle, Wash.—Penned in a tiny bamboo cage, fashioned to resemble a Japanese cottage, a diminutive cricket sang with fervor and enthusiasm all the way across the Pacific ocean. His small dwelling swung from a branch of a dwarfed pine tree, no higher than 18 inches but very old in years, and the roll of the ship gave the little pine a realistic swaying motion of the Nippon breezes.

The singing cricket arrived here on the Arizona Maru, the first consignment of a new industry on the coast. The cricket is no more than an inch long, but its voice is of great size and sweetness. They are to be sold in shops throughout the United States.

Murders in Mexico

Acapulco, Guerrero, Mex. — Statistics compiled by the office of the chief of military operations in this state show that, while the courts had light calendars, 143 persons had taken the law into their own hands and executed death sentences upon their enemies during the month of April.

Makes Melon Claim.

NEW WINCHESTER — William McCracken, local melon grower, today laid claim to raising the smallest watermelon in Ohio. The specimen, an Emerald Gem melon, weighs less than an ounce and is perfect in form. McCracken, who has raised tiny melons in previous years, claims they are very good to eat. This year's little melon looks more like a top watermelon than a real member of the cucumber family.

Youth Saves Six When Car Goes Into Lake

Armonk, N. Y.—A high school boy, seventeen years of age, was revealed as the modest hero who saved the lives of six persons—three of them children—in a sedan which was crowded off the road here and plunged into Kensico lake.

The boy is Richard Craig, a student at White Plains high school. He was in a car driven by George De Nault, champion sprinter of the high school, a few hundred feet behind the one which went off the road. Seeing the sedan go crashing through the trees down a 20-foot embankment and plunge into 12 feet of water, he jumped out of the car, stripped off his coat and dived in.

He succeeded in opening one of the doors of the submerged car and dragging the children one by one to safety. Then he took all six in his car to White Plains hospital for treatment.

TALE OF MIGHTY EATER OF ETAH

Old Man of the North Makes Friends With MacMillan's Party.

Washington.—This is the tale of Akkomidingwa, Old Man of the North, once a mighty hunter, and now a mighty eater and patriarch of Etah, as told by Maynard Owen Williams of the MacMillan Arctic expedition forwarded by "the machine that talks through the air," as the Eskimos call it, to the National Geographic society at Washington.

The amateur radio operator, who relayed the message, was A. W. Everest of station 1 ARE, at Pittsfield, Mass.

"Although it is known as the most northerly settlement in the world, Etah's population is unstable," the message says.

"Tupik and igloo, summer tent and winter rock house, are not always in the same location. The Eskimo, still a hunter, moves his dwellings to sea or hill according to whether he is pursuing the savage walrus or searching his stone or metal traps for blue foxes or other game. Summer or winter there are likely to be Eskimo settlements at Anoritok and other places farther north.

Not Afraid of Work.

"The dean of Etah society, by living the year round in a rock igloo at the inner brenk of the Etah harbor, Boomerang, enables Etah to maintain its reputation. When there was work to be done in assembling the planes, this old Eskimo chose for himself a convenient viewpoint and restricted his heavy labor to overseeing the job of paring a new back plaster whose presence was proclaimed only by his peculiar stoop.

"Akkomidingwa came to be known as Old-Crick-in-the-Back. He is father of the tribe's best hunter, Nookapingwa. The old man has staked out for himself a sitting-out job and taken into his home as partner and helpmate a seventeen-year-old girl whose industry is as unnoticeable as his own.

"As an eater, Akkomidingwa is without a peer among the Smith Sound Eskimos and he is as regular with his meals as there are meals. Acquisitive by nature, his stomach, acting as general staff of operations, looks out for itself first.

"When I first heard of him he was reputed the greatest 'bummer' and beggar among a people whose way of inviting themselves to partake of the white man's food might beget more censure were it not for the fact that when opportunity arises they are as eager to share their own as another's.

"Akkomidingwa is as clever as any of his juniors and has a real sense of humor. His head not only serves his feet and his stomach, but contains a craftiness that he is ready to place at the disposal of his friends. When a visitor wants a section of walrus tusk made into a gavel head bearing the insignia of his lodge, Akkomidingwa is the one who can do the job.

"He conceived a real friendship for Doctor Davidoff (Dr. Leo Davidoff of Boston), and in return for professional services rendered, which not only relieved the aches of age but also gave the old man a certain standing in his own community, he made a generous present for which he obstinately refused any return. Koelz also won his admiration and our ichthyologist proclaims that he has never detected a sign of the mercenary in the old man's makeup.

Weeps for Son.

"When Nookapingwa sailed with Captain Bernier for Ellesmere island on the Canadian patrol steamer, the Arctic, Akkomidingwa shed real tears, not so much at the temporary loss of his meal ticket, for Nookapinwa's caches of walrus meat will always be at his father's disposal, as at the thought that they may never meet again. Akkomidingwa, clever at keeping inside the law, is committing that unpardonable sin against the cruel North. He is getting old.

"When Akkomidingwa salvages gasoline boxes and coffee cans from the wreckage of expedition work, some of his fellows think him stingy and grasping, but it is really foresight which prompts him to gather fuel for his American cook stove, also salvaged in other years, so that his rock igloo, embellished by his youthful mate and the colorful labels from cans which to him are not entirely legendary fruits, will not be without cheer in that day when cold and hunger exact their toll and the dean of the Smith Sound Eskimos of Etah goes home; let us hope to a land where the joys of the stomach are not unknown.

"It was not mere chance that enabled Captain MacMillan to picture for geographic readers the Eskimo patriarch in the act of eating. That is one task in which Akkomidingwa, whose hard work has long since, if ever, been done, is still a leader without a peer."

Stork Fancies May 6

Port Townsend, Wash.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas Johnson of this city have no difficulty in remembering the birthdays of their three children. Bernice Marian, the eldest, was born May 6, 1920, and three years later, Elizabeth Julia made her appearance on the same date. Little Olive Nona kept up the family regularity as to birthdays by arriving on May 6 this year.

MOUND REVEALS PERIOD OF PEACE

Explorers Make Important Discoveries Regarding Ancient Race.

Chillicothe, Ohio.—The autumn season with its uncertain weather conditions called a halt to the excavations in the Siep mound near Bainbridge just as archeologists announced they had made one of the greatest finds in the history of their explorations into the works of the American mound builders.

Until next spring the three-fourths of the mound which has not yet been opened will retain the secret it has held for centuries. During the winter the curators of the Ohio archeological and historical society, Columbus, will study their findings in the burial place of the "Princess of the Pearls."

Bodies to Be Arranged as Found.

The skeletons of the four supposed princes were removed from the platform on which they have long rested, preparatory to their transfer to the society's museum in Columbus. At the museum the bodies will be arranged as they were found a few days ago by H. C. Shetrone, archeological curator.

An ornament which is thought to be an instrument similar to the "pipes of pan" will be studied. If the ornament turns out to be an instrument, it will be the first time any record of the mound builders' musical inclinations has been found.

The discovery of a piece of colored cloth in the mausoleum of the four supposed princes wrote a new chapter in the endeavors of archeologists, for cloth has never before been found in the mounds. Besides the finding of the cloth, imprints of a canopy of fabric were found on the ceiling of the tomb. The intact piece of fabric was found under a copper plate beneath the skull of one of the skeletons. It bore circular designs done in colors of tan, green, black and white, it appeared. When exposed to the warm air, the fabric began to crumble, but not before artists had sketched the design and it had been photographed.

Quarts of Pearls About Bodies.

The early contention of the explorers that the four bodies had been shrouded in a fabric of pearls of varying sizes was borne out by later explorations. When the skeletons were lifted from their resting places, it was found that they had lain on a layer of small pearls, all pierced as if they had been strung or woven together. Several quarts of pearls were swept up and stored away for transportation to the ...eum.

...es of fragments of tortoise ...etched with figures of birds and ...ily burnished, were uncovered with the bodies. The figure of a swan cut from tortoise shell was found. A necklace of tusks, some of which are the largest ever found in Ohio, was unearthed. There were no weapons found buried with the dead. Curator Shetrone said the absence of weapons in the tomb is another evidence that the mound builders were a peaceable people more devoted to art than other ancient races.

Bear Attacks Driver Who Knocked Him Down

Yakima, Wash.—Big game hunting by automobile is not so good, L. D. Gaines, driver of an oil truck, is convinced after an encounter he had with a black bear while on the Rimrock road in the Cascade mountains, east of here, recently.

When first seen, the animal was loping along the highway ahead of him, Gaines related. Speeding up his machine, Gaines forced the creature toward the rocks at one edge of the road. Suddenly turning, the bear sprang onto the hood of the truck, but skidded off, fell under the wheels, and lay still.

To take home proof of his prowess, Gaines returned and grasped the bear by an ear. The truck massage, however, had not killed, only dazed him, and the animal sprang up with an angry "Woof!"

At this point Gaines decided to allow the bear his life and liberty, and sped back to his machine without dignity and only a part of his trousers. The bear disappeared up a canyon.

Cricket in Cage Sings All Way From Japan

Seattle, Wash.—Penned in a tiny bamboo cage, fashioned to resemble a Japanese cottage, a diminutive cricket sang with fervor and enthusiasm all the way across the Pacific ocean. His small dwelling swung from a branch of a dwarfed pine tree, no higher than 18 inches but very old in years, and the roll of the ship gave the little pine a realistic swaying motion of the Nippon breezes.

The singing cricket arrived here on the Arizona Maru, the first consignment of a new industry on the coast. The cricket is no more than an inch long, but its voice is of great size and sweetness. They are to be sold in shops throughout the United States.

Murders in Mexico

Acapulco, Guerrero, Mex. — Statistics compiled by the office of the chief of military operations in this state show that, while the courts had light calendars, 143 persons had taken the law into their own hands and executed death sentences upon their enemies during the month of April.

Makes Melon Claim.

NEW WINCHESTER — William McCracken, local melon grower, today laid claim to raising the smallest watermelon in Ohio. The specimen, an Emerald Gem melon, weighs less than an ounce and is perfect in form. McCracken, who has raised tiny melons in previous years, claims they are very good to eat. This year's little melon looks more like a top watermelon than a real member of the cucumber family.

Youth Saves Six When Car Goes Into Lake

Armonk, N. Y.—A high school boy, seventeen years of age, was revealed as the modest hero who saved the lives of six persons—three of them children—in a sedan which was crowded off the road here and plunged into Kensico lake.

The boy is Richard Craig, a student at White Plains high school. He was in a car driven by George De Nault, champion sprinter of the high school, a few hundred feet behind the one which went off the road. Seeing the sedan go crashing through the trees down a 20-foot embankment and plunge into 12 feet of water, he jumped out of the car, stripped off his coat and dived in.

He succeeded in opening one of the doors of the submerged car and dragging the children one by one to safety. Then he took all six in his car to White Plains hospital for treatment.

Army-Navy Flyers Depend On Daily Weather Reports

Special Meteorological Service Saves Lives of Many Airmen Capital Learns.

WASHINGTON—Army and navy aviators as well as those who carry the mails through the air receive a special meteorological service from the weather bureau and this daily service has undoubtedly saved the lives of many flyers, it was learned today.

Special accommodations are provided in the forecast room of the weather bureau here for representatives of the air services of the army and navy. Telegraphic weather reports come in twice a day to the forecastr from 275 observig stations in all parts of the country and from Canada. As fast as they are received, representatives of military flying services copy on their charts any information important to aviators and telephone the route forecasts directly to certain flying fields. At times special service is asked for and received by fields undertaking some unusual flying feat.

Warned of Danger.

Conditions which are unsual or dangerous for flyers receive prompt attention at the Washington forecasting station and at each of hte other four district forecast ceters located at Chicago, New Orleans, Denver and San Francisco. Weather information, forecasts and warnings for the group of states comprised within a district are issued from these centers, always with aviation interests in mind. Direct service is given as conditions and facilities warrant. Local service is also rendered by officials at about 135 field stations of the weather bureau.

Weather bureau experts point out that it must be boren in mind that in connection with the hazards of flying that the most any meteorological service can do is to give information and warnings. They say that aviators frequently disregard warnings of approaching storms or other poor flying conditions, believing themselves competent to fly in spite of unfavorable weather, just as a ship's captain may put out to sea fully armed with knowledge of bad conditions ahead, but sure of his ability to manage his vessel nevertheless, or hoping for better conditions than those predicted.

Radio Service Supplied.

Radio service is supplied twice daily for the benefit of marine and aviation interests on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Weather bulletins and forecasts are broadcast from the naval radio station at Arlington, Va., at 10:30 a. m. and at 10:30 p. m. They consist of reports on surface conditions and upper air data based on the regular 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. observations of the Weather Bureau. These bulletins include any reports received too late for the regular morning or evening forecast and as a second feature summarize general atmospheric conditions barometric readings at "high and low centers," wind and weather forecasts for offshore areas, storm warnings and flying weather forecasts, for each of the six aviation zones. During the hurricane season additional ship reports are received by radio from the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea and distributed in connection with this service.

Detailed Forecasts Made.

Aviators flying in any of the three zones served by the special Pacific bulletins issued from the San Francisco radio station receive information about 9 a. m. on 5 o'clock observations of the same day, and at 7:30 p. m., based on 5 p. m. observations, except for those taken at Alaska, Honolulu, Guam, Manila, China and Japan at slightly diffeernt hours.

After Darrow's Legal Laurels

William Scott Stewart, (above), youthful Chicagoan, bids fair to eclipse the fame of Clarence Darrow as a criminal lawyer. He cleared William D. Shepherd, alleged germ murderer; saved Bernard Grant from the gallows; and was the father of the insanity plea that saved Gene Geary. Now he is defending Wesley Westbrook, accused in the alleged Druggan-Lake jail delivery plot.

Specific and more detailed forecasts are made each morning and evening for definite flying routes, to supplement the zone forecasts distributed by radio. These route include the model airway and many routes such as Washington to Norfolk, Washington to Dayton, Ranton to Detroit. Last year arrangements weer made to provide special forecasts for the trans-continental air mail service, especially to aid night.

These forecasts are issued by the district forecasters at Chicago for two sections of the route. One is from Bryan, O., to Omaha, and the other is from Omaha to Rock Springs, Wyoming. The forecasts and weather information are made available to both East and West bound fliers at Omaha.

Danish state railways' profits are mounting rapidly.

Man in Maine Sets Record by Breaking Into Town Prison

RUMFORD, Me.—Some men try to break out of jail; but not Thomas Kelly, of this town. He tried to break in.

"You have kept me in jail all summer and now put me there for the winter," Kelly declared, as he struck Judge James B. Stevenson, of Rumford Falls municipal court, three times, bruising the magistrate's face.

Kelly entered the judge's office and after he had made his plea to be kept in jail he committed the assault. During the past summer Kelly was arraigned before Judge Stevenson on several occasions charged with drunkenness and he spent the best part of the summer in South Paris jail for such offenses.

Accompanied only by a woman cook and a dog, Miss Frances Knowles-Foster, of England, is touring the Baltic in her fifteen-foot yacht.

FOKKER PLANE AIMS TO MEET NEED FOR LONG DISTANCE NIGHT FLYING

AMSTERDAM—M. Fokker, the famous Dutch aircraft designer, who recently returned from the United States has just given a demonstration of his new aeroplane which he has designed to meet American demands for long-distance and night flying.

The demonstration and trial flight was successful and the aeroplane was forthwith shipped to the United States as a forerunner to several which America has ordered from Fokker. The machine is a triple-engined noe, and during the test eight passengers were carried.

Each of the three engines was stopped in turn during the flight while for some considerable time the aeroplane was not under control, proving Fokker's claim that the aeroplane his inherent stability.

Plane Built on Lines Of Sea Flea Built By Paris Resident

LONDON.—A seaplane built on the lines of the strange insect known to scientists as the sea flea, which travels over the water in a series of tremendous hops, has been constructed by a Frenchman named deGasenco, in Paris.

The machine, like the insect, has two leg-like appendages with floats as feet, and de Gasenco hopes that these will propel his plane, himself and his dog in a series of giant leaps to America in ten days.

Ohio Hamlet of 67 Persons Will Sell Birthright At Fall Election

Vote on Plan to Have Town Government Dispensed With and Property Again Classed as Farm Land.

MONROE FALLS, O.—This hamlet of 67 persons will sell its birthright at the November election for a mess of pottage in the form of improvements.

The town was incorporated four years ago upon appeal to the Summit county commissioners at Akron. Not being of sufficient size to finance municipal improvements, the citizens have decided to abandon their separate government and thereby obtain road improvements at least.

Although four years old, the community has never indulged in the delights of electing municipal officials. An election will be held in November however, the ticket being put up for the purpose of voting next January to have the town government dispensed with and the property again classed as farm land.

The town is unable to improve its streets because of lack of sufficient funds. One the incorporation ceases to exist, it is expected various other improvements may be obtained in the form of public utility service.

Only one ticket has been filed for the election in November. Once the village officials are elected nad have qualified, it is expected that council will proceed to vote the town out of existence.

Friend of King Dead.

LONDON.—Once a friend of the late King Edward and a wealthy shipping magnate, Walter W. Butler has just died in poverty at the poorhouse.

He was once worth a fortune of $5,000,000, but lost it all due to post-war industrial depression.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! Even constipated, bilious, feverish, or sick, colic Babies and Children love to take genuine "California Fig Syrup." No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without griping. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which contains directions.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creasote that is pleasant to take. Creomulson is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it sooths and heals the inflammed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Army-Navy Flyers Depend On Daily Weather Reports

Special Meteorological Service Saves Lives of Many Airmen Capital Learns.

WASHINGTON—Army and navy aviators as well as those who carry the mails through the air receive a special meteorological service from the weather bureau and this daily service has undoubtedly saved the lives of many flyers, it was learned today.

Special accommodations are provided in the forecast room of the weather bureau here for representatives of the air services of the army and navy. Telegraphic weather reports come in twice a day to the forecastr from 275 observig stations in all parts of the country and from Canada. As fast as they are received, representatives of military flying services copy on their charts any information important to aviators and telephone the route forecasts directly to certain flying fields. At times special service is asked for and received by fields undertaking some unusual flying feat.

Warned of Danger.

Conditions which are unsual or dangerous for flyers receive prompt attention at the Washington forecasting station and at each of hte other four district forecast ceters located at Chicago, New Orleans, Denver and San Francisco. Weather information, forecasts and warnings for the group of states comprised within a district are issued from these centers, always with aviation interests in mind. Direct service is given as conditions and facilities warrant. Local service is also rendered by officials at about 135 field stations of the weather bureau.

Weather bureau experts point out that it must be boren in mind that in connection with the hazards of flying that the most any meteorological service can do is to give information and warnings. They say that aviators frequently disregard warnings of approaching storms or other poor flying conditions, believing themselves competent to fly in spite of unfavorable weather, just as a ship's captain may put out to sea fully armed with knowledge of bad conditions ahead, but sure of his ability to manage his vessel nevertheless, or hoping for better conditions than those predicted.

Radio Service Supplied.

Radio service is supplied twice daily for the benefit of marine and aviation interests on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Weather bulletins and forecasts are broadcast from the naval radio station at Arlington, Va., at 10:20 a. m. and at 10:30 p. m. They consist of reports on surface conditions and upper air data based on the regular 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. observations of the Weather Bureau. These bulletins include any reports received too late for the regular morning or evening forecast and as a second feature summarize general atmospheric conditions barometric readings at "high and low centers," wind and weather forecasts for offshore areas, storm warnings and flying weather forecasts, for each of the six aviation zones. During the hurricane season additional ship reports are received by radio from the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea and distributed in connection with this service.

Detailed Forecasts Made.

Aviators flying in any of the three zones served by the special Pacific bulletins issued from the San Francisco radio station receive information about 9 a. m. on 5 o'clock observations of the same day, and at 7:30 p. m., based on 5 p. m. observations, except for those taken at Alaska, Honolulu, Guam, Manila, China and Japan at slightly differnt hours.

Specific and more detailed forecasts are made each morning and evening for definite flying routes, to supplement the zone forecasts distributed by radio. These route include the model airway and many routes such as Washington to Norfolk, Washington to Dayton, Ranton to Detroit. Last year arrangements weer made to provide special forecasts for the trans-continental air mail service, especially to aid night.

These forecasts are issued by the district forecasters at Chicago for two sections of the route. One is from Bryan, O., to Omaha, and the other is from Omaha to Rock Springs, Wyoming. The forecasts and weather information are made available to both East and West bound fliers at Omaha.

After Darrow's Legal Laurels

William Scott Stewart, (above), youthful Chicagoan, bids fair to eclipse the fame of Clarence Darrow as a criminal lawyer. He cleared William D. Shepherd, alleged germ murderer; saved Bernard Grant from the gallows; and was the father of the insanity plea that saved Gene Geary. Now he is defending Wesley Westbrook, accused in the alleged Druggan-Lake jail delivery plot.

Danish state railways' profits are mounting rapidly.

Man in Maine Sets Record by Breaking Into Town Prison

RUMFORD, Me.—Some men try to break out of jail; but not Thomas Kelly, of this town. He tried to break in.

"You have kept me in jail all summer and now put me there for the winter," Kelly declared, as he struck Judge James B. Stevenson, of Rumford Falls municipal court, three times, bruising the magistrate's face.

Kelly entered the judge's office and after he had made his plea to be kept in jail he committed the assault. During the past summer Kelly was arraigned before Judge Stevenson on several occasions charged with drunkenness and he spent the best part of the summer in South Paris jail for such offenses.

Accompanied only by a woman cook and a dog, Miss Frances Knowles-Foster, of England, is touring the Baltic in her fifteen-foot yacht.

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Poe Norris

CHAPTER 64.

Amoura gasped as her companion, managing at last to grasp the dog by the neck, knocking the breath out by hurling it against a tree. She could see the youth's hands were bleeding.

"Hide, hide!" he commanded hoarsely.

The men who had been trailing the dog's barks paused now, lost for the moment, and called out sharply from a short distance away. "Carlo! Carlo!" The dog, numb, heard and summoned enough strength for one more bark, accompanied by a weak lurch at his human antagonist. That was enough to set the pursuers aright, and they came toward Amoura's hiding place flashing a light.

The youth hurriedly pushed Amoura further back into the underbrush and moved from her place of concealment to brush his clothes. When the pursuers came upon him, he stood up calmly.

"What the hell's the matter with your dog, Burke? He ought to know me."

The man thus addressed eyes him suspiciously.

The youth waved a hand toward the tree. "There he is, just knocked the breath out of him, I guess." He continued to dust and arrange his clothes nonchalantly. Burke picked up the animal and petted him on the head. The suffering dog opened one eye.

The other two men, each armed, went over to look on, but kept their eyes on the youth.

Burke whirled around. "If you've killed him. I'll kill you. What were you doing in this part of the woods anyway?"

"I guess I lost my way, Burke," he answered without hesitation.

"Why weren't you around to help load the trucks?" Burke queried again, keeping his eyes upon the other in an unrelenting gaze.

"That's why. I went to town to get some cigarettes, and I lost my way coming back, I guess."

"You guess, huh?" One of the other men put in, threateningly.

"Shut up, Carl. Leave Johnson alone. Amoura, her heart pounding, heard the conversation from her concealment. So his name was Johnson! Who were these armed men? She was seized with the thought that she must flee, and looked around her for a passage. To get out any other way than the one she had come meant to push through heavy undergrowth. That would be noisy and slow. No, she must wait. But she was determined to fight until her strength was exhausted.

The dog showed signs of returning to activity. He licked his master's hand, and blinked at the firelight held on him. Then, seeing Johnson, he growled menacingly.

"Quit it, Carlo." Burke's voice stilled the dog, but did not dim the fires in the animal's eyes.

"Well, come on, fellows, time to get moving. . . . ," Bure said. Johnson followed without hesitation, as Burke turned to him and explained, "We thought that Carlo had treed a damned dry raider. . . . They'll be marching an army out here to get us one of these days, I guess."

The companion he had addressed as Carl laughed. "We'll all be rich by then. Let 'em come." Johnson laughed as loudly as the rest.

Left alone, Amoura waited for Johnson to return. She realized that he could not remain behind, and expected him to use some decive to return to her. After what seemed to her fifteen minutes, but was in reality only two or three she stirred out of her uncomfortable hiding place and stood up on the scene of Johnson's fight with the dog. It was, lucky, she thought, that Burke had continued to hold the dog, else the animal would have gone sniffing around and betrayed her.

Fearful of recapture, she decided to flee unaided, and tried to follow in the direction the men had just gone. A few minutes later she regretted her decision, for she fell over a stump, and shook the dry leaves of a dead bush, sending up a racket in the still night air. The dog resumed his barking.

The heart of Johnson, walking with the men, leaped. Burke stopped, and listened. "What the hell?" The dog fought to be released. Doubtfully Burke set him afoot and the animal dived into the brush and was off, barking, with the men following him, Johnson in the lead.

In a moment the barks ceased and all was quiet. They searched for fifteen minutes, but could find no trace of Burke's pet, and the woods yielded no evidence of the kidnaped girl to Johnson. She had vanished.

Puff Ball Exhibited.

BUCYRUS, O.—A gigantic puff ball, weighing 14 pounds, and nearly a yard in diameter, was being exhibited today in a window of the Telegraph-Rorum. It was found and brought here by Russell Houseberg and Jim McCormick, who were on a timber buying trip near Sulphur Springs, when they came across the record-breaking fungus.

Two people fall in love with each other. They have joint affection. Why, then, isn't rheumatism the same as love?—Fostoria Times.

MUELLER Furnacette

BECAUSE it is the joint creation of master furniture designers and expert furnace engineers, the Furnacette excels both as a piece of fine living room furniture and as a dependable heating plant. It provides cozy comfort and adds to the attractiveness of any home. The Furnacette heats the whole house comfortably and economically. It heats by continuous re-circulation of warm, moist air, like a warm air furance, not by radiation, like a stove. It does the work of two or three heating stoves yet uses no more fuel than one.

Come in and see the Furnacette. Let us show you its many exclusive, interesting features.

Trotter's Store Celebrates Its Forty-Third Birthday

Remodeling Sale Begins in Dresden Avenue Building on Anniversary of Company's Formal Opening on Small Scale in Calcutta.

Marking the anniversary of a modest beginning in a small grocery store in Calcutta 43 years ago by J. A. Trotter, senior member of the firm, and his father, the J. A. Trotter company, hardware and implement dealers, today launched a remodeling sale in their Dresden avenue establishment.

The record of the business has been one of consistent progress from its inception until today it has grown to be an important factor in the economic life of the city. The store and its policy proved a success from the outset. It won and held the confidence of the community.

New and larger quarters were secured, and the policy of complete service to all was inaugurated. Farm implements, wagons, and vehicles, of all kinds were handled. Farm supplies were featured.

Again these quarters proved to be inadequate, and larger buildings were erected. The business continued to thrive as a general country store, until 1898, when the wiedning circle of customers and the large volume of goods being handled forced the company to seek a new location and better shipping facilities.

A three-story frame building was erected at the former location in St. Clair avenue, near the Horn switch. This central location gave ready access to a much larger territory. The old patrons followed, and new ones were added with astonishing rapidity. The reputation of the firm for prompt and efficient service causing the manufacturers in East Liverpool and surrounding towns to forward orders for factory supplies. "Trotter's" soon became known as the store that could, and would, furnish anything.

By 1910 the business had so completely outgrown the St. Clair avenue quarters that it was found necessary to enlarge still further and the site of the present home, then the Red Men's building was acquired. The old site was enlarged and remodeled and a new building on Green lane erected, giving the company four stories and a basement running from Dresden avenue to Green lane.

Five years later a large four-story warehouse on Smith street and Green lane, with switching facilities, was purchased from the Davidson Wholesale Grocers. This, together with the store building at 624 Dresden avenue, took care of the needs of the company until the development of the Chevrolet business made it necessary to provide room for that department which was done by the erection of the three-story fire-proof building just south of the Diamond, and known as the Trotter-Chevrolet building.

The continual adding of new departments has now brought about such a crowded condition that the company has decided upon a complete remodeling of its Dresden avenue store.

Frames Kidnaping to Deceive Unloved Fiance

Detroit, Mich.—So that she might marry a suitor other than the one to whom she had been promised by her mother, Rose Trentacosta, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sophie Trentacosta, was "kidnaped" from her home with consent and through connivance of her mother.

This, the police theory of the kidnaping, has been confirmed by a special delivery letter from the girl, in which she requests the police to forget it," and by the admission of Mrs. Trentacosta to two detectives that she planned the affair for her daughter.

Lieut. Edward Dadtke and Detective John Davies of the blackhand squad, who investigated the "kidnaping," reported that Mrs. Trentacosta admitted the "frame-up."

Rose was engaged to Tony Manaici. But Peter Vitale came and to Rose and her mother his offer of marriage seemed more advantageous than Tony's.

One day they sat down with Peter and arranged that he and three of his friends should kidnap Rose. In this way Tony was deceived.

Cites Her Plainness to Prove Innocence

New York. — Lack of feminine charms was advanced by Mrs. Cora M. Dorian in Supreme court as one reason her husband's charge of unfaithfulness should not be believed, when she asked Justice Walsh through her attorney not to set aside the alimony awarded to her when she won a separation from her husband.

"I am forty-nine years of age, I am five feet two inches in height, and I weigh 140 pounds," her affidavit to Justice Walsh read. "I have defective eyesight, wear glasses and am slightly deaf. I confess I am not comely to look upon."

Justice Walsh decided her husband must continue to support her until he can prove in court the charge upon which he bases his divorce suit.

Mrs. Dorian was awarded $45 a week alimony. Dr. John S. Dorian, the husband, charges that, July 17, when he and two others broke into her apartment, she was found with another man.

When You Put Your Money In Real Estate—

INVEST

FISHER PARK IS 100% SAFE REAL ESTATE

THE DAY of speculation in real estate is rapidly disappearing. Real Estate investors today know if they follow certain fundamental rules governing realty investment, the safety of their money is never in doubt and the amount of their profit depends entirely upon time.

HERE ARE the investment fundamentals: Buy vacant land rightly located, on main traffic highways, adjoining other developments,—land that is improved and restricted, land that is NEEDED and for which a use exists. Buy that land at the RIGHT PRICE.

FISHER PARK possesses every qualification for SAFE and PROFITABLE investment. Thus it is good property to buy and if you will read Roger Babson's advice to realty investors you will find that FISHER PARK in every detail answers his description of a superlatively good investment.

Frames Kidnaping to Deceive Unloved Fiance

Detroit, Mich.—So that she might marry a suitor other than the one to whom she had been promised by her mother, Rose Trentacosta, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sophie Trentacosta, was "kidnaped" from her home with consent and through connivance of her mother.

This, the police theory of the kidnaping, has been confirmed by a special delivery letter from the girl, in which she requests the police to forget it," and by the admission of Mrs. Trentacosta to two detectives that she planned the affair for her daughter.

Lieut. Edward Dadtke and Detective John Davies of the blackhand squad, who investigated the "kidnaping," reported that Mrs. Trentacosta admitted the "frame-up."

Rose was engaged to Tony Manaici. But Peter Vitale came and to Rose and her mother his offer of marriage seemed more advantageous than Tony's.

One day they sat down with Peter and arranged that he and three of his friends should kidnap Rose. In this way Tony was deceived.

Cites Her Plainness to Prove Innocence

New York. — Lack of feminine charms was advanced by Mrs. Cora M. Dorian in Supreme court as one reason her husband's charge of unfaithfulness should not be believed, when she asked Justice Walsh through her attorney not to set aside the alimony awarded to her when she won a separation from her husband.

"I am forty-nine years of age, I am five feet two inches in height, and I weigh 140 pounds," her affidavit to Justice Walsh read. "I have defective eyesight, wear glasses and am slightly deaf. I confess I am not comely to look upon."

Justice Walsh decided her husband must continue to support her until he can prove in court the charge upon which he bases his divorce suit.

Mrs. Dorian was awarded $45 a week alimony. Dr. John S. Dorian, the husband, charges that, July 17, when he and two others broke into her apartment, she was found with another man.

At the invitation of the Belgian government 1,200 boys of England visited Belgian battlefields in a body last August.

Never Reprimanded.

WARE, Mass.—For 48 years Thomas Mills has served the Boston & Maine railroad, and in all that time he has never been "called on the carpet."

Mills will soon be retired from active service. He entered the service of the railroad Sept. 12, 1877, at Lenoxville, P. Q., near Sharbrook, on the old Passumpsic division.

Every Housewife Can Have a Servant at

$5.00 per month

Tomorrow Is the Last Day of Our Special Club Payment Plan

Given away with each Kitchen Maid Cabinet sold during this Sale. A beautiful 42-piece Dinner Set. Remember this special offer closes at 9 P. M. Saturday.

You can have a Kitchen Maid in your home upon a payment of $5.00 and the balance in convenient low payments. Every housewife should take advantage of this offer.

There is no other kitchen cabinet built like Kitchen Maid. We believe it the most sanitary of all. It has every modern convenience of the ordinary cabinet with two added advantages—all corners, inside and out, are rounded, every surface is smooth (no panels) there isn't a place where dirt can hide.

Because of our limited allotment of Kitchen Maids you must act promptly. A great many have been sold. Come early.

Captures Bald Eagle.

LIMA, O.—Charles Bixel shot and captured a bald eagle on his farm at Beaver dam, near here. The king of the air had a seven foot wing spread. Bixel claims the eagle got away with about two dozen of his prize turkeys. The huge bird clawed up Bixel before he was subdued. Bixel's bullet broke one of his wings.

Japanese in America Unable to Find Girls Who Will Marry Them

TOKYO—The biggest hardship suffered by Japanese in the United States, according to J. Arima, publisher of the Hokubei Jiji, a Japanese newspaper in Seattle, is their inability to find brides.

"One-third of the Japanese in America are unmarried," Arima said on his arrival in Japan on a visit. "American women do not care to marry Japanese and even when they do happiness results in few cases.

"German and Scandinavian women are good for Japanese to marry, but the trouble is these women are seldom found. The best foreign women for Japanese to marry are Mexicans. They have many similarities and many pretty women are found among them. Many Filipinos are in America but their women are not easily admitted to the United States.

"The Japanese, therefore, have two alternatives; to remain unmarried forever or to return to Japan."

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR — LOOK FOR THE RED WHEEL

Unless the Regulator has a RED WHEEL it is NOT a LORAIN.

Never a Baking-failure!

NEVER a baking-failure! What fairy could make this come true for you—every day of the year? And yet, perpetual cooking-success can be made a fact, for YOU, not by fairies, but by the magic of a certain RED WHEEL that you'll find on the DANGLER Gas Range.

A single adjustment of this RED WHEEL and the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator will maintain automatically the temperature you select as best suited for the baking of the particular food or foods you place in the oven.

Perfect Baking, Whole Meal Oven Cooking, Lorain Oven Canning—there's no worry after you've once "set" the RED WHEEL! So why waste your time, strength and money fussing with an old-fashioned stove, when a Lorain-equipped DANGLER Gas Range will perform these wonders for you and thus pay for itself.

DANGLER Gas Ranges are good bakers because the heat is distributed evenly to all parts of the oven. Dangler ovens are extra deep and have proper ventilation. Valves are in front, ovens and broilers are high enough to prevent stooping. The Dangler is neat, durable and easy to keep clean. There is a variety of sizes and styles to fit all needs.

4. The Red Wheel Insures Perfect Results — ALWAYS.

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

Be sure the range you buy has a RED WHEEL. Otherwise it will not be equipped with the Lorain—the ORIGINAL Oven Heat Regulator, and the only Regulator made and guaranteed by the same company that manufactures the stoves of which it is a part.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Eat If Tired or Upset for Food Won't Digest

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago I scolded you for eating the wrong kinds of foods. Today I want to warn you about when and how you should eat the right kind of foods.

The point is, you can select exactly the right things and eat them in the wrong way. This is just as bad as to make a playhouse of your stomach dumping into it many morsels which are all but poisonous to your particular system.

Even though you sit down to a table upon which are well-selected and perfectly cooked foods, it may be you should not be there at all. Certainly you should not be if you are all worn out and ready to drop from your chair.

Nobody should eat if he is suffering from great fatigue. At least while in this state, he should not crowd his stomach with heavy foods. A cup of clam or beef broth, or other thin, hot soup may be taken but until there has been a period of rest it is unwise to eat heartily.

To eat when tired out is just as bad as to bolt a meal, and that is inexcusable. To eat when under powerful emotion—fear, grief, pain—is a mistake. Weeping and good digestion do not travel together.

City folks, especially business people, eat their lunches under bad conditions. The "quick lunch" place is not conducive to perfect digestion. You call for a sandwich, a cup of strong coffee and a piece of apple pie with cheese. In three minutes and thirty seconds you have your check and are on the way to the cashier's desk.

That isn't the only place you are on your way to—you are on your way to an early grave.

I heard a famous orator the other day. He spoke of a certain bad habit as one which is likely to shorten life. "What of it?" he said. "We have to die anyway."

Perhaps you don't care if you are on the way to an early grave. If you are indifferent then you can continue to bolt your food and make the undertaker smile. But if you prize life, perfect digestion and good health, you should give thought to your eating habits.

Leisurely eating, in a comfortable place, with good company, will promote digestion. If you are happy and enjoy the meal, you are pretty sure to have the co-operation of your stomach and intestinal tract.

To prepare the food properly you must have good teeth. Dental care is important, not only to your good looks, but to your good health.

One last word—don't let the joy of the meal, the appeal of its excellence, and your insistent palate lead you into the fault of overeating. Temperance in the use of the plate is just as important as in the use of the glass.

Answers to Health Questions

MISS D. Z. Q.—I am 25 and am 5 feet tall. What should I weigh?
2.—What will create an appetite?
3.—How can I get rid of pimples?

A.—You should weigh about 108 pounds.

2.—Plenty of outdoor exercise, water between meals and general good health will all make it unnecessary to look for further means to create an apretite.

3.—By being careful of the diet and being sure to overcome poor intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J. R. Q.—What causes a ringing in the ears and where can I go for treatment?

A.—This is usually due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. Apply at one of the hospital clinics and they will help you.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

Brothers Pass Daily On Passenger Trains But do Not Speak

LONDON — William and Harry Dean, brothers, although working on the same railroad and passing each other once a day, have not seen each other for 16 years.

They are both restaurant conductors on the Irish mail trains between London and Holyhead. William leaves Holywood in the morning, while Harry leaves London in the afternoon, and their respective trains pass, and have passed, each other for the past 16 years, at a point in South Wales. William then sleeps in London and Harry in Holyhead, and the next day each sets off again. It seems unlikely that the brothers, who take their vacations at different times of the year, will ever meet.

Benaras were sold in Panama for less than eighty cents a bunch this year.

A paved road connecting Yokohama and Tokio, Japan, will soon be opened.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Eat If Tired or Upset for Food Won't Digest

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

NOT long ago I scolded you for eating the wrong kinds of foods. Today I want to warn you about when and how you should eat the right kind of foods.

The point is, you can select exactly the right things and eat them in the wrong way. This is just as bad as to make a playhouse of your stomach dumping into it many morsels which are all but poisonous to your particular system.

Even though you sit down to a table upon which are well-selected and perfectly cooked foods, it may be you should not be there at all. Certainly you should not be if you are all worn out and ready to drop from your chair.

Nobody should eat if he is suffering from great fatigue. At least while in this state, he should not crowd his stomach with heavy foods. A cup of clam or beef broth, or other thin, not soup may be taken but until there has been a period of rest it is unwise to eat heartily.

To eat when tired out is just as bad as to bolt a meal, and that is inexcusable. To eat when under powerful emotion—fear, grief, pain—is a mistake. Weeping and good digestion do not travel together.

City folks, especially business people, eat their lunches under bad conditions. The "quick lunch" place is not conducive to perfect digestion. You call for a sandwich, a cup of strong coffee and a piece of apple pie with cheese. In three minutes and thirty seconds you have your check and are on the way to the cashier's desk.

That isn't the only place you are on your way to—you are on your way to an early grave.

I heard a famous orator the other day. He spoke of a certain bad habit as one which is likely to shorten life. "What of it?" he said. "We have to die anyway."

Perhaps you don't care if you are on the way to an early grave. If you are indifferent then you can continue to bolt your food and make the undertaker smile. But if you prize life, perfect digestion and good health, you should give thought to your eating habits.

Leisurely eating, in a comfortable place, with good company, will promote digestion. If you are alone and enjoy the meal, you are pretty sure to have the co-operation of your stomach and intestinal tract.

To prepare the food properly you must have good teeth. Dental care is important, not only to your good looks, but to your good health.

One last word—don't let the joy of the meal, the appeal of its excellence, and your insistent palate lead you into the fault of overeating. Temperance in the use of the plate is just as important as in the use of the glass.

Answers to Health Questions

MISS D. Z. Q.—I am 25 and am 5 feet tall. What should I weigh?
2.—What will create an appetite?
3.—How can I get rid of pimples?

A.—You should weigh about 108 pounds.

2.—Plenty of outdoor exercise, water between meals and general good health will all make it unnecessary to look for further means to create an appetite.

3.—By being careful of the diet and being sure to overcome poor intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

J. R. Q.—What causes a ringing in the ears and where can I go for treatment?

A.—This is usually due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. Apply at one of the hospital clinics and they will help you.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will when the question is a proper one write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S. Copeland in care of this office.

Brothers Pass Daily On Passenger Trains But do Not Speak

LONDON — William and Harry Dean, brothers, although working on the same railroad and passing each other once a day, have not seen each other for 16 years.

They are both restaurant conductors on the Irish mail trains between London and Holyhead. William leaves Holywood in the morning, while Harry leaves London in the afternoon, and their respective trains pass, and have passed, each other for the past 16 years, at a point in South Wales. William then sleeps in London and Harry in Holyhead, and the next day each sets off again. It seems unlikely that the brothers, who take their vacations at different times of the year, will ever meet.

Benarras were sold in Panama for less than eighty cents a bunch this year.

A paved road connecting Yokohama and Tokio, Japan, will soon be opened.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS FAIR

Record breaking crowd attended the Burgettstown fair yesterday which was the closing day. People were present from several western Pennsylvania counties, Panhandle district of West Virginia and eastern Ohio. The spirited racing card proved one of the principal features.

SOCCER TEAM TO MEET BUHL CLUB

Homer Laughlin China soccer team is scheduled to meet the Buhl club at Sharon tomorrow afternoon. The team will leave at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Plans are going forward for the opening game on the Newell grounds with New Castle on Saturday, October 17. Preparations are being made to handle the large crowd which is expected to witness the contest.

COVE POSTOFFICE TO BE ENLARGED

The United States government is seeking to secure larger quarters for the postoffice of Hollidays Cove. The government is advertising for proposals which may be submitted up to and including Nov. 30, providing for furnishing suitable quarters for the postoffice. The proposals will include in addition to the room or building, light, heat, water, toilet facilities and all necessary furnishings and toilet equipment, the lease to run for a period of five to ten years from March 15, 1926, at a stated sum per annum. The new quarters must provide a space of at least 1,050 square feet or two and one-half times as large as the present quarters. The proposals also include the postoffice boxes, mail boxes and fixtures of every kind. This means not only new and larger quarters but such equipment as will permit the public to be conveniently served, the present quarters being entirely inadequate to meet demands made upon it.

To Attend Lodge Meet.

Hancock county will be largely represented at the state convention of Odd Fellows which opens next Monday at Fairmont. The sessions will cover a period of three days. Convention of Rebekahs will be held at the same time.

Drilling Closes.

Drilling operations which have been in progress in various parts of the county during the summer months have practically come to a close. During the warm months several large gassers were struck while some leases yielded a quantity of oil.

Many Attend Social.

Large number of people attended the box social held last evening in the Washington school building. Proceeds will be used in purchasing equipment for the school. Miss Mabel Mosser is the teacher.

Lodge Meeting Tonight.

Routine business will be transacted this evening at this meeting of Clark lodge No. 447, I. O. O. F., to be held in the Odd Fellows' hall.

You can almost feel RHEUMATISM disappear!

THAT miserable ache from inflamed, swollen muscles — GONE! Rheumatism conquered! Driven right out of the system—simply by building rich, red blood.

Sounds almost incredible—but it's true! You see, rheumatism, as it is called, that cripples you up and tortures you night and day, is caused by impurities in the system. Weak, impoverished blood can't throw off these impurities—so rheumatism remains.

S. S. S. helps Nature build back your blood to fighting strength—builds red-blood-cells by the millions! Red blood purifies the system — rheumatism is driven right out.

Get this wonderful relief yourself! Thousands are doing it! S. S. S. has been stopping rheumatism by building up red cells in the blood for generations. It will do the same for you.

S. S. S. also cleanses your skin of blemishes—increases your appetite—puts power and strength and energy in your body. Get S. S. S. today from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Ponca City Without Taxes.
"Battling" Bonfils, Editor.
Pious Coolidge Wish.
Prices on the Hoof.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review Tribune).

As you travel across this country, from one ocean to the other, reading newspapers, light houses of information and warning, along the way, you keep in touch with the world.

The Pueblo Chieftain, published in Colorado, 4,690 feet above sea level, and read by healthy people, gives information annoying to corporation owners, convinced that the people haven't enough brains to do anything for themselves.

Ponca City, in Oklahoma, with 15,000 population, is free from taxes. Buy your house and that's the end of it. No tax gatherer comes. And it's simple, as O. P. Callahan, Ponca's mayor, will tell you. The people of Ponca City own their light and power departments, managed with the municipal water works. Profit on the city's light, water and power plant is sufficient to pay all taxes.

How does that impress you? And please note that rates charged for water, light and power in tax-free Ponca City are lower than in other places where citizens pay taxes and also enrich public service corporations, privately owned.

The Denver Post, property of "Battling" Bonfils, seems to spread over western America like a fog over London from Kansas City to Albuquerque and tells you everything, with an emphasis that jars effete easterners.

Bonfils, under his slogan, "It's a privilege to live in Colorado," gives President Coolidge before the American Legion convention. He tells of admirers giving the President's a "two-gallon" cowboy hat, size 7¼, called "two gallon" because the crown is big enough to hold two gallons. In the President's case it would be two gallons of water.

McMullen, governor of Nebraska, got a hat, one-eighth size bigger than the President's, but the President's excellent speech proves that it is the quality of the head, not the quantity, that counts.

The President hopes that much money now spent on war, preparation and materials, "to hire men to build fleets and carry muskets" will be used in "the making of good roads, building better homes, promoting of education, and all the other arts of peace."

One hundred and fifteen million amens greet that pious wish and the President will work through his term to make the wish reality. He knows, however, that as we build a better country, we must always be prepared for anybody that would take it from us.

The President can save money on the standing army, on battleships the cost $60,000,000 each to start with and gigantic coast defense guns that are obsolete jokes.

A great fleet of fighting airships, a sufficient fleet of submarines to welcome any troop carriers or plane carriers from abroad, a small navy with light, fast crusiers, is all this country needs, and couldn't cost much.

Within 10 years, thanks to Ford and

SCHOOL BOARD DENIES CLAIM OF R. H. PERRY IN COURT CASE

Will Not Employe Teachers Without Certificates.

ADOPT NO COURSE.

Judge Jones Will Hear Injunction Petition Oct. 16.

Answer to the injunction suit instituted by R. H. Perry, as a taxpayer, in a move to restrain the board of education from introducing a course of religious education in the district schools this fall, was filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, yesterday by City Solicitor Harry Brokaw, repesenting the school board.

F. T. Weaver Signs Answer.

Hearing on the application to make the temporary injunction against the board of education permanent will be held before Judge Walter D. Jones, Troy, [illegible], October 16.

The solicitor denies that the school board contemplates hiring teachers for this course who do not hold teachers' certificates and asserts that no teachers have been employed, no rules or regulations to govern the course have been adopted and that no rooms have been designated, but adds "that adequate rooms may be supplied for such a course without injury to any other course of study in said schools and without additional cost to taxpayers."

Other statements, made in Perry's petition, regarding the school board's action on the resolution are admitted in the reply of the solicitor. The signature of Frank T. Weaver, vice presi-

West Virginia Golf Professional Dies After 18-Hole Play

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 9.—The West Virginia golfing fraternity today paid tribute to John T. Hardie, 43, professional and secretary-manager of the Kanawha Country club, who died at his home here last night from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Hardie played 18 holes of golf yesterday and appeared in good health. He was stricken shortly after he arrived home from the club.

He was known to all West Virginia golfers, having competed in state tournaments and conducted minor tournaments here.

Three are Burned To Death, Two Hurt In Pittsburgh Fire

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—Three persons were burned to death in their beds, two others escaped by leaping from a window, being seriously hurt in the fall, and a fireman was injured when fire destroyed a three story dwelling here today.

Firmen fought their way through the flames to find the bodies of Joseph and Mary Williams, Negroes. Mrs. Maud Potter, 30, was found dead in an adjoining apartment.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HIT BY QUAKE

Three-minute Tremors Shake Houses; no Damage.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 9.—Earth tremors, extending in the belt along the Daniel Webster highway from the White mountains to this city and beyond, caused considerable excitement in New Hampshire today.

Houses shook, windows rattled and chairs rocked but no damage was reported.

The tremors, which resembled those of last winter, lasted for three minutes.

Court was suspended for five minutes in Carroll county court house, Ossipee, when the tremors shook the judge's bench and typewriters in the clerk's office.

The chimney fell and windows were broken in the home of Harry Blanchard at Sandwich. Windows in the home of Harry Hudson of Tuftsboro were broken.

Canned goods came tumbling down from the shelves at the general store of L. O. Moulton in Ossipee.

West Ossipee and Wolfboro residents ran to the streets in alarm but their fears were quieted when they saw that no damage had been done.

Missing Air Mail Pilot's Body May Be Found Here

Charles H. Ames Believed Man in Plane Which Narrowly Missed Hitting W. T. Gater Home in Maplewood Avenue.

That the lifeless body of Charles H. Ames, air mail pilot, who has been missing for eight days, and his wrecked plane may be found in one of the wooded sections which lie between East Liverpool and Round Knob, was the opinion today of William Gater, janitor of the Belle Telephone Exchange building, Market street.

Gater, who resides in Maplewood avenue, just north of the city limits, and his wife were standing in the yard outside their home at 8 o'clock last Thursday night when his attention was attracted by a plane which flew directly over his house.

He said the plane was traveling at a height not more than 40 feet from the ground and barely missed the trees surrounding the house. His view, obstructed by the leafy boughs, Gater rushed to the edge of the yard to get another glimpse of the plane, but because of the darkness he failed to see it again. He clearly detected the noise of the motor as it sped in a northwesterly direction, aparently toward Round Knob.

Between Maplewood and Round Knob, Gater declared there are patches of woods into which the missing bird-

LANSDOWNE'S WIDOW BLAMES NAVY CHIEFS FOR LOSS OF SHENANDOAH

Defends Memory of Her Husband in Placing Responsibility for Death of 14 in Dirigible Disaster.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Defending the memory of her husband, Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of Commander Zachary T. Lansdowne, of the ill-fated Shenandoah, today placed responsibility for the dirigible disaster directly upon the navy department in testifying before the naval court of inquiry.

"He felt the Shenandoah should only be used for war purposes," said Mrs. Lansdown, "and should not be used for commercial purposes, such as a flight to the middle west so the taxpayers there could look at their property.

"The flight was made solely for political purposes," Mrs. Lansdowne charged. She said her principal purpose in appearing before the court was to state that her charges had been borne out "by official correspondence revealed at the inquiry."

She told the board that her statements were amply supported by official documents in the navy department and she then proceeded to read the documents.

One of these was the record of Lansdowne's protest, which was officially marked "disapproved."

Her statement came as a startling surprise to the court of inquiry, as Mrs. Lansdowne repudiated a similar declaration made the morning after the disaster.

Mrs. Lansdowne's statement pre-

"PROBABLY UNAVOIDABLE ACCIDENT" CORONER'S VERDICT IN SAYRE DEATH

Funeral Services for Fire Truck Victim Will be Held at Late Home Saturday Afternoon.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, of East Palestine handed down a "probably unavoidable accident" verdict at an inquest over the body of Herbert Sayre, 42, warehouse foreman, who was killed when struck by a fire department truck during a blaze at the T. A. McNicol pottery, River Road, early yesterday morning.

Dr. Van Fossan conferred with Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, Fireman William Fowler, who drove the truck and other members of the department before arriving at his decision. He announced that firemen had told him that Sayre had attached the hose coupling to the fire plug near the pottery and then ran to the alley entrance, where the fire had broken out. He was standing in the alley waiting for the truck, according to the coroner, when he was run down.

Sayre's chest was crushed by the wheels of the machine, the coroner said.

Funeral services for the victim will be held at the late home, 507 Railroad street, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, in charge.

Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body from 7 until 10 o'clock tonight.

Get Out Overcoats! First Cold Snap Forecast Tonight

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Get out your overcoats!

The first cold snap of the season will envelop northern and central Ohio tonight.

"A mild cold wave will grip the central and northern sections of the state tonight," announced W. H. Alexander, government meteorologist here today. "Temperatures ranging from 28 to 32 will be general over the central portions and from 25 to 30 over the northern portions. In southern Ohio the mercury will barely reach the freezing mark."

Alexander warned house wives to remove to shelter all potted plants around their homes. A similar warning was given all gardeners. "Garden Truck and potted plants should be protected for the frost tonight will be killing," the weatherman said.

This was especially true if the sky clears as we expect it to."

Sheriff is Slain When he Tries to Arrest Motorist

JACKSON, O., Oct. 9.—George Steele, 35, Jackson county farmer was in the county jail here today, charged with shooting to death Sheriff Fletcher Collins of Vinton county last night. Steele was rushed here after a mob gathered at the McArthur jail.

Sheriff Collins was shot down, according to reports here, when he tried to arrest Steele on a charge of speeding.

Guardsmen Favor New Collar.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9. — Announcement was made today that Ohio National Guard officers have voted, 439 to 41, in favor of the new style roll collar for uniforms. Present uniforms have a high collar.

RAIN FORCES POSTPONEMENT OF THIRD GAME OF BIG SERIES

Judge Landis Calls Off Battle in Capital City.

FIELD IS SOGGY

Pirates Will Remain in Washington Until Monday Night.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — Rain washed out the third game of the world's series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators here today.

Rain which fell intermittently throughout the forenoon bogged down the playing field, and after surveying conditions Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, officially called off today's game, after conferring with club officials and the umpires.

Oddly enough, just as soon as the game was officially postponed, the rain ceased. The weather bureau, however, predicted more showers probable during the afternoon, and this was largely instrumental in impelling officials to declare things off.

Stanley Harris Happy.

Rain began falling shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and to Stanley Harris, every drop was a glistening gem of purest ray serene.

The rain gave the well known young man a chance to remarshall his forces and to add an extra day of rest to the pitching arm of Walter Johnson, which beyond all doubt is to prove the abiding factor in this series. The Senators, seemingly, must ride to victory

Joe McCarty Will Pilot Chicago Cubs Next Year, Report

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Joe McCarthy, who led the Louisville club of the American association to a pennant this year, will be the manager of the Chicago Cubs next season, according to a well-formed report here today.

President William Veeck, of the Cubs, refused to deny or confirm the report.

"An announcement will be made after the city series here, however," he said.

Mitchell Denied Permission to Make Baltimore Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the aeronoautical controversy, was denied permission today by the war department to fulfill a speaking engagement at Baltimore tonight before a number of American Legion posts.

In rejecting Mitchell's request, the adjutant general of the army announced that until the department's investigation of his alleged "insubordination" is completed, the "flying colonel" must remain in Washington.

RAIN CALLS OFF SOX-CUB GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Rain necessitated the postponement of the third game of the annual city series between the White Sox and the Cubs here today.

CLEVELANDER ELECTED NATIONAL COMMANDER AT OMAHA ENCAMPMENT

By Vote of 655 Out of 962, and Later Unanimous, Ohioan is Winner Over E. E. Spafford of New York and Howard P. Savage of Illinois.

RESULT OF BALLOTING IS RECEIVED WITH BURST OF BANDS AND CHEERING

Winner Served as Brigadier-General in Thirty-seventh Division During World War—Well Known in East Liverpool.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—By a vote of 655 out of 962 on the first ballot John R. McQuigg of Cleveland, Ohio, was today elected national commander of the American Legion. Fifty-seven votes were cast for Howard P. Savage, of Illinois, and 224 for E. E. Spafford, of New York, with the balance not voting.

Then Savage moved that the vote be made unanimous for McQuigg, and there was a wild burst of bands and drums and cheering as McQuigg stood to acknowledge his reception.

Brigadier General McQuigg is widely known in East Liverpool, having made annual visits here since the signing of the Armistice.

During the war he was a member of the 37th Division, in which many local men served. Since the war, he has been active in American Legion and veteran relief work.

Attorney W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool is a member of the Ohio delegation whose 35 votes were cast for McQuigg.

Corydon-Palmer Dental Society Meets in Warren

The fall meeting of the Corydon-Palmer Dental society, which embraces dentists in Columbiana, Trumbull and Mahoning counties, was held at the Warren Country club, at Warren, yesterday.

About 60 members from Youngstown, Niles, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem, Struthers and other towns in the tri-county district attended.

The morning session was devoted to the transaction of business. Dr. Emery Thompson of Warren, Pa., lectured and conducted a clinic on "Bridgework" at the afternoon meeting. Dinner was served last night, at which Ted Robinson, Cleveland newspaper humorist, was the speaker.

The annual meeting will be held at Youngstown in May. Dentists from this city who attended the session were Dr. Joseph Williamson, secretary of the association; Dr. Colin F. Kinsey, Dr. J. T. Cartwright and Dr. Hugh Marshall.

Casey Jones Wins Efficiency Race on Mitchell Field Card

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Despite a low ceiling of fog and a driving rain, Casey Jones, veteran commercial pilot, of Garden City, won the light commercial speed and efficiency race for civilians today in the national air races here.

Driving his orange Curtiss-Oriole at a speed of 128.42 miles per hour, Casey ran away from the field from the start.

Fred H. Becker, of Paterson, N. J., in a Wright-Bellanca, came in second, averaging 111.99 miles an hour.

Becker's Wright-Bellanca was awarded the prize for efficiency with 628 points against 272 points for Jones. Both pilots won $1,000 awards.

BRIDGE VICTIM IS NEAR DEATH

Charles Kinsey Fatally Hurt After Saving Fellow Worker.

Little hope was entertained at the City hospital today of the recovery of Charles Kinsey, 66, Smiths Ferry, Beaver county inspector, who sustained a fractured skull while inspecting the new road bridge being erected across Beaver creek, shortly before the noon hour yesterday.

Kinsey, according to a new version of the accident, was standing on a temporary scaffold which has been erected for the bridge, when the boss carpenter stumbled and was about to fall. Kinsey, realizing the man's plight, rushed to his assistance and in saving him lost his balance and plunged 15 feet to the ground.

He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Dr. W. A. Hobbs attended him.

"Model Boy," Said To be Bootlegger, Is Shot to Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—His father's "model boy," but said by police to be a bootlegger, Nicholas Cironi, 25, a chauffeur, was murdered here early today.

Five or six shots were fired from across the street as Cironi was walking home. The shooting is believed to have been the work of a bootleg gang.

BABY ALICE RUSSELL IS YOUNGEST ROOTER, WHILE EDDIE MOORE IS HANDSOMEST PLAYER IN SERIES

BY KATHARINE BRUSH.
Special to the Review-Tribune

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—The natural tendency of people who have just viewed a World's Series game is to write about the World's series game, if they're going to write about anything at all. But the editor tells me I positively must not obey that impulse. He says, "For heaven's sake don't try to write about baseball!" He seems to think that I, being a mere woman, I would describe a batter as a "a man with a funny yellow stick in his hands," and call the basebags sofa-cushions. He says further, "Plenty of boys there to cover the game itself." He's right about that part of it. This press room is full of them, and the smoke of their stogies, and the noise of their typewriters, which chatter away like a million teeth in a chill. So I'll leave it to them to tell you how beautifully Pittsburgh came through yesterday afternoon, and content myself with writing a little story in superlatives. I'll tell you about the youngest rooter at this World's Series, and the handsomest player, and the funniest press representative, and the proudest wife. That is, if the e, s, and t on this Remington hold out all right, I will.

The name of the youngest rooter is Alice Russell, and she's the daughter of Allen Russell, relief pitcher for the Senators. Miss Russell is seven months old. She came to Pittsburgh chaperoned by her mother, and has appeared at both games in Forbes Field, attired in a fetching fall costume of pink swaddlings and white bonnet. I interviewed her in her box seat near the Senator's dugout just after the game yesterday, and found he most agreeable. Wen asked if she was fond of baseball, she replied, "Glug." But when I ventured to ask what she thought of the Pirate victory, she spit at me.

This Lardner Funniest Correspondent

The handsomest ball-player, if I am any judge, is Eddie Moore, the Pirate second baseman. Eddie is playing in his first World's series, and if I were allowed to say anything about baseball I'd say he was making a pretty good job of it—but, of course, I'm not, so I don't dare. Mr. Moore is what is known in flapper jargon as collegiate-looking. He parts his hair in the middle and slicks it down, and he has a sun-burned young face and blue eyes and a nice smile, and taking it all in all you sort of instinctively look for the fraternity pin and the pocket flask and all the other campus paraphernalia. I only had a minute to talk to him, because he was about to play baseball and I was about to join in the herd stampeding through the grand-stand aisles, but I did learn two things about him, beside the one above mentioned. He's from New Orleans; and he doesn't get nervous over World's series games. I guessed the first from the land-of-cotton accent in which he anounced the second.

The funniest press correspondent is a large gentleman by the name of Ring Lardner. It's just barely possible that you have heard of him. And possibly, you've wondered how he conceives the witticisms you squawk over. I wondered, too. I asked him. He told me. "I work," he said.

Like all funny men, Mr. Lardner is not particularly funny when you meet him. He's rather solemn. And why not? There's really no more reason why a professional humorist should be side-splitting in ordinary conversation than that a professional clog-dancer should clog while he asks you to direct him to the depot. Mr. Lardner seldom smiles, and he talks in a dry, quiet voice, without a great deal of expression. He is a little difficult to interview, because (unlike some of his literary brethren who, when informed that the topic under discussion is themselves, will talk as though wound up till curfew tolls) he has to be questioned, and coaxed, and egged along. When not questioned, or when Seek Missing Girl.

GALLIPOLIS, O. — Police in all towns in this section of southern Ohio were on the lookout today for Mattie Layne, the pretty 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Layne, of Ironton. She disappeared five days ago.

The girl was last seen by a police officer who stopped her on the street to inquire where she was going so late at night. Her answer was that she was going to the "jumping off place."

Police fear she has committed suicide. Her parents hope she went to some big city.

The young woman is five feet tall, and weighs about 100 pounds. She is considered very good looking.

A love affair is believed to figure in the case.

MURDER CASE GOES UNSOLVED

State, County Officials Baffled by Killing Near Massillon.

MASSILLON, O., Oct. 9.—No killing in recent years has so mystified Stark county authorities or aroused such public interest as that of an unidentified youth whose body lies at the Arnold undertaking establishment here. More than 3,000 persons have viewed the body but no one has recognized it.

The youth was about 25 years old, well dressed, five feet, eight inches in height, and weighed about 165 pounds.

The body was found lying beside the B. & O. railroad tracks, one mile east of Wormington. It was removed to the undertaking parlors under the belief that it was that of a railroad accident victim. The undertaker however discovered that the body was riddled by five bullets. He notified the coroner at once.

"Who is he?"

"Who shot him?"

"Why did they do it?"

These were the questions that the public asked and county authorities after days of investigation have not yet been able to answer.

The investigators found no labels in the clothes and no trace of a hat or cap. The only clue they have to work on is a tatooed emblem on the dead man's arm. It is that of the Knights of Pythias, "F. C. B." typifying Faith, Charity and Benevolence.

Members of the Pythian lodge at Canton have offered to inter the body in the lodge lot att the Westlawn cemetery at Canton.

Who killed the youth? Was he the victim of gangsters' revenge? Did a highwayman shoot him down? Or was the tragedy caused by some romantic affair?

Beautiful New Fall Fashions Have Taken Full Possession

"Before You Invest, Investigate"

"What shall I do with my money?"

Better to do nothing at all with it, than to risk it in doubtful "investments."

We print the slogan of the National Vigilance Committee, because we feel it deserves widest publicity. If this little paragraph causes only one person to pause before yielding to the gorgeous prospects of the get-rich-quick specialists, we shall have our reward. The investigating habit doesn't hurt a bit in everyday spending of money either—does it? Not so much to guard against fraud—but to get greatest possible value for every dollar.

REPORT ISSUED ON FARM CENSUS

Acreage is Gradually Decreasing; Farm Population Same.

More than 90,000 persons are engaged in farming in West Virginia with total holdings of 8,984,455 acres, of which 1,921,092 acres are crop lands, according to the 1925 farm census which has been issued by the Department of Commerce.

This represents a decrease of 585,335 acres in farm lands for the state although the number of farmers and tenants increased by approximately 3,000. The average acreage per farm in 1925 was 99.4 acres as compared with 109.6 aches in 1920.

Statistics for live stock on the farm shows 169,148 horses employed in 1920 and only 143,082 in 1925. There was a slight increase in the number of mules. There was but a slight change noted in the number of cattle except for dairy cows which decreased from 181,206 in 1920 to 138,696 in 1925.

Corn is shown to be the principal farm crops with a production of 9,356,299 bushels in 1924 compared to 17,010,357 in 1920. Production of wheat amounted to 1,410,819 bushels in 1924 as compared with 3,747,812 in 1920, the average planted being greatly reduced.

The apple crop showed a big increase, the total number of bushels in 1924 being 6,941,565 compared with 4,189,162 in 1919.

STATE DRY HEAD SUBMITS REPORT

Arrests totalling 173, with 40 stills seized six automobiles and one truck confiscated, and hundreds of gallons of liquor destroyed were reported during September by W. G. Brown, state prohibition commissioner, who today made public the monthly report of his department.

Thirty-eight of the arrests were made in Ohio county, 30 in Kanawha, 15 in McDowell, 11 in Mercer, 10 in Harrison, eight each in Marshall and Mason; two in Barbour, Clay, Putnam and Wyoming, and one each in Lewis, Nicholas, Tyler and Wirt counties.

Completing Road Jobs.

Number of road improvement jobs in Western Pennsylvania counties will be completed before the advent of cold weather, according to a statement issued from the office of the department of highways. Plans are being made for 1926 program which include the improvement of the road between the Allegheney and West Virginia state line.

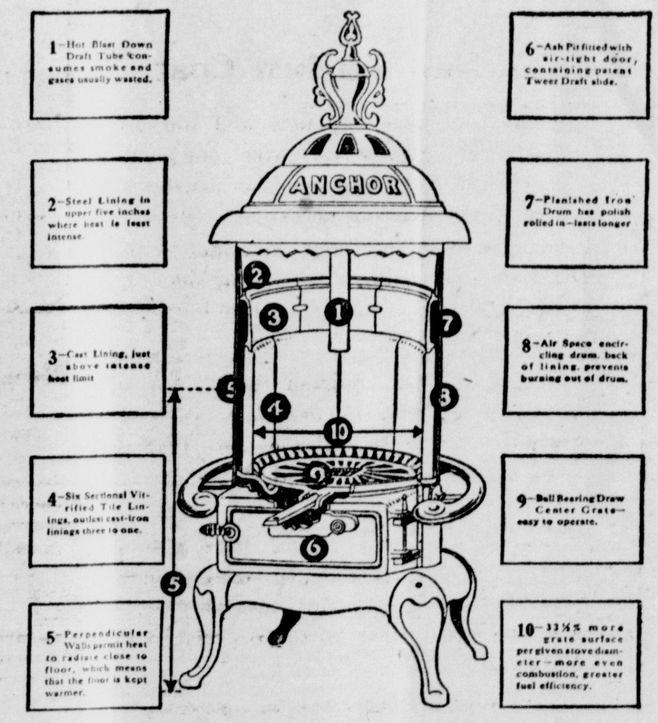
Save 1/3 Fuel WITH THIS HEATER



Hundreds of them are in use in the homes of our customers and we have yet to receive our first complaint.

We've sold this heater for the past five years and up to this time we have not heard of a fire-bowl having to be replaced. This is a long life stove and costs less for repairs than any we know of.

Tell us the size of the space you wish to heat and let us select the size to give you efficient service and we will guarantee satisfaction.

RADIANT
Gas Heating Stoves

There are many "so-called" Radiant Heaters—there are but two or three worthy of the name—we handle the two that in our experience have tested out best.

MANY of the original Anchor Hot Blast Heaters—built twenty years ago—are still in daily use, and according to claims of their owners, improving with age.

Frankly, we consider this remarkable, yet we find a source of pride in the fact that the same high quality of material and workmanship is a distinguishing mark of the Anchor today, and that our original construction principles have never been improved upon.

However, a marked improvement in the appearance of this heater has been made. Its lines are graceful and beautiful. Accept our invitation to come in and inspect the Anchor Hot Blast.

ADAMS RADIANT HEATER

After very careful trial in the past three years we believe the Adams Radiant Heater (all things considered) to be the most efficient and economical of any we have seen—for that reason we specialize on them notwithstanding the fact that we can make a larger margin of profit on other makes.

10 Radiant Adams Heater, just as pictured, $25.00 on credit. $22.50 cash.

Other radiants $12.25 to $50 on credit or 10% less if you prefer to pay cash.

More Foreign Loans

While the rest of the world is criticising Uncle Sam as a rich old skinflint, hating him as a creditor and trying to hedge on the payment of money borrowed from him, it is busier than ever trying to borrow more.

This seems to be the real purpose behind the debt settlemets, aside from Great Britain's. It was frankly admitted that the principal reason why France sought a settlement was to raise her credit and enable her to negotiate new loans in America. Italy has the same notion. So have other debtors.

Europe owes this country more than $10,000,000,000 in private loans, on top of all the big government loans. In the last three months America has sent more cash to Europe than it spent to build the Panama canal. The total increase this year has been more than $1,000,000,000, and negotiations are pending for another billion.

For every dollar that Europe hands America to apply on old loans, it wants another five.

How can there be any good in such procedure, for either party? Europe needs to stop borrowing. America could use all its capital in developing its own resources.

Firearm Prohibition

Police Commissioner Enright, of New York city, submits these recommendations for the cure of crime:

1. Abolish the gun through national legislation so that none but those rightfully entitled to carry one—such as law enforcement officials—could do so.

2. Abolish the parole system, the indeterminate sentence and the suspended sentence entirely except in rare cases where they might prove necessary in giving justice.

3. Increase sentences for major crimes—such as robbery with a gun—to double the present sentence and place judges on the bench who will inflict maximum instead of minimum punishment.

4. Revolutionize the bail system so that bail would be forfeited if a person is found guilty of an additional crime while on bail for a previous one.

5. Quit "coddling" the criminal.

All of them are worth considering. Some of them instantly commend themselves. The one that the commissioner puts first is probably most important.

Disarmament of the criminal class is the first big practical step in stopping crimes of violence; and if it cannot be accomplished without disarming all private citizens, the country may have to reconcile itself to that. "The right to bear arms" guaranteed in the federal constitution was intended to apply to state militias, no to individuals.

Better than all other remedies, however, is promptness and certainty in the punishment of criminals, by whatever penalties are provided. That is primarily a question of court reform.

Marshall On Free Speech

Here is what might be called a posthumous editorial by Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, widely known and loved for his genial wit and wisdom. It is a passage from the book he completed just before he died, "A Hoosier Salad."

Marshall was in favor of tolerating free speech not necessarily because of any inalienable right to say what a man pleases, and not necessarily because of any constitutional guarantee, but because he considered it the most safe and sensible way.

"I have been led to conclude as the days have gone by," he wrote, "that our English forebears were wiser than we in their knowledge of human nature. Repression on the part of a government sooner or later will result in such an accumulation of gas as will inevitably result in the destruction of the government.

"A government should always keep the cork out of the bottle of its principles. It should let effervesce freely and unrestrained the gas of all those who are not satisfied with what the government is doing. The meetings at Hyde Park and Trafalgar square, in which the discontented get off of their chests all that they have to say about the iniquity of the British government, have done much in preserving that ancient democracy."

Radio Everywhere

A big general hospital planned in New York will have a radio set in every room. It should be a popular hospital—for a while. Whether the popularity will endure is another question. It is possible to imagine an occasionel patient in future years, afflicted by especially sensitive nerves or musical taste, not only scorning a loudspeaker at the foot of the bed, but objecting to the roar of the super-jazz from adjacent rooms.

Perhaps, though, the new generation will get hardened to it. Some of the new hotels are equipping all their rooms with radio. Soon this may be a universal practice. There will probably be radio, too, in every cabin and stateroom on ocean liners, and in every railroad passenger car, and in every airship and every long-distance motor bus. We may come to tolerate all that, as we tolerate street noises in the city, if we can escape having radio in every room at home.

We haven't a doubt in the world that there's every bit as much chance of Dempsey getting into a real fight as there is of France making a real payment.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Thoughts and scenes while strolling around New York: The white haired man who sits on the steps of a house near Washington arch. The village girl artist who wears plus fours. Paints ash trays. A peddler going home with a filled pushcart. Poor fellow!

The bareheaded men who walk with big police dogs. Chalif, the Russian dancer. Whatever became of the Marathon steppers? A shoe shine parlor with a girl cashier. Furs, furs, furs. Everywhere. The loft region and buyers with corn fed opulence.

The two tallest men in New York—Robert Sherwood and H. T. Webster. A shuttered shooting gallery. Always a crowd watching a building excavation. A famous criminal lawyer eating a banana as he walks along. Fame is a curious thing.

Look what it did to Babe Ruth. And Fatty Arbuckle. After all civilization has drawbacks. Consider man's slipping garter. Gyp auto stores that radio bargains. An actress and her cavaliere servante entering a bank. The dying radiance of old Murray Hill.

A girl in a green hat. Not Iris, I hope. The long trail of taxis overloaded with luggage. Proclaiming a liner's arrival. A boarding house street. Women doomed to dowdiness and domesticity. Yet perhaps happiest of all. White shaggy poodles who yip all day.

The glum, pipe smoking watchman at Morgan's mansion. Ancient ladies walking with hired messenger boys. A cat playing with a butterfly. Wonder if they still make old fashioned cocoanut flag candy? When I take long walks some fugitive haunting lines assail me.

Today Byron's "Fare thee well, and if forever, then forever, fare thee well." They'd go fine to train wheels. Sometimes I think I'm nutty and other times I feel real bright. Whatever became of the "Man in white" who paraded the avenue coatless and hatless?

There are six jazz band leaders in New York making more than $1,000 a week exclusive of Paul Whiteman who is said to have collected $250,000 in the past 12 months. Thus does American pay golden tribute to jazz. I often wonder whatever became of its traditional originator. He is said to be Jasbo Brown, a crooning, shuffling figure of the Mississippi levees and later of the Chicago honky-tonks. Jazz followed the name of Jasbo by obvious analogy. The original Pasbo spent most of his life as a steamboat roustabout and sang and clogged for pitched pennies. He rarely had a complete suit of clothes and most of his money went for gin. And of course somebody originated the Charleston down in Charleston, S. C. If he or she could collect royalties from stage exponents, it would be a pork chop life indeed.

Prohibition aftermath. A little shop window on upper Columbus Avenue is emblazoned with: "Home Bottler" — "Selected Hops" — "Max's Magical Mixture."

In all New York parks and along park walls are vast armies of Men Who Sit Alone. They are still and quiet—apparently dreaming. Thoughts, hopes and despair seem to struggle in their minds. They are obvious to passerby. Most of them appear to be men a little beaten by the game and are gazing at broken patterns of life before them. Long after New York is in the first lap of sleep they are still there. There is somthing sullen about them. If you try to engage them in conversation they resent friendly overture and move away. Still, Socrates was a park loafer.

A lady dentist in—let me look—O, yes, Toledo, O. writes: "You gossip well about gossip and that lets you out.' Being thus dismissed, I'm off to play pool.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Treating Leprosy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Announcement by the United States Public Health Service that four lepers, committed to the Marine hospital at Carville, Louisiana, several years ago, have been discharged, awakens interest in the disease with which they were afflicted, and which from time immemorial, has been dreaded by mankind.

These patients were discharged as being no longer a menace to the public health, the disease having been cured, or, to use the language of physicians, arrested. This does not mean a complete cure, but a state wherein the victim may go about his business as he did formerly, without any danger to those around him, and without feeling the effects of the disease.

Where leprosy originated few venture to say. That is expected in Egypt in 4600 B. C. is known. Aristotle described it and the later Greek writers knew of it. That it was prevalent in ancient times in Asia, and that it attacked the Greeks and Romans is also known, but its origin has never been determined definitely.

There have been legends written about this disease and during the middle ages the gripping fear of it persisted. Its curious behavior confounded men and awe was inspired by it. It was believed that China and Japan and the Orient in general were filled with it and a sort of supernatural aura was thrown about it. This, no doubt found its inception in biblical references.

But leprosy of the Bible is a moot question. That it existed is not doubted, but that it was confused with other diseases is also suspected. Tuberculosis is believed to have been confused with it, for the two are somewhat similar in many respects. Likewise other diseases are believed to have been mistaken for it. But the awful stigma placed upon its very name by scriptural passages has placed an almost ineffaceable stamp upon it. The fear of it persists.

However, strip leprosy of the superstition that surrounds it and view it in the cold light of scientific fact. It is extremely difficult to contract. There have been instances of a leper's living with another person in the closest relation—that of marriage—for years and not conveying it. There have been absolute attempts to innoculate persons with it. The most famous of these is the case of the specialist who took a large number of his students and inoculated them with leprous substances. Only one, over a long period of time, showed any traces of it. The rest were as healthy as ever. There are those who doubt the contagion of leprosy. This experiment would tend to substantiate their view.

Its Weird Performances.

Animals can not be inoculated with it. It acts in a weird fashion. It pursues no set course. It sometimes attacks a community with terrific force and then leaves as suddenly as it appeared and for no particular reason. It is found in the tropics and the arctics. Iceland is a focus for it; likewise New Brunswick; likewise the equatorial belt. It is also found in the temperate zone. Climate, therefore, has been dismissed by most authorities as a cause of leprosy, or as a factor. Race also has been thrown out of the question, although the Teutonic peoples have been strangely free from it. They, however, have had several bitter experiences with it.

The peculiar quirks of the disease are explained; its methods of attack, or, to be more exact, the method of contracting it, is unknown. It may reveal itself in a very short time or it may not make itself known for 20 years.

From a clinical point of view there are three classifications of leprosy. They are the nodular, or tubercular type, characterized by spots; the anaesthetic, or nerve typed, which attacks the nerve trunks, and the mixed type, which is a combination of the first two. The type, where lesions occur, is dangerous as a source of contagion; the second is not believed to be a menace even in localities where the disease is endemic, while the third is dangerous to those around one afflicted with it.

Until recently it was generally considered that leprosy was transmissible from parent to offspring. It is never, or almost never, inherited in the same manner as is syphilis, for example. Experience shows that where a child is taken away from leprous parents soon after birth and reared in a clean environment, the danger of developing the disease is almost nil.

Not Necessarily Unclean.

Cleanliness is a great thing to be considered in discussing leprosy, but there are cases where the most immaculate have contracted it. Almost in every case there is no knowledge on the part of the victim of having been in contact with a leper. There are cases where those in the best strata of society, surrounded by correct sanitation and sheltered from diseases of all sorts have had it. But sanitation naturally, has a great deal to do with it.

There has been progress in the therapeutics of leprosy. Chaulmoogra oil and strychnine have been used and are being used. Some cases appear to have been benefited by these. Locally caustics are helpful.

Refrigeration, due to the application of carbon-dioxide snow has been used in leprosy with fairly good results, but the use of mercurochrome, comparatively an innovation, although mercury has long been used, has attracted wide notice.

Out of 44 cases treated with it 16 showed marked improvement, six were moderately improved, six were slightly improved, seven were unchanged, two were slightly worse, three were moderately worse, three died and one disappeared. These patients were of all types of leprosy, and in all phases of it, from active advanced to early inactive. The use of mercurochrome proved several things; that it was not—and there was none before—a specific for leprosy; that it was helpful in checking the disease; that it was of value in treating ulcers of various types; that it was of no value in checking pulmonary tuberculosis in lepers, but, on the contrary, apparently aggravated the complication which usually occurs.

However, it should be borne in mind that leprosy is not widespread. It is not as bad as tradition and superstition have made it. It can be arrested, and the patient can be sent into the world with all the medical facts in the case showing that he is not a menace to any one, that he may, probably, be married with impunity, and will not be impaired by the disease in his life.

Although the cause, method of contraction, and absolute cure of leprosy are as mysterious as ever, and although the disease is yet a deadly thing, the relatively small number of its victims, and the progress made in arresting its ravages have served to dissipate the gnawing fear it once inspired in the minds of most of mankind. The discharge of the four patients from Carville is but one instance of the progress, which, although painfully slow, is being made in the treatment of it.

Miss Ethel Unger And R. V. Miller Wed In Lutheran Church

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Ethel Unger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Unger of Orchard Grove avenue, to R. V. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Miller of Spencerville, which was solemnized in the St. John's Lutheran church at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The impressive service was performed by Dr. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of the church. The bride's parents were the only attendants.

The bride was gowned in cocoa crepe with hat to match. The bridegroom, who is a graduate of Ohio State University, is employed as ceramic engineer at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery. The bride was formerly employed as clerk at the traction office.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Miller left by motor for a honeymoon in eastern cities.

Rheumatism is Called New White "Scourge" At Insurance Meet

BRIGHTON, England—Rheumatism is the new "White Scourge," according to J. M. Roberts, a delegate to the national conference of friendly insurance societies just held here.

More than 3,000,000 working weeks are lost in England alone every year through rheumatic diseases, Roberts told the conference. He said that investigation showed that rheumatic diseases had displaced tuberculosis as the most pressing problem in dealing with the health of the industrial population of England.

"It is no longer necessary to talk of consumption as the white man's scourge," he said, "for rheumatism and rheumatic diseases are taking a much greater toll of the workers of this and other industrial countries."

Town in Erin Adopts Gaelic Name But Finds Big Drop in Business

DUBLIN—The urban council of Bray, County Wicklow, are beginning to wish that they had not been so enthusiastic in adopting an Irish name for their town.

Bray is a fairly fashionable resort, and in the season derives a considerable income from tourists. Some time ago the council changed its name to "Bri Chualann," and a marked slump in the tourist traffic was noticed.

The townspeople, in consequence, decided to return to the old name, but the Wicklow county council refused to give its assent. Permission was given to use "Bray" in brackets underneath the "Bri," but the residents say this will afflict their town with three names, and will result in worse confusion than ever.

Resinol

for skin scrapes and scratches

This healing ointment so quickly stops smarting that it is easy to teach children to call for it when their skin has been scratched, scraped or injured in any way. Wise mothers who have learned from experience that Resinol is perfectly pure and harmless and that it helps to prevent infection because it hastens the healing—always have it ready for the skin hurts which daily occur in the home where there are children. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1925.

Have You Youth In Your Heart?

It can be in your figure, too. You can have that look of suppleness, of buoyance, even though your figure be mature.

If you are taking on weight and wish to retain your former grace of figure, you can realize your desire by wearing a properly fitted Rengo Belt Reducing Corset. This corset has a special steelastic webbing belt which, when worn over the too-prominent abdomen, holds it flat, and the re-enforced back and sides straighten and slenderize the hips.

The Rengo Belt Reducing Corset corrects the abdominal and hip lines in the stout figure, yet gives a degree of ease and freedom much must be experienced to be appreciated.

This corset has a famous seventeen years' reputation for long-service and hard-wearing qualities. They are sensible and hygienic.

They will hold their perfect style lines until thoroughly worn out.

There is a Rengo Belt Reducing Corset to fit every figure. Our corsetiere will advise you.

'Grounds For Divorce' Will Be Ceramic Show Tonight

Guy Bolton's Famous Play Will be Presented by Chicago Stock Company.

What are "Grounds for Divorce?"

This question seems to be tearing our modern civilization to pieces. Each day the papers blaze forth in headlines all about the "So-and-so's Sensational Divorce Suit."

Consider for a moment the case of the Sorbiers, the two leading characters in Guy Bolton's famous play, "Grounds for Divorce," which the Chicago Stock company is to produce at the Ceramic tonight.

Maurice Sorbier, a highly successful French attorney, married Alice. She was beautiful. He was handsome and rich. What more could a newly married couple wish for? Nothing until it happened.

Their first wedding anniversary finds him wrapped up in his latest case, never for a moment giving a thought to the theatre party his wife had planned for the occasion.

A misunderstanding develops into a small sized riot and ends up in divorce. Alice marries again; Maurice is mixed up in an affair with a French actress, his latest client; the girl finds her new husband worse than the first and has Maurice help her obtain a divorce, and they are remarried.

Great stuff for a play, what! It is chock-full of laughs, sensational at times and altogether "corking entertainment."

The company's highly successful engagement will be brought to a close tomorrow with the thrilling production of "The Bat" repeated because of the numerous requests by the many who were unable to secure seats Wednesday night. Saturday night the korking komikal komedy "A Bachelor's Night" by the author of "Getting Gertie's Garter."

NEWARK — Gloomy days are these for Newark dogdom. Director of Safety Holmes has issued an order that every canine in town must be muzzled for a period of 30 days. The recent mad dog epidemic here is the cause of the order.

Quarreled Since Wedding Day

"My stomach and liver trouble made a regular grouch of me. I was sore at every one, including my wife, and we quarreled every day since the wedding. She is a dear little girl and I know it was my fault. Mayr's Wonderful remedy was recommended for my stomach trouble, and since taking it I have felt like a new man. My wife and I now get along beautifully." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and druggists everywhere.

Addresses Bankers.

CARDINGTON — "Counterfeit or raised money never should be allowed to remain in the hands of the public once its spuriousness is discovered," C. J. Bickford, assistant cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank, Cleveland, told members of Group Six of the Ohio Bankers association at their annual meeting here today.

"To allow worthless money to remain in the hands of the public simply is to put a premium upon the criminal act of passing counterfeit," Mr. Bickford said, "as it is the natural thing for the man in whose possession it is to try to pass the buck to some one else."

After strikers of Japanese textile mills in hanghai, China, had agreed to resume work, electric power was not available, and this caused the workers to present new demands.

Lowly Prune Paves Way for Romance of Youth in Bay State

FALMOUTH, Mass.—Many mediums are seized upon to further the machinations of the little blind god, but seldom before has it fallen upon the lowly prune.

George William Smith, prosaic in name and by occupation—a grocer's helper here, is now on his way to sunny California in quest of his sweetheart he has never seen. Of course George has her picture and she has his, and is even expecting him. But neither has ever seen the other in the flesh.

George's 3,000-mile journey in pursuit of the dictates of his heart started with his prying open the cover to a box of prunes several months ago. Carefully tucked between layers of the dried fruit, George found a slip of paper. On this was neatly written address, and a request for the finder to write. George did.

In return he has received more than 50 sweetly worded love letters which have quite captured his heart, and when he wrote a proposal and accompanied it with his photo, the answer was all that any swain could desire.

To Make Test Case.

CANTON — David Stinton fined $10 and costs for fox hunting on the lands of a Lawrence township farmer without permission has carried his case to common pleas court here and will make a test there. Stinson wants to make the fields safe for hunters, he says.

Citizenship Papers Denied Man Who Served Jail Term

HAMMOND, Ind.—John Marca's version of "nothing" is a one to five year prison sentence plus a $200 fine, according to his statements in seeking naturalization papers.

"Were you ever arrested?" the examiner asked. "Not much," John replied.

"You were arrested once, weren't you?" "Maybe, I dunno."

"And weren't you taken to Crown Point and tried before Judge Smith?" "Yes, but they didn't do nothing to me."

"They didn't do anything to you?"

"No, they didn't do nothing to me."

"You were given one to five years in jail and fined $200 and costs, weren't you?"

"Yes, that's all I got."

The judge's gavel came down with a bang:

"Application denied."

Woman Seeks Bargain Even in Court When Arraigned as Speeder

LOS ANGELES—Woman's bargaining instincts evidenced themselves in "speeder's court" today when Mrs. Joseph Jones appeared before Justice Joseph Marchetti. She was fined $15.

She turned back to the beach after the sentence was imposed.

"Judge," the woman said, "Make it only $10 this time."

The court smiled and called the next case. But Mrs. Jones insisted.

"Next time I come in you can fine me that much more," she argued.

"Madam, you are in a court of justice, not at a bargain sale," was the rebuke administered by the court. Still hesitating at what she thought was a bad bargain, Mrs. Jones was finally prevailed upon to pay the full $15.

The homecoming play, to be given in the high school auditorium, will be Daddy Long Legs. It is given by a student cast coached by Mrs. C. O. Williamson.

Proceedings of Next Japanese Diet May Be Heard Over Radio

TOKIO—Proceedings of the next session of the Japanese imperial diet may be broadcast by radio. The authorities are considering a request made by the Tokio Broadcasting company for a permit to put the speeches of diet members "on the air."

Eve nthough permission for general broadcasting of debate in the diet is refused, it is considered probable that broadcasting of important speeches on government policies by cabinet ministers will be allowed.

The Peninsular Circulator

A Revelation in Home Heaters

The demand for a heater that becomes a part of the home furnishings has been met in the new Peninsular Circulator. It is different and better than anything else on the market.

Harmonizes with Finest Furnishings

The Circulator embodies all the attributes of an efficient heater, plus a design which blends with the home surroundings. In appearance it is a fine piece of furniture, in performance it will keep five rooms warm even in the coldest weather.

Operates Perfectly

The Peninsular Circulator is easily cleaned. A dry cloth rubbed over its vitreous porcelain surface gives a lustre that lasts for days.

It operates perfectly. Cold air is drawn off the floor, circulated around interior of heater casing, then passes out through the top heated to the proper degree. Heated air is moistened by moisture pan in rear.

The Peninsular Circulator burns hard coal, soft coal or coke. Large feed door makes fueling easy. Not necessary to open door to shake or dump the grate.

Let us show you this tastefully designed, easily cleaned circulator. You will be surprised at what it offers for the price.

Come in and let us demonstrate.

Special Introductory Offer

This Week Only

In order to introduce the Peninsular Circulator we will give for this week only, a ton of the best coal with every order for this heater. Why not take advantage of this liberal offer by coming in today and letting us demonstrate the many attractive qualities of the Peninsular Circulator?

WOMAN INJURED IN COLLISION

Automobile and Wagon Crash on Leetonia-Columbiana Road.

Mrs. Frank Salvino, 25, of Columbiana, suffered a fractured pelvis bone and internal injuries, which may result seriously, in a crash between an automobile and a milk wagon on the Columbiana-Leetonia road near Leetonia yesterday. She was removed to the Salem City hosptal.

Mrs. Salvino and her sister, Mrs. Henry Rich, 27, and the latter's two children were returning from Columbiana to their home in Leetonia, with Mrs. Rich at the wheel of her touring car, when the accident occurred. The rear end of the car is said to have crashed into the rear end of a milk wagon driven by Luke Anglemyer, dairyman, living about two miles south of Leetonia, and the automobile overturned.

The two children were thrown from the machine but were unhurt. The women were pinned beneath the car. Bystanders extricated the injured women and were assisted to the office of Dr. Paul Beaver, Leetonia. Mrs. Rich was found to be suffering from cuts and bruises and a nervous shock.

Mrs. Salvino was later taken in an ambulance to the hospital.

others, the air will be full of flying machines, as the ground is now covered with automobiles and every Ford flying machine is arranged so that if necessary to defend the country it can carry a bomb and quick firing gun in place of passengers or freight.

Fifty thousand of the Ford commercial flying machines will soon be part of our defense equipment to take care of any invaders as the rifles of the early Americans, used ordinarily for bears and Indians, took care of King George once.

As you see men eagerly reading stock market quotations in the east, so you see them here reading live stock market quotations. Cows sell for $4.50 a hundred pounds "on the hoof." "Canners and cutters,' old animals that have done their duty for years, from $2.60 to $3.50. Bulls bring $2.75 to $4.00. "Wyoming streets" averagaing 1,033 pounds bringing $8.35. But a "feeder steer" leads a dull life.

Hogs were "slow" and ran was "plain." They brought $12.90 for "choice" averaging 200 pounds.

These prices mean nothing to a majority of eastern readers. They mean everything to farmers and the nation's prosperity.

Scattered through newspaper columns you read of human weaknesses and crime. The white wife of a Hindu husband is found murdered; no explanation.

A Pueblo citizen, Andrew J. Park, who should have known better, brought a strange lady, unmarried, in to his house, and in her presence abused his lawful wife and children. That will cost him $75 a month alimony for Mrs. Park and $300 for her lawyer. "The way to discourage vice is to make it expensive." Almost everywhere you find foolish husbands.

The genuine American crime wave has not rolled out as far as this. However, a few bootleggers and hijackers shoot each other in an amateurish way in Kansas City and points west, but they are mere Sunday school teachers compared to their eastern brethren.

The feverish demand for bootleg poison that exists in the east, is not known in this superior climate.

Ever and anon you read this heading "NEW YORK MULTIMILLIONAIRE IS SUED BY BATHING BEAUTY."

Out here they wonder where the New York multi-millionaires find all the bathing beauties that sue them.

News from far away tells of martial law proclaimed to prevent Greek newspapers publishing unpleasant facts about the Greek government, but who cares about that, 10,000 feet up in Colorado?

Or Mussolini's refusal to accept the apology offered by Austria, following an attack on Italy by Ellenbogen, Austrian Socialist deputy.

A man in Mussolini's position must be particular about points of honor, and you admire his intelligence, shaking his finger at little Greece, or hamstrung Austrian.

But foreign affairs seem utterly trivial. Even the news that 100,00 extra people crowded into Pittsburgh, where $5 tickets sold at $50 for the great ball game, scarcely moves you.

Along the track, on both sides, white-faced Herefords raise their heads, and you can understand that, to so many, the important thing in the world is the price of those animals "on the hoof."

Misisng Pilot's Plane

man may have crashed, and because of the density of the trees his body may not be found for weeks. Gater believes that the flyer was having engine trouble or he would not have been flying so close to the ground after darkness.

A squadron of planes flew over the district north of here and also passed over Pughtown, Monday afternoon, evidently searching for the missing aviator. The birdman left Clarion, Pa., for Cleveland, his next stopping point, last Thursday, and since then nothing has been heard from him. Goverument officials believe that the plane was crashed to the ground, killing the pilot.

Baby Alice Russell

even momentarily left to his own conversational devices, he branches off into discussions of magazine editors and ball players and the extreme value of P. G. Wodehouse to the Saturday Evening Post. It got so that I dared not pause for breath between interrogation points, lest he roam far afield and squander one or two of the very few minutes I had in which to find out all about him.

Doesn't Like to Write

The net result of my catechism is as follows: He doesn't like to write in a press-box at a World's series game, with a lot of people peeking over his shoulder. And he doesn't like the things he writes very well—which proves better than anything I could tell you my firm contention that he's different from the rest of the world. I said, "Why do you write, then, if you don't enjoy it?" "I have to eat," he answered laconically. There are four little Lardners who also have to eat, ranging in ages from 13 down. I asked if any of them showed literary potentialities, and Mr. Lardner, with the first gleam of interest in anything pertaining to himself that he had shown, replied that indeed they did. "They're all doing short stories now," he informed me. "The eldest showed me one the other day, entitled 'A Day in the Life of Mr. Jones.' The opening sentence was this: 'Mr. Jones married a wife because he wanted someone to complain to.' "

Neat, what?

Mr. Lardner has very heavy black eyebrows, projecting over the sharpest and shrewdest black eyes I've ever seen. His face is long, with a long, square chin, and his black hair has receded somewhat from his forehead, leaving a small tuft in its wake. He looks as if he might have made a good center on a football team — or still might, for he isn't old by any means. He wears his hat at an angle sophomoric, not to say actually Prince of Wales. I ventured to mention this sartorial peculiarity, and met with protest instant, though not violent. "That isn't Prince of Wales," said Mr. Lardner, "that's because my face is dirty."

Mrs. Johnson Is Proudest Wife.

And lastly, the proudest wife. That means ball-player's wife, of course—no other wives are of the slightest importance this week. Perhaps since yesterday's game, Mrs. Vic Aldridge is the proudest. But up until 2 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Walter Johnson held the undisputed title, and perhaps she still does. I talked to her in her room at the Morrowfield apartments while she was in the throes of packing to return to Washington. Even under those circumstances—harrowing, as every woman knows—she was agreeable and sweet. A tall slender young woman, with brown wavy hair cut in a shingle bob and brilliant blue eyes, she compels with her personality as well as with her voice, which is unusually low and vibrant.

"I have all the nerves for the family," she said. "Walter hasn't any. He's amazing." And yet she told me that her famous husband "pitched all night in his sleep" the night after his sensational first victory at Forbes Field, and that he never can eat for several hours after a game, so great is the reaction. Mrs. Johson is Walter's unofficial secretary, and last year between the close of the 1924 world's series and the opening of spring training she personally acknowledged more than 6,000 fan letters that came for him. She also keeps scrap-books of clippings about his work, and told me with pardonable enthusiasm that she has 19 large ones entirely filled, one of them with editorials alone.

The Johnsons have lately moved into a new home in Alta Vista, Md., where they have nine acres of land for their four children to play in and a private ball field where Daddy Johnson teaches the young Johnsons how to do it. Both the older boys, who are 8 and 10, respectively, are wild about baseball, and the 8-year-old ("who looke like Walter," Mrs. Johnson said) has what his father calls a perfect natural delivery.

The Johnsons have spent most of their winters in recent years in Reno, where the great Walter hunts by way of relaxation. This year they will winter in Florida, whither they are to betake themselves as soon as the present business is off their minds.

dent of the board, is attached to the petition.

Text of Brokaw's Answer.

The complete text of Brokaw's answer follows:

"For answer to the plaintiff petition, this defendant admits that plaintiff, R. H. Perry, is a resident and taxpayer of the East Liverpool city school district; that he made a request of the city solicitor to bring suit as set forth and that the said city solicitor refused to bring suit; that a petition signed by the Ministerial association and divers citizens was filed with the defendant board; that the resolution set forth in plaintiff's petition was adopted by said board; that said Ministerial association consists of Protestant ministers of the city and that divers citizens were correctly named; that a course of religious instruction was intended and that some of the pupils in said schools are Israelites, some Catholics and some of other beliefs.

"For further answer the defendant says that no course of study has been outlined; that no rules and regulations to govern such a course have been adopted; that no teachers have been hired, and that no rooms have been designated; but that adequate rooms may be supplied for such a course without injury to any other course of study in said schools and without additional cost to taxpayers.

"This defendant further denies that it contemplates the hiring of teachers without certificates and that they are to be teachers in private employ.

"For further answer defendant denies each and every allegation not herein specifically admitted or denied."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Stocks were active and buoyant in the early trading today. Wall street appeared to be very much relieved at the maintenance of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate in the federal reserve bank of New York and the slight improvement in its reserve holdings as evidenced by the advance in the reserve ratio from 75.6 to 76 per cent. Pools whipped up prices of Chrysler Motor to 198, up about 6 points from the previous close; of United Cigar Stores 3 points to 93; Baldwin sold about a point higher; Steel common led a spirited buying movement in the steel stocks. Oils appeared to be stronger, while tire and rubber, and other auto accessory companies moved up to higher levels. The move in Timken carried that stock about 3 points higher.

Announcement of the full operation of the reorganization plan of the St. Paul road was without much effect on the market for the stock, though all of the junior bonds moved up a point or more in active trading. The rails as a group completely ignored the most favorable item of news that has been published in many months, the bureau of railway economics reporting that earnings of the class roads in August reached the high total of $124,804,665, the highest in history for that months and exceeded only once since records of transportation earnings have been kept.

Bullish movements were confined mostly to the industrial, motor and specialty stocks, a few new ones joining the latter group. These included Vivaudou, Gold Dust, Worthington Pump, Brown Bovri and Martin Parry. Meanwhile Fleischman continued its sensational advance to 145; Foundation company reached 152; Spricer, 33; Timken, 55; Freeport Texas, 24; Kennecott Copper, 55½; Kresge, 675 (up 21 points); Woolworth, 195; Goodrich, 69¾.

pared in advance, was received in dead silence. The board's surprise, in fact, was so great that its members conferred for five minutes in whispers before continuing the inquiry.

Court Adjourns Until Monday.

The court adjourned until Monday immediately after the whispered conference without subjecting Mrs. Lansdowne to cross-examination.

Her husband, Mrs. Lansdowne declared, regarded the Shenandoah as a "man of war" which should never be used for "political purposes." He took the ship on its last voyage, she added, because he did not want to receive the "stigma of cowardice."

His protests, so she declared, were officially overruled "because state fairs were being held during the first week of September and must be flown over as scheduled."

In beginning, Mrs. Lansdowne asked to be sworn. She said she preferred to make her statement "under oath."

A second protest by Lansdowne, the widow testified, was against flying the ship to Detroit, without first testing the mooring mast there. This protest, she added, was also disapproved.

Orioles, Colonels Are All Tied in Class AA Series

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9.—The "little World series" in which Louisville and Baltimore are fighting for the class AA championship was all tied today at three games each, with three more games to go.

Behind great pitching by George Earnshaw, the Orioles won yesterday's game, 5 to 3, the Colonels gaining only five hits. A couple of Louisville errors also helped.

The series was in adjournment today until Saturday, when it will be resumed in Baltimore.

HEAR ARGUMENT ON ROAD ROUTE

H. F. Perry Presides at Hearing in Lisbon.

Route of the proposed East Liverpool-East Palestine inter-county highway was discussed at a hearing conducted by H. F. Perry, assistant engineer of maintenance of highways of the state highway department, Columbus, in the court house at Lisbon this morning.

Delegations of residents along the proposed routes and representatives from East Liverpool and East Palestine attended the session. The local Chamber of Commerce was represented by the road committee.

Three routes were suggested, two of them leading through Fredericktown, the other branching to the left at the top of the Fredericktown hill and crossing the valley near the Toland farm. This route, it is declared, will necessitate the erection of a bridge which would cost $50,000 or more.

The majority of those present urged one of the two Fredericktown routes. The county commissioners, it is claimed, favor the eastern road, a seven and one-half per cent grade being available on this route.

Perry took the matter under advisement, and the state highway department's decision will be announced later.

This road is included in the proposed road building program, which will start next year if voters approve the $950,000 bond issue at the polls on Nov. 3.

Game Called Off

or defeat on what Johnson's arm may be able to do in the next five days.

To the Pirates, the postponement was a vast disappointment. They came on from Pittsburgh last night, in the full flush of a victory over Stanley Coveleskie in the second game of the series, deadlocking the issue at one-all and were more than passing confident of their ability to make it two straight today.

BLUEGE ORDERED TO BED TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Oswald Bluege, the Senators' third baseman, who was "beaned' during yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, will not be permitted to play today, it was announced after a physical examination this morning.

Dr. Edward P. Larkin made a thorough examination of the injured player's head, and then ordered him to remain in bed all of today.

He probably will get in tomorrow's game the physician said, if no complications develop.

Scalpers Busy.

This meant that the contending teams would remain here over Monday and then return to Pittsburgh for the last two games, unless one club or the other reels off three straight victories here. This would put an automatic end to the proceedings.

However, few looked for such a contingency. In the opinion of the majority, it was to be Pittsburgh again on Tuesday, provided no further postponements occurred here. The seventh game, if one is necessary, also will be played in the land of smoke.

The forecast for tomorrow was favorable.

Scalpers took advantage of the lull of cajole visitors as they strolled along Pennsylvania avenue or stood idly in the hotel lobbies. The pasteboard bandits worked openly and with almost pernicious insistence. They seemed, however, to do little business, if at all. Fifty dollars for single tickets was the general price quoted to anyone who seemed interested.

Welcomed by Bluege.

The Senators also can muster a few "maidens" in the pitching stakes, namely Dutch Ruether, Alex. Ferguson and Tom Zachary, but it wasn't the exigencies of the moment that counted so much. What the Senators really wanted was additional rest for Johnson and they got it. The interval, likewise, was welcome to Ossie Bluege, who still was a bit groggy from the blow on the head he sustained yesterday.

Otherwise, however, the situation remained unchanged, the third game going over to tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and next two contests on the local schedule being put forward one day each.

The change of scene served to reduce the odds of 6 to 5 on the Pirates to something very close to even money. Washington, overnight, had lined up behind its champions in what little betting transpired.

The postponement disappointed thousands of capital fans—particularly the hundreds who had stood in the rain in the early morning hours striving for the general admission bleacher tickets.

Thirty-seven Motorists Arrested.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Charged with violating provisions of the local traffic code 37 Columbus motorists today are scheduled to be arraigned in traffic court Tuesday.

SPEED UP WORK ON NEW ROAD

East Liverpool Midland Highway May Open Before Winter.

Rinehart Brothers are speeding up the improvement of the Midland-East Liverpool road, with the expectation of completing the job before winter sets in.

All grading work has been completed and about one third of the concrete surfacing for the road is in place. The concrete mixer has been moved to a point about half way between Smith's Ferry and Midland where it is now working in the direction of Smith's Ferry. With weather conditions favorable, the concrete work is expected to be finished within a month.

That part of the road from the state line to the new bridge over Beaver Creek is completed, but cannot be used until the bridge is opened to traffic.

The Ferris Engineering company, Pittsburgh, building the bridge across the creek, is now workong on one of the two spans. The road from the state line to Smith's Ferry probably will be opened about November 15.

The Pennsylvania highway department next year will reroute the new road above the railroad tracks through Smith's Ferry, which will eliminate the rail crossing at the upper end of the village. For the present time, however, all traffic must move over the streets traversed by the traction cars.

Austen Chamberlain Is Optimistic at Security Pact Meet

LOCARNO, Oct. 9.—Frankly admitting that "many difficulties remain for which no solution has been found,' Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, today declared that he believes the security pact conferences are extending their "sphere of agreement."

Chamberlain declared that where "so much good will exists" it is hard to see how there can be failure to reach a final agreement.

BOWLING GREEN REPORTS SNOW

BOWLING GREEN, O., Oct. 9.—Bowling Green felt its first touch of winter today when a cold rain changed into snow. The white flakes fell for about half an hour, but melted as fast as they reached the ground.

The thermometer registered 34 degrees.

Baseball Ticket Scalper is Chased Into White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A world's series ticket scalper was chased by the capital's diligent police tody to the very doors of the White House—and then inside.

Arrested for trying to dispose of a world's series ticket at a considerable advance over the market price, Mickey Bushrod, a colored messenger at the executive mansion, proved to be a veritable safe deposit vault of the coveted pasteboards.

The police claim that when they searched Mickey they found 19 tickets and tracing them back through the Washington club found that all constituted a part of the White House allotment.

Whether the president's ticket was among them or not the police did not state.

Mickey was relieved of the tickets and ridden to the station house, where he put up $100 collateral, which he later forfeited in police court.

An investigation was under way, however, at the executive offices this afternoon that promised to cost some of the employes their jobs.

NORTH OLMSTEAD BANK HELD UP

NORTH OLMSTEAD, O., Oct. 9.—Three bandits entered the North Olmstead bank here today shortly after noon, held up George Dewey, the president, and escaped with between $2,500 and $3,000 in cash.

This town is ten miles west of Cleveland.

BUILDING BOOM LOOMS IN U. S.

Business Healthy, Says Federal Reserve Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The nation is in the vortex of a great building boom, it was disclosed today in figures announced by the federal reserve board.

Building contracts for August totalled more than half a billion dollars ahead of the same month last year. The August figures were $611,000,000, an increase of $67,000,000 over July figures, and early reports of September activity indicate the pace is being maintained.

Residential building made up 44 per cent of that for August and early September, according to the board. Although there is still a housing shortage in the United States conditions are rapidly improving. In the big cities much of the building was of apartment houses.

The heavy increase in construction work is viewed by officials as an important index of improved business conditions.

The business situation, as indicated by the report, is favorable as the crop movement season is under way. There has been also a substantial increase in the demand for bank credit.

HIGHS OPEN WITH DOVER

Center Mathes Ineligible for Saturday Clash.

Handicapped to start with by the absence of a sufficient number of seasoned men around whom could be constructed a team sufficiently strong to withstand the assaults of the season's schedule, Wellsville high school's squad this week sustained another blow when school authorities declared Center Mathes ineligible, and, as a result, the Orange and Black faces anything but rosy prospects for their opening tilt of the season tomorrow afternoon at Dover.

Mathes, one of the larger men of the squad whose bulk is needed on the line, was declared ineligible, as a result, it is said, of scholastic difficulties, at the last moment. He will be out for the Dover game at least.

Having depended upon Mathes as practically a sure bet for the center job, Coach Earl Klinck was left in somewhat of a dilemma when Mathes left the lineup and tomorrow, through necessity, must call upon an inexperienced substitute. Although he has not decided definitely, his choice probably will be Magill, who, playing his first year of high school football, has shown exceptional promise as a lineman.

A squad of approximately 20 players will make the trip to Dover, leaving here tomorrow morning shortly after 8 o'clock by auto.

Although Coach Klinck has not announced a definite lineup, he may call on Calhoun and Kenney for the ends; Hepp and Thorne, tackles; Klavaughn and Holliday, guards, and Magill or Farrell, center. In the backfield Miller will call signals, Pignatore will be at fullback and Captain Campbell at left half. The choice for the other half rests among Eschbacher, Harrison and McLaughlin.

CHILDREN'S HOME HEAD APPOINTED

Jefferson county commissioners today announced the appointment of Edward Rutherford, county probation officer, as superintendent of the Jefferson county children's home, at Yellow Creek, to succeed F. E. Cunningham.

Superintendent and Mrs. Cunningham, who have been in charge of the home for a number of years, recently tendered their resignation and will relinquish their duties at the institution on December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham receently entertained at a dinner in the home for the county commissioners and board of trustees of the home.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rutherford, of Steubenville, the successful applicants, others who took the examination for the post included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McNary, of Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson, of Wintersville.

MISS VERNIA IS BRIDGE HOSTESS

Miss Helen Vernia entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home in Broadway, the occasion honoring Mrs. Dwight Chapman, of Tarentum, Pa.

Mrs. Chapman, prior to her marriage several months ago, was Miss Lucile Cosby, former member of Wellsville high school teaching staff.

Several tables of bridge were in play during the evening, honors being awarded Mrs. Chapman and Miss Elizabeth McKenzie. At the close of the affair luncheon was served by Mrs. F. E. Vernia, the hostess' mother.

Guests included Misses Jeanette Grafton, Elizabeth McKenzie, Loretta Hogenmiller, Eileen Tood, Laura Jeffrey, Virginia Shea, Virginia Vernia, Minnie Rabinovitz, and Grace Croft, the latter from East Liverpool.

MAYOR RECOVERS HIS "LOST" CAR

Mayor James S. Barnes "almost" lost his automobile.

Thursday afternoon, the city's chief executive went out in front of the city hall and looked for his car. It was not there. Immediately suspecting auto thieves and probably a duplication of the theft in which the car belonging to a Louisville man was stolen from Riverside avenue several days ago, he notified Sheriff George Wright and other authorities throughout the district.

Later local police combed the streets and territory adjacent to the city for a trace of the missing car.

Having failed, police were returning to the city hall late yesterday afternoon and, suddenly, discovered the "lost" auto parked near Calhoun's garage in upper Main street.

Simultaneously with the finding of the car came the thought to the mayor that he had parked the car there earlier in the day and had forgotten it.

Wilma Boring Hostess.

Miss Wilma Jane Boring entertained a number of her friends at her home on Riverside avenue Wednesday evening, the affair honoring her eleventh birthday anniversary.

Music, games and a guessing contest were diversions. Miss Veecile King won honors in the guessing contest. Fall flowers were used in the decorations. At the close of the evening, luncheon was served by the hostess' mother, Mrs. Williams, assisted by Miss Marguerite Carnahan and Miss Kathleen Stetler.

Among the guests were: Misses Margeurite Carnahan, Kathleen Stetler, Poal Hacker, Elizabeth Craige, Irene Bell, Laberta Carnahan, Laila Stetler Veecile Kin, Eveylene Davis, Pearl Williams, Mary Zearley, Mary Peck, Elizabeth Zearley, and Jayne Boring.

WILL TELL HOW MONEY'S SPENT

Auditor Calls Public Meet for Friday, Oct. 16.

City taxpayers will have an opportunity to learn what becomes of the money they pay into municipal and county coffers.

Acting on the request of Councilman Clyde Baker, City Auditor Fred Eckfeld today announced that a mass meeting of citizens will be held on Friday evening, October 16, in the city hall, and there, he said, will be given a complete outline of the manner in which tax money is spent.

Auditor Eckfeld will explain the situation himself. Whether the meeting will be held in the council chamber or the more spacious auditorium depends upon the size of the audience.

Several weeks ago Councilman Baker, prompted by citizens' inquiries regarding the city's financial condition and how it became that way, suggested to solons that a public meeting be held for the purpose of explaining the tax system.

The matter was referred to Auditor Eckfeld who has set the date for the session.

Must Prove Age to Drive Automobile in New York

New York.—Youths who desire licenses to drive autos hereafter must file birth certificates to show their real ages.

Commissioner Charles A. Hartnett, head of the state motor vehicle bureau, issued an order that all applicants between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one must file birth certificates with their applications, effective September 1. Formerly birth certificates were demanded only in cases where the applicant stated that he was between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one.

William M. Arnstein, executive assistant to Commissioner Hartnett, in explaining the new order, said:

"This order is intended to put a check on the so-called automobile schools, which purport to teach persons to drive cars and which will not stop at criminal means to obtain drivers' licenses for their pupils. In one case it was shown that a boy, not yet seventeen, had attended one of these schools, and obtained a driver's license."

Mr. Arnstein added that it is an easy matter for a husky youth of sixteen or seventeen to pose as more than twenty-one, and thus avoid having to produce a birth certificate, and added that the practice is a common one in New York.

England's Babe Ruth Still Idol of British Sunday School Pupils

LONDON—Jack Hobbs, the "Babe Ruth" of English cricket, still qualifies as the hero of every British Sunday school scholar.

When Hobbs recently equaled the world's record for cricket "centuries" he quaffed what was reported to have been a cup of champagne offered him by his captain.

Now, in answer to a query from the secretary of the Western Temperance league, Hobbs maintains the liquid was not champagne but ginger ale.

Prohibition opponents are also satisfied, for, after drinking the ginger ale Hobbs made only one more run before being put out. He would have done better on champagne, they maintain.

'Virginia Venus'" Beauty, Fatal to Two, Sends Third to Gallows

The flashing beauty of (above) Mrs. Vivian Tomlin Peers, "Virginia Venus," cause of two men's deaths, is about to toss another into the grave, weeks after her own violent end. The supreme court of Virginia is reviewing a final appeal against the death sentence meted out to youthful Rudolph Disse (inset), for the slaying of Mrs. Peers, Henry G. Carter, a rival, and a detective.

"Dead" for Five Minutes, Is Restored to Life

Los Angeles, Cal.—Dying is easy, but coming back to life is a living hell.

"Dead" for five minutes and restored to life by adrenalin, William Bethurum, seventy-two years old, described recently his excursion into the realm of the "hereafter."

Bethurum collapsed in the county sheriff's office when informed that friends had bailed him out of jail where he was held on a minor charge.

County jail physicians pronounced him dead and Dr. Benjamin Blank was called to sign the death certificate. Although he had little hope of reviving Bethurum because of his extreme age, Blank decided to administer adrenalin.

Bethurum responded quickly to the treatment and was delivered smiling to his home in less than an hour.

"The dying didn't hurt a bit," he said. "I don't remember a thing about it. It was just like going to sleep."

"But the coming to was hell. I was never so deathly ill in all my life as when the effects of the adrenalin were wearing off."

Bethurum was proprietor of a restaurant.

"I'll just rest up a bit for a few days and then go back to work," he said. "I am too young and full of life to be lying around and doing nothing."

"Small cars," of fourteen horsepower and less, are becoming so popular in Europe that factories there are turning out more of them than of the heavier types, their low operating costs offsetting the fact that many are higher priced than the larger ones.

Zagreab, Yugoslavia, is to have a large state boradcasting station.

Scene of World's Series Battles Shifts to Nation's Capital

NAT-PIRATE DEADLOCK WILL BE BROKEN TODAY IF WEATHERMAN ALLOWS

Washington Fans Set to Repeat Celebration of Last Year in Event of Senatorial Victory; Ray Kremer Will be Opposed by Either Ferguson or Ruether; Pittsburgh Again on Long End of Series Odds.

By Davis J. Walsh.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Geographical scene shifting between darkness and dawn carried the world series out from the spot where the opaque begins and into the home of everlasting marble today and all was far from quiet along the Potomac. The late General Grant to the contrary, all, as a matter of fundamental fact, was most unquiet, Washington having lashed itself into a lather of expectancy.

The occasion today was to mark the breaking of the deadlock and to prove, at the same time, that the days of romance were not dead.

It was apparent today that they had just begun to live, with the fans of the nation's capital re-enacting the scenes of 1924 when the Senators wrested the world's title from the New York Giants. Romance surely lived last night when lines of otherwise sane citizens stood patiently through the zero hours that they might be assured of a seat in the unreserved sections for the first world series game Washington has seen in the twelfth month.

Washington, in fact, was about to run amuck all over again, the novelty of last year's celebration still being dulcet sweet to its civic palate. Whether that celebration will be repeated or whether Pennsylvania avenue will resound to not the slightest note of revelry by night depended upon the performance of the Senators in the next two games.

Ferguson and Kremer.

The pre-game choice of the pitchers today named Alex Ferguson of Washington, whom Miller Huggins of the Yankees esteemed but lightly, and Ray Kremer of Pittsburgh.

The Senators won on Wednesday because Walter Johnson pitched a typical Johnson ball game. They lost yesterday because Coveleskie recited little boy blew in a Polish translation. In neither game, to be candid, did the Senators look like the champions of the world.

They looked so shaky, in fact, that the professional gamblers circulated through special trains enroute to the capital last night professing willingness to chance their all on the belief that the Pirates had lost their last game of the series. They wanted odds, perforce, but their idea merely mirrored the general trend of opinion.

Pirates Favorites.

This was best illustrated by the fact that the odds shifted from 5 to 4 on the Senators to 6 to 5 on the Pirates as the result of yesterday's game.

However, pro-Washington men looked for an immediate change in the situation with the Senators operating on their own happy hunting ground. They are not regarded as a home town club but the theory was that they were due to play better ball some time and the present was as good as any.

The all night vigil and the fact that reserved sections were sold out weeks ago inqicated that Griffith park this afternoon would play host to the third world series crowd of more than 40,000 in exactly three games. The series will break no attendance records only because Thomas Edison has yet to invent elastic concrete.

The possibility existed that Stanley Harris would alter his announced plan and send Walter "Dutch" Reuther against the Pirates today. Some doubt was current as to the stability of Alex Ferguson, in spite of his fine record with the Senators.

Romance In Series.

Should Ruether be the pitcher to oppose Kremer, then romance would live as never before.

This possible selection might be an insignificant fact in itself, unless one happened to remember that both Ruether and Kremer were graduates of St. Ignatius college, Calif.

It might be without further significance if it wasn't for the fact that Ruether and Kremer, far from being competitive strangers, would thus engage in the rubber contest of a three game duel that endured through thirteen years.

It started back in old Sonoma county, California, in the days when men were strictly males; the year 1913 to be precise.

Petaluma and Sebastopol were to play a three game series for the championship of the county. Two obscure but rising young men of the profession were engaged as the opposing pitchers. Their names were Walter Ruether and Ray Kremer and the game they pitched that first day was worthy of a niche in the hall of fame. Ruether carried Petaluma to a 2 to 1 decision, getting away with a four-hit game while Kremer allowed but three. Kremer would have tied the score with a drive in the ninth inning if it hadn't been for a diving catch in center field by Warren Brown, now a nationally known sports writer.

Kermer Wins Series.

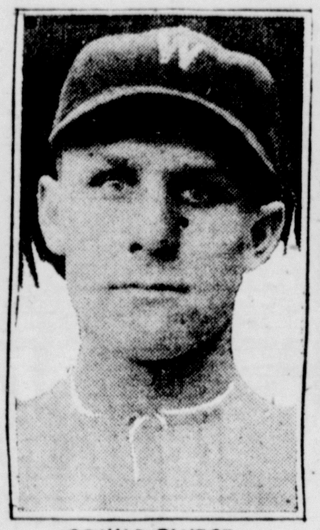
Having done that much, Brown shifted to Sebastopol for the second game just in time to be with the winning ball club, Kremer gaining a 2 to 0 victory over Ruether. The latter was good for seven hit game on this occasion, but Kremer again weighed in with a three-hit performance and that was distinctly that.

Reuther did not appear in the third game, also won by Kremer. He did not appear because a major league club had signed him in the meantime. The identity of the major league club? Certainly. The Pittsburgh Pirates, the same team he would attempt to left hand to defeat this afternoon.

Ruether got his chance because of an exhibition game he pitched against the Chicago White Sox, in which he was opposed by a certain Tom Heaton. Thomas is worthy of mention only because he was the man who pitched against Kremer in the third game of the Petaluma-Sebastopol series.

Vessels passing through the Panama canal in the last year numbered 4,673, or more than four times the number in the first year of the canal ten years ago.

BADLY BUMPED



OSWALD BLUEGE

Oswald Bluege, Nats' third baseman, beaned by a pitched ball in yesterday's clash, may not be able to take part in today's third game, and possibly the series. Although he is still suffering pain, no serious consequences are expected.

Bluege's place will likely be taken by young Buddy Meyer, who recently went to the Senators from the New Orleans club of the Southern association.

CROWD WILL SEE WOOSTER OBERLIN

WOOSTER, Oct. 9.—The advance ticket sale for the Wooster-Oberlin football game to be played here Saturday indicates a record crowd which will more than fill the new $50,000 football bleachers. Saturday is Wooster's annual homecoming and several thousand visitors are expected here for the day.

John D. McKee, alumni secretary, has arranged for a meeting of all Wooster colleeg alumni in Hoover Cottage immediately after the game. An alumni section at the football game and at the homecoming play will put all homecomers together.

TACKLE PLAYS BISON'S BEST

Line Thrusts Will be Used Against Thiel Eleven.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 9—The best bet for the Bisons in Saturday's game with Thiel is in their fast and elusive off tackle plays. With such men as Loppacker, Hamil, Stobbs, Barlow and Kinsey to alternate in carrying the ball, the Thiel defense should be run ragged in the first half. If by any chance Bethany's strong and deceptive line plays are halted, they can always resort to the aerial route—of which they are masters.

It will be impossible for Thiel to stop Stobbs and Hamil from routing out their light line. On every attempt in the Duquesne conflict, Stobbs as well as Hamil, could not be halted in their charge down the field. The strength of these two men is greatly under-estimated by local critics because their efforts to date have been used in interferring for the shifty halves of the Bison squad.

Capt. Loppacker was in the real work-out today for the first time since his injury. During the scrimmage he easily zigzagged through the entire reserve squad many times. His return will greatly strengthen the Green and White team. Although Barlow did well in his punting last Saturday, Capt. Loppacker's educated toe will make the going much harder for the Theil eleven.

This being a short week because of the early departure of teh team for Greenville, Coach Nuss is working his men at a fast clip. Calisthenics are still being given to the squad although the condition of all the men is well-nigh perfect. Signal drill, scrimmage, and punting fill out the day's program.

WORLD'S SERIES SIDELIGHTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9.—Goslin certainly gave Wright's homer the old college try. He leaped frantically after a ball that cleared the left field barrier by almost 15 feet.

Cuyler's game-winning homer would have been a long hit on any field. Neither Rice nor Joe Harris got within yards of it as it hit the ground preliminary to its long hop into the stands.

The old break wasn't on Coveleskie's spitter after the first few innings. He got by to the eighth on what he knew.

One of Peckinpaugh's errors was excusable, the ball slipping out of his hand as he attempted to throw it, due to a liberal application of saliva. The other was unpardonable. Roger simply scored a drop kick with an easy double play in front of him.

Earl Smith seemed to annoy Goslin no little. He clowned around when the Goose walked out of the box because Aldridge was taking so much time to pitch in the fifth and earlier in the game he was alleged to have tipped Goslin's bat.

Grantham was supposed to afford most of the comic relief of the series but, to date, he has played a remarkable game at first base. He saved three wild throws with great stops yesterday.

After smacking a whistling foul down the right field line in the eighth, Goslin rushed back to the dugout to change bats. Then he tapped weakly to the pitcher.

Stanley Harris has yet to make his first hit. The well known young man can't grip the bat firmly, owing to his lacerated finger. But probably will break out in a rash of base hits at a very early moment.

With three on and none out in the ninth, Veach was sent up as a pinch hitter with evident instructions to wait Aldridge out. That seemed like bad business for a free-swinger of this type.

Peck and Ruel got successive Texas leaguers to open the fifth, a thing that is not often seen on a ball field. All too few of the Senators' hits to date have been without the taint of real legitimacy.

Ruel saved a run in the sixth with Carey on third base. He made a fine diving stop of a near-wild pitch by the Pole.

JIMMY FINLEY TO MEET JONES

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, K., welterweight champion of the south and also holder of the welter title of Cuba will be Jimmy Jones' opponent in the first indoor boxing show of the season at Rayon-Wood next Tuesday night. Joe Simonich wired in that he wanted more time to get in shape for a Jones match, but owing to Jones being booked solid for later dates Promoter Zill wos forced to line up a new opponent for him, and for Finley it can be said that he is one of the very best among the younger crop of welter weights.

On paper Finley has everything that can be expected. He has knocked out 50 opponents in 130 fights, won the welter weight title of the south by knocking out Red Hill of New Orleans, in a slashing ten rounder, and Herring its to be remembered, is the boy that beat Pinkie Mitchell out of the junior welter weight title. He also beat Joe Anderson, Henry Molchoir, Warnie Smith, Joe Delaney, Tommy Freeman and won the Cuban middleweight title from Kid Charol in 15 rounds, the welter title of Cuba from Ponce DeLeon, by a Kayo in 11 rounds.

The cost of living continues to rise in Germany.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators is seen examining his spiked finger. The wound, received in a game with Cleveland, was not properly healed when world's series opened. A hard blow may reopen it or cause the finger to swell and force him—the mainspring of the Washington defense, from the series at any time. Arrow points to the vital digit.

Diamond Classic Now At Strategy Stage

History of 20 World's Series Shows That Third Game, Following an Even Split in First Two is Generally a Wild and Hectic Affair; Second Line Boxmen, Several, in Fact, May be Called on Today.

By Sid Mercer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The world series transferred here overnight from Pittsburgh reached the strategy stage as the Senators and Pirates squared off for the third round. With Walter Johnson in the wings until tomorrow or possibly Sunday, the new stage is set for a jockeying of pitchers that may result in heavy scoring today.

In the rapid shifting that featured the final game between the Giants and Senators last year, the youthful Stanley Harris played his cards well. He had Johnson as his ace in the hole and it was Johnson who finally won the game and the series for him.

Today both managers must call upon second line boxmen—may call on several, in fact. The history of 20 world championship struggles shows that when the first two games result in an even split the third is generally a wild and hectic affair.

With no more than five games left to play, the American league champions are in a softer spot than the Pirates. For one thing, they are at home and their opponents are playing on a field that is unfamiliar to them. This field is more capacious than the Pittsburgh lot, on which temporary stands encroach.

There are several long distance hitters on the Washington team—more than Pittsburgh can muster—and there will be no fluke home runs to ruin good pitching efforts.

Washington, furthermore, can fall back on Johnston tomorrow if the Pirates win today. If they win the third game, Sir Walter probably will rest until Sunday.

The betting odds on the series have been shaved down, but from where I sit the Senators still are favorites. A Washington fan who has wagered heavily on the American league champions explained it this way coming over on the train from Pittsburgh last night:

"After Washington won the first game," he argued, "it was up to Pittsburgh to win four out of the next six. They grabbed one yesterday, but they still must take three out of the next five, and they will get about two more doses of Johnson if the series goes to seven games. Our second string pitchers are as good as theirs, so we should worry."

Lower wages and longer hours of work of glove makers in Czechslovakia has permitted cutting of costs to such an extent that English glove factories are unable to compete even at home, and are laying off hands.

$366,473.95 IS PAID IN BY FANS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—Statisticians, who always appear after world series teams leave, announced today that 85,069 paid customers witnessed the two games played in Pittsburgh after depositing $366,473.95 at Barney Dreyfuss' several box offices.

Of the amount already taken in $186,901 goes to the players, $62,300.41 to each club and $54,970.25 to the advisory council.

From the same statisticans it was learned that Pittsburghers and their neighbors took a livelier interest in the baseball classic thus far than the Washingtonians did in the first two games last year, when the total attendance was only 71,682 and receipts $270,952.

CARDINALS PLAY AT HANOVERTON

Postponed from last Sunday on account of rain, the clash between the Hanoverton nine and the East Liverpool Cardinals will be played next Sunday afternoon at Hanoverton. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Hi Myers will be seen in the Hanoverton lineup, with Burleigh Grimes pitching.

Dad Jones, veteran pastimer, will do the receiving for the Cardinals.

Rival School Squads Set For Annual Gridiron Clash Saturday

BOONE'S ELEVEN FACES REAL STRUGGLE WITH WILE'S CHESTER LADS

Hanes and McVey, of Reserve Eleven, May be Used on First Squad by Blue and White Mentor as Result of Injuries to Bough and Shaffer; Hancock Countians Expected to Develop Strong Attack.

Despite the fact that the greatest sport spectacle of the year will be in progress in Washington, with the Senators and Pirates vieing for acclaim in the world's series, district football fans will allow their attention to be diverted momentarily to Rock Springs park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the 1925 gridiron meeting of East Liverpool and Chester high schools.

The engagement between the rival institutions takes rank with the chief battles of the schedule, inasmuch as the Hancock countians, this year departing from tradition, are not at all likely to prove a doormat for the cleated feet of rival footballers.

Strength in abundance—a strong offense, a viritable stonewall defense, with a potent air threat and a knowledge of the fine points of the game—all these things were displayed in Chester's first victory of the season in their opening game with Wellsburg a week ago down on the Brooke county school's lot. The Chester eleven won by a two touchdown margin, holding the home guard scoreless.

But the proteges of Coach R. V. Wile, who, by the way, was a four letter man at Geneva college, will find a stronger foe in the Blue and White than they did at Wellsburg, and, at the same time, will be keyed to a higher pitch doubtlessly, than they were for their inaugural tilt.

Rival coaches, products of rival colleges, will be sitting on benches of their rival high school teams. Wile, Geneva star, will be matching gridiron strategy with O. V. Boone, mentor of the Blue and White and former star at Grove City.

Wile, at Chester, has built his team around a five-man combination remaining from last year, and apparently has done a good job of it. He had Miller, end; Campbell, center; Harold Campbell, Pinney and Shaw, backs, from last year's team.

The East Liverpool eleven tomorrow will probably be without the services of Shaffer, quarter, and Bough, tackle, both of whom are suffering from injuries. According to Coach Boone it is likely that Hanes will take Bough's job, but the quarterback post presents a problem which, he announced today, he had not definitely solved.

Boone may use his reserve eleven at the outset of the clash, but the regular lineups will likely be as follows:

East Liverpool.		Chester.
Perry	L. E.	Miller
Banks	L. T.	Rodocker
McKim	L. G.	Kimble
Larkins	C.	C. Campbell
Kinsey	R. G.	Edwards
Hanes	R. T.	Hinds
R. Shaffer	R. E.	Ewing
McVey	Q.	H. Campbell
Rieble	L. H.	Johnson, Bartley or Simcox.

HUSKERS GIVE WAY TO SPEED

Forward Pass Also Gets Rightful Place at Nebraska.

By WILBUR C. PETERSON.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 9.—Tradition has been woven around the husky teams developed at Nebraska university. It has come to be an accepted belief that any team that represents the Nebraskans will run much to beef.

CAPT ED WEIR

In building up such teams in the past coaches have sacrificed speed. The forward pass, as a method of attack, was given much less attention than in any other of the leading colleges.

This year Ernest Bearg, serving his first year as coach after four years as assistant to Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, is changing things. The Nebraska varsity this year is being selected for speed. The forward pass is being given its rightful place. The team is much lighter.

Sprint Stars in Backfield.

The Husker backfield, composed of John Rhodes, fullback; John Brown and Roland Locke, halfbacks, and Robert Stephens, quarter, is one of the fastest quartets in the Missouri valley. Rhodes does the sprints as a track man in near 10 seconds, while Stephens also comes near that mark. Roland Locke equaled the world's records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes last year.

In the line Captain Weir and Lonnie Stiner play the tackle positions, with Walter Scholz and Frank Pospisil at the guards. At ends appear Joe Weir, and Leon Sprague or Dorsey McIntyre. Roy Mandery and Willard Dover also are good prospects for the wing positions. At center is Harold Hutchison, reputed to be one of the best centers in Cornhusker football history—and Nebraska has had some good ones in Robert Cameron, all-Valley center in 1915 and 1916, and Bill Day, a nominee on a number of all-western mythical teams in 1919 and 1920.

Good Reserve Material.

Reserve material which looks good includes Walter Kriemelmeyer, 225-pound guard; Roy Randels, tackle; Cecil Molzen, guard or tackle; Joe Wostonphal, tackle or center; Clarence Raisch, guard; Merle Zuver, tackle; Lloyd Grow, center; Elfred DuTeau, quarter; Arnold Oehlrich, full; Archie Hecht, half; Glen Presnell, half; Avard Mandery, half; Roy Andreson, end.

NEW TYPE OF BACKS FOR HARVARD

Daly, Picking Them, Wants Weight, and Is Getting It

Interest in the Harvard team centers around the work of Major Daly, backfield coach, in developing a combination. Daly wants weight back of the line and has one combination now averaging 187 pounds—Captain Cheek, Al Miller, Clem Coady and Joe Crosby. Stafford is Cheek's rival for quarter, but is light. Harvard has Charley and Eddie Bradford, twins, among its candidates.

W. V. U. CONCLUDES HOME LOT WORK

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Warriors who will wear the moleskins of West Virginia at the new Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon in the annual Mountaineer-University of Pittsburgh football game finished their home field pre-battle work here yesterday afternoon. The next time the Mountaineer regulars put on their uniforms it will be at an unannounced hour this afternoon when they will go through a light workout at the Pitt Stadium. After that brief session the squad will remain in seclusion at its quiet hotel until the kick-off Saturday at 2:30 p. m. The Mountaineers are to be kept away from the crowd of enthusiastic fans.

Head Coach Ira Rodgers has not made any changes in the West Virginia lineup this week, except to work "Sleepy" Glenn at right halfback for Mike Hardy a part of each session, and the team held to a 6-0 score by Davis Elkins is almost sure to be in act at the kick-off Saturday. Trainer Art Smith has all the first string performers in good shape and the Mountaineers will go into the game with their full strength available.

The varsity squad is scheduled to leave for Pittsburgh in a private parlor car over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad this morning at 8:00 o'clock. Members of the freshman team will leave at 5:03 over the Pennsylvania this afternoon and second string varsity, bands, students and hundreds of fans on the special rain Saturday morning at 8:00.

COMPTON TELLS FRESHMEN HOW

JUNIORS BEATEN BY COLLEGIATES

The Collegiates defeated the Hilltop Junior eleven Wednesday evening, 6-0. Although it was the first game of the esason for both teams, they played a good brand of football throughout. The only score of the tilt followed a line lunge by Smith, of the Collegiates, from the one-yard line. The Collegiates seek games for Wednesdays. Their phone is 1441-J. The lineup:

COLLEGIATES.		JUNIORS.
Small	L. E.	McGonigal
Hebron	L. T.	Althers
Clark	L. G.	Watson
Todd	C.	Neville
Helms	R. G.	Hildritch
Davidson	R. T.	Wartring
Feit	R. E.	Hildritch
Wooley	G.	Thornton
Anderson	L. H.	Wucherer
Kidder	R. H.	Evans
Smith	F.	Hall

Touchdown—Smith.

Ostriches Slaughtered.

PORT ELIZABETH, South African—Because of the lack of demand overseas for their feathrs ostriches are being slaughtered wholesale for their skins and flesh.

The skins are used for fancy shoes, while the flesh is dried for the use of Rand natives. In the Sundays river district alone 6,000 birds have been slaughtered recently.

Italy's Population Climbing.

ROME—Italy's population increased by half a million during 1924, according to census returns just issued. Sicily provided the highest percentage of births, Sicilian women bearing 104 triplets, and 16 quadruplets during that year.

There were also 616 pairs of twins brought into the world there.

TWO BUNTS AND A MORAL

A Lesson From Walter Johnson's Triumph

By Norman E. Brown.

WITH THE WORLD'S SERIES TEAMS, Oct. 9.—Buried deep in the realms of copy written around the opening of the world's series lies a story of two bunts and a moral.

Hughie Jennings, the man who gave Detroit three pennants in a row back in 1907-08-09, tells the tale of the two bunts. They draw their own moral.

During the first of those three heyday years for Detroit, Jennings led his Tigers, one day, against the Washington club. A rookie, tall, willing, raw and eager, faced the Junglemen.

Hughie himself doesn't recall the exact score. But he recalls that the Detroit team beat the rookie—and that two bunts, placed at the youth's feet, spelled his undoing.

That rookie was Walter Johnson.

"Boy, take my word that he had speed that day—burning speed. Speed that made the ball come at you as small as a pea—until it came up to the plate. Then it loomed as big as a balloon—too late to hit," says Jennings, now first aide to John McGraw.

The next time the Detroit club faced Johnson they looked for that speed again, and got it. They figured, too, on beating him the same way—by bunting him "to death."

"We didn't get a bunt off him that second time," says Hughie.

And therein lies the basic secret of Walter Johnson's success, triumphs of 18 years, crowned by two championships in which he played a major part, and two chances to prove more conclusively his greatness as a pitcher.

Johnson himself realized his weakness that day. That fault was corrected. That same spirit dominated his early days in the big show—and still exists.

Johnson studied himself—was his severest critic. He corrected his faults willingly, confident that through such study lay the road to success.

Came the time when he had mastered these defects—in the eyes of the baseball world at least. Then, next, came the day when he found the "smoke" which had sent him on the high road to fame failing him. No, not exactly failing him, but beginning to exact its toll in soreness, fatigue and a crying need for more rest between days on the mound.

It was Johnson who first realized it and proceeded to correct the new fault—the heavy tax on his arm.

And so, today, after 18 years of ceaseless training, self imposed, he finds himself still riding the crest—still ranking as baseball's greatest idol.

Men who entered the big leagues when he did—and ten years after—have passed by. Some achieved a fair measure of fame. Some much. But baseball men who know—Jennings, McGraw, Robinson—men who have lived a lifetime in the game, will tell you that most men set their own pace and hold it by the measure of their earnest desire to learn—improve their own game.

SPEEDING ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

Contractors Expect to Complete Surface Jobs in 30 Days.

Because of favorable weather prevailing, contractors now engaged on road work in this county have been making rather fast progress on all jobs, within the next 30 days it is claimed all surface jobs will have been completed and grading on other contracts will be continued through the earlier winter months, should necessity require.

Interest at this time is centered mainly in the speed of Lewis & Copeland, who have the contract for surfacing the Yellow Creek section of the Wellsville-Salineville road. This job is three and three quarter miles pouring of concrete passed the two in length and Thursday night the mile mark, leaving one and three quarters miles to be completed.

It is the opinion of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk that the pouring of concrete on this entire job will be finished about Oct. 31, according to the present rate of construction.

Residents of Salineville are very much interested in this road and it has been announced by the Good Roads Boosters' club of Salineville that when the new road is thrown open to traffic it is proposed to hold a celebration in Salineville, to be followed by a dinner in honor of county officials, contractors and others who have been active in the construction of an improved highway between Salineville and Wellsville.

The first coat of asphalt has been applied to the Petersburg-Unity road next few days the "seal coat" or the last of the top surfacing will be finished. With this part of the road completed contractors will then begin work in the berms. This road should be ready for traffic within the month, judging from the situation as it now exists.

On the Hanover-Salem road, Contractor J. C. Cain has moved the second steam shovel in on the 4.44-mile job. Only grading and draining are and the road will be surfaced from Hanoverton to connect with the Salem-Winona road, in Butler township next year out of funds that will be provided by the sale of bonds, and as is now outlined in the road program of the county commissioners.

Pouring of concrete has been completed by Frank L. Cox who has the contract for the construction of a 22-foot bridge on the Lincoln highway at Kensington. The former "one-way" bridge has been razed, and the new structure is expected to be open to traffic before the end of October.

16 ADDITIONAL JURORS CALLED

Sixteen additional jurors have been summoned to report for duty next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The list includes:

Forest Mason, Lisbon, R. F. D.; Gus Lintner, Salineville; John J. Smith, Beloit, R. F. D. No. 2; Bernard Kenper, Sr., Frank O'Hanlon, Carlisle D. Mackall, John S. Scott, William G. Pollock and Samuel B. Burgess, all of East Liverpool; Albert Ferrall, Homer Brumgard and James Windle, Columbiana; Edith Evans, Wellsville; Clara Crist, Homeworth; Louis J. Griseb, Arthur Brian, both of Salem.

A number of jurors who have been serving on the petit jury in No. 1 court this week will be continued in service next week, when two branches of common pleas court will be in session.

Have Narrow Escape.

David Eason and Asa Hill, colored, both of Lisbon, narrowly escaped injury when a spindle on the front axle of the automobile Eason was driving broke as it was being driven across the Fort Wayne railroad crossing on the Lisbon-Salem road Wednesday night.

The front of the automobile dropped to the railroad tracks and the machine was pulled off the tracks southward just a few minutes before a fast eastbound passenger train passed over the crossing.

FIVE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Harry Hannan, a farmer of near Lisbon, and Miss Phoebe Stoudt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stoudt, of Salem, and who has been employed as a teacher, have obtained a marriage license. They were married by the Rev. P. W. Macauley, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church.

Richard Harvey Jackson and Miss Laura W. Tullis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey Tullis, both of East Liverpool, have obtained a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Cheeks, of Calcutta.

Bert Woods, a potter, of East Liverpool, and Miss Pearl Gates, also of East Liverpool, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gates, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church by the Rev. J. M. Cameron.

The same minister officiated at the wedding of Lowell J. Whinnery, of Winona, a rural mail carrier, and Miss Esther Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, fo Winona.

A marriage license has been issued to R. V. Miller, of Spencerville, O., a chemist, and Miss Ethel Unger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Unger, of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John G. Reinartz, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

ROAD PROGRAM TO BE DISCUSSED

An exhaustive explanation of the proposed road program as outlined by the county commissioners, and upon which is based the proposed issue of $950,000 bonds, will be given at a meeting of Clarkson grange the evening of October 28.

At this meeting the trustees of Middleton township will appear before the grange, and also L. H. Johnson, clerk of the county commissioners.

Maps showing the roads to be improved will be distributed at this meeting, and particular stress will be laid upon the benefits that will be derived by both Middleton and St. Clair townships.

Trustees of St. Clair township may attend this meeting as guests of the grange.

Construction of the new roads in St. Clair and Middleton townships will in time add greatly to the tax duplicate of both townships, it has been pointed out by some members of Clarkson grange, as the roads will cause considerable new building to be done in both townships.

TALE OF MIGHTY EATER OF ETAH

Old Man of the North Makes Friends With MacMillan's Party.

Washington.—This is the tale of Akkomidingwa, Old Man of the North, once a mighty hunter, and now a mighty eater and patriarch of Etah, as told by Maynard Owen Williams of the MacMillan Arctic expedition forwarded by "the machine that talks through the air," as the Eskimos call it, to the National Geographic society at Washington.

The amateur radio operator, who relayed the message, was A. W. Everest of station 1 ARE, at Pittsfield, Mass.

"Although it is known as the most northerly settlement in the world, Etah's population is unstable," the message says.

"Tupik and igloo, summer tent and winter rock house, are not always in the same location. The Eskimo, still a hunter, moves his dwellings to sea or hill according to whether he is pursuing the savage walrus or searching his stone or metal traps for blue foxes or other game. Summer or winter there are likely to be Eskimo settlements at Anoritok and other places farther north.

Not Afraid of Work.

"The dean of Etah society, by living the year round in a rock igloo at the inner break of the Etah harbor, Boomerang, enables Etah to maintain its reputation. When there was work to be done in assembling the plants, this old Eskimo chose for himself a convenient viewpoint and restricted his heavy labor to overseeing the job of paring a new back plaster whose presence was proclaimed only by his peculiar stoop.

"Akkomidingwa came to be known as Old-Crick-in-the-Back. He is father of the tribe's best hunter, Nookapingwa. The old man has staked out for himself a sitting-out job and taken into his home as partner and helpmate a seventeen-year-old girl whose industry is as unnoticeable as his own.

"As an eater, Akkomidingwa is without a peer among the Smith Sound Eskimos and he is as regular with his meals as there are meals. Acquisitive by nature, his stomach, acting as general staff of operations, looks out for itself first.

"When I first heard of him he was reputed the greatest 'bummer' and beggar among a people whose way of inviting themselves to partake of the white man's food might beget more censure were it not for the fact that when opportunity arises they are as eager to share their own as another's.

"Akkomidingwa is as clever as any of his juniors and has a real sense of humor. His head not only serves his feet and his stomach, but contains a craftiness that he is ready to place at the disposal of his friends. When a visitor wants a section of walrus tusk made into a gavel head bearing the insignia of his lodge, Akkomidingwa is the one who can do the job.

"He conceived a real friendship for Doctor Davidoff (Dr. Leo Davidoff of Boston), and in return for professional services rendered, which not only relieved the aches of age but also gave the old man a certain standing in his own community, he made a generous present for which he obstinately refused any return. Koelz also won his admiration and our ichthyologist proclaims that he has never detected a sign of the mercenary in the old man's makeup.

Weeps for Son.

"When Nookapingwa sailed with Captain Bernier for Ellesmere island on the Canadian patrol steamer, the Arctic, Akkomidingwa shed real tears, not so much at the temporary loss of his meal ticket, for Nookapingwa's caches of walrus meat will always be at his father's disposal, as at the thought that they may never meet again. Akkomidingwa, clever at keeping inside the law, is committing that unpardonable sin against the cruel North. He is getting old.

"When Akkomidingwa salvages gasoline boxes and coffee cans from the wreckage of expedition work, some of his fellows think him stingy and grasping, but it is really foresight which prompts him to gather fuel for his American cook stove, also salvaged in other years, so that his rock igloo, embellished by his youthful mate and the colorful labels from cans which to him are not entirely legendary fruits, will not be without cheer in that day when cold and hunger exact their toll and the dean of the Smith Sound Eskimos of Etah goes home; let us hope to a land where the joys of the stomach are not unknown.

"It was not mere chance that enabled Captain MacMillan to picture for geographic readers the Eskimo patriarch in the act of eating. That is one task in which Akkomidingwa, whose hard work has long since, if ever, been done, is still a leader without a peer."

MOUND REVEALS PERIOD OF PEACE

Explorers Make Important Discoveries Regarding Ancient Race.

Chillicothe, Ohio.—The autumn season with its uncertain weather conditions called a halt to the excavations in the Siep mound near Bainbridge just as archeologists announced they had made one of the greatest finds in the history of their explorations into the works of the American mound builders.

Until next spring the three-fourths of the mound which has not yet been opened will retain the secret it has held for centuries. During the winter the curators of the Ohio archeological and historical society, Columbus, will study their findings in the burial place of the "Princess of the Pearls."

Bodies to Be Arranged as Found.

The skeletons of the four supposed princes were removed from the platform on which they have long rested, preparatory to their transfer to the society's museum in Columbus. At the museum the bodies will be arranged as they were found a few days ago by H. C. Shetrone, archeological curator.

An ornament which is thought to be an instrument similar to the "pipes of pan" will be studied. If the ornament turns out to be an instrument, it will be the first time any record of the mound builders' musical inclinations has been found.

The discovery of a piece of colored cloth in the mausoleum of the four supposed princes wrote a new chapter in the endeavors of archeologists, for cloth has never before been found in the mounds. Besides the finding of the cloth, imprints of a canopy of fabric were found on the ceiling of the tomb. The intact piece of fabric was found under a copper plate beneath the skull of one of the skeletons. It bore circular designs done in colors of tan, green, black and white, it appeared. When exposed to the warm air, the fabric began to crumble, but not before artists had sketched the design and it had been photographed.

Quarts of Pearls About Bodies.

The early contention of the explorers that the four bodies had been shrouded in a fabric of pearls of varying sizes was borne out by later explorations. When the skeletons were lifted from their resting places, it was found that they had lain on a layer of small pearls, all pierced as if they had been strung or woven together. Several quarts of pearls were swept up and stored away for transportation to the museum.

Pieces of fragments of tortoise shell, etched with figures of birds and highly burnished, were uncovered with the bodies. The figure of a swan cut from tortoise shell was found. A necklace of tusks, some of which are the largest ever found in Ohio, was unearthed. There were no weapons found buried with the dead. Curator Shetrone said the absence of wespons in the tomb is another evidence that the mound builders were a peaceable people more devoted to art than other ancient races.

Bear Attacks Driver Who Knocked Him Down

Yakima, Wash.—Big game hunting by automobile is not so good, L. D. Gaines, driver of an oil truck, is convinced after an encounter he had with a black bear while on the Rimrock road in the Cascade mountains, east of here, recently.

When first seen, the animal was loping along the highway ahead of him, Gaines related. Speeding up his machine, Gaines forced the creature toward the rocks at one edge of the road. Suddenly turning, the bear sprang onto the hood of the truck, but skidded off, fell under the wheels, and lay still.

To take home proof of his prowess, Gaines returned and grasped the bear by an ear. The truck massage, however, had not killed, only dazed him, and the animal sprang up with an angry "Woof!"

At this point Gaines decided to allow the bear his life and liberty, and sped back to his machine without dignity and only a part of his trousers. The bear disappeared up a canyon.

Cricket in Cage Sings All Way From Japan

Seattle, Wash.—Penned in a tiny bamboo cage, fashioned to resemble a Japanese cottage, a diminutive cricket sang with fervor and enthusiasm all the way across the Pacific ocean. His small dwelling swung from a branch of a dwarfed pine tree, no higher than 18 inches but very old in years, and the roll of the ship gave the little pine a realistic swaying motion of the Nippon breezes.

The singing cricket arrived here on the Arizona Maru, the first consignment of a new industry on the coast. The cricket is no more than an inch long, but its voice is of great size and sweetness. They are to be sold in shops throughout the United States.

Murders in Mexico

Acapulco, Guerrero, Mex. — Statistics compiled by the office of the chief of military operations in this state show that, while the courts had light calendars, 143 persons had taken the law into their own hands and executed death sentences upon their enemies during the month of April.

Makes Melon Claim.

NEW WINCHESTER — William McCracken, local melon grower, today laid claim to raising the smallest watermelon in Ohio. The specimen, an Emerald Gem melon, weighs less than an ounce and is perfect in form. McCracken, who has raised tiny melons in previous years, claims they are very good to eat. This year's little melon looks more like a top watermelon than a real member of the cucumber family.

Youth Saves Six When Car Goes Into Lake

Armonk, N. Y.—A high school boy, seventeen years of age, was revealed as the modest hero who saved the lives of six persons—three of them children—in a sedan which was crowded off the road here and plunged into Kensico lake.

The boy is Richard Craig, a student at White Plains high school. He was in a car driven by George De Nault, champion sprinter of the high school, a few hundred feet behind the one which went off the road. Seeing the sedan go crashing through the trees down a 20-foot embankment and plunge into 12 feet of water, he jumped out of the car, stripped off his coat and dived in.

He succeeded in opening one of the doors of the submerged car and dragging the children one by one to safety. Then he took all six in his car to White Plains hospital for treatment.

Army-Navy Flyers Depend On Daily Weather Reports

Special Meteorological Service Saves Lives of Many Airmen Capital Learns.

WASHINGTON—Army and navy aviators as well as those who carry the mails through the air receive a special meteorological service from the weather bureau and this daily service has undoubtedly saved the lives of many flyers, it was learned today.

Special accommodations are provided in the forecast room of the weather bureau here for representatives of the air services of the army and navy. Telegraphic weather reports come in twice a day to the forecastr from 275 observig stations in all parts of the country and from Canada. As fast as they are received, representatives of military flying services copy on their charts any information important to aviators and telephone the route forecasts directly to certain flying fields. At times special service is asked for and received by fields undertaking some unusual flying feat.

Warned of Danger.

Conditions which are unsual or dangerous for flyers receive prompt attention at the Washington forecasting station and at each of hte other four district forecast ceters located at Chicago, New Orleans, Denver and San Francisco. Weather information, forecasts and warnings for the group of states comprised within a district are issued from these centers, always with aviation interests in mind. Direct service is given as conditions and facilities warrant. Local service is also rendered by officials at about 135 field stations of the weather bureau.

Weather bureau experts point out that it must be boren in mind that in connection with the hazards of flying that the most any meteorological service can do is to give information and warnings. They say that aviators frequently disregard warnings of approaching storms or other poor flying conditions, believing themselves competent to fly in spite of unfavorable weather, just as a ship's captain may put out to sea fully armed with knowledge of bad conditions ahead, but sure of his ability to manage his vessel nevertheless, or hoping for better conditions than those predicted.

Radio Service Supplied.

Radio service is supplied twice daily for the benefit of marine and aviation interests on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Weather bulletins and forecasts are broadcast from the naval radio station at Arlington, Va., at 10:30 a. m. and at 10:30 p. m. They consist of reports on surface conditions and upper air data based on the regular 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. observations of the Weather Bureau. These bulletins include any reports received too late for the regular morning or evening forecast and as a second feature summarize general atmospheric conditions barometric readings at "high and low centers," wind and weather forecasts for offshore areas, storm warnings and flying weather forecasts, for each of the six aviation zones. During the hurricane season additional ship reports are received by radio from the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea and distributed in connection with this service.

Detailed Forecasts Made.

Aviators flying in any of the three zones served by the special Pacific bulletins issued from the San Francisco radio station receive information about 9 a. m. on 5 o'clock observations of the same day, and at 7:30 p. m., based on 5 p. m. observations, except for those taken at Alaska, Honolulu, Guam, Manila, China and Japan at slightly diffeernt hours.

Specific and more detailed forecasts are made each morning and evening for definite flying routes, to supplement the zone forecasts distributed by radio. These route include the model airway and many routes such as Washington to Norfolk, Washington to Dayton, Ranton to Detroit. Last year arrangements weer made to provide special forecasts for the trans-continental air mail service, especially to aid night.

These forecasts are issued by the district forecasters at Chicago for two sections of the route. One is from Bryan, O., to Omaha, and the other is from Omaha to Rock Springs, Wyoming. The forecasts and weather information are made available to both East and West bound fliers at Omaha.

Danish state railways' profits are mounting rapidly.

After Darrow's Legal Laurels

William Scott Stewart, (above), youthful Chicagoan, bids fair to eclipse the fame of Clarence Darrow as a criminal lawyer. He cleared William D. Shepherd, alleged germ murderer; saved Bernard Grant from the gallows; and was the father of the insanity plea that saved Gene Geary. Now he is defending Wesley Westbrook, accused in the alleged Druggan-Lake jail delivery plot.

Man in Maine Sets Record by Breaking Into Town Prison

RUMFORD, Me.—Some men try to break out of jail; but not Thomas Kelly, of this town. He tried to break in.

"You have kept me in jail all summer and now put me there for the winter," Kelly declared, as he struck Judge James B. Stevenson, of Rumford Falls municipal court, three times, bruising the magistrate's face.

Kelly entered the judge's office and after he had made his plea to be kept in jail he committed the assault. During the past summer Kelly was arraigned before Judge Stevenson on several occasions charged with drunkenness and he spent the best part of the summer in South Paris jail for such offenses.

Accompanied only by a woman cook and a dog, Miss Frances Knowles-Foster, of England, is touring the Baltic in her fifteen-foot yacht.

FOKKER PLANE AIMS TO MEET NEED FOR LONG DISTANCE NIGHT FLYING

AMSTERDAM—M. Fokker, the famous Dutch aircraft designer, who recently returned from the United States has just given a demonstration of his new aeroplane which he has designed to meet American demands for long-distance and night flying.

The demonstration and trial flight was successful and the aeroplane was forthwith shipped to the United States as a forerunner to several which America has ordered from Fokker. The machine is a triple-engined noe, and during the test eight passengers were carried.

Each of the three engines was stopped in turn during the flight while for some considerable time the aeroplane was not under control, proving Fokker's claim that the aeroplane his inherent stability.

Plane Built on Lines Of Sea Flea Built By Paris Resident

LONDON.—A seaplane built on the lines of the strange insect known to scientists as the sea flea, which travels over the water in a series of tremendous hops, has been constructed by a Frenchman named deGasenco, in Paris.

The machine, like the insect, has two leg-like appendages with floats as feet, and de Gasenco hopes that these will propel his plane, himself and his dog in a series of giant leaps to America in ten days.

Dance Cacualty.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The "Charleston" scored a casualty here when Miss L. Brady, 20-year-old dance enthusiast, slipped on a ball room floor and broke her right wrist.

Ohio Hamlet of 67 Persons Will Sell Birthright At Fall Election

Vote on Plan to Have Town Government Dispensed With and Property Again Classed as Farm Land.

MONROE FALLS, O.—This hamlet of 67 persons will sell its birthright at the November election for a mess of pottage in the form of improvements.

The town was incorporated four years ago upon appeal to the Summit county commissioners at Akron. Not being of sufficient size to finance municipal improvements, the citizens have decided to abandon their separate government and thereby obtain road improvements at least.

Although four years old, the community has never indulged in the delights of electing municipal officials. An election will be held in November however, the ticket being put up for the purpose of voting next January to have the town government dispensed with and the property again classed as farm land.

The town is unable to improve its streets because of lack of sufficient funds. One the incorporation ceases to exist, it is expected various other improvements may be obtained in the form of public utility service.

Only one ticket has been filed for the election in November. Once the village officials are elected nad have qualified, it is expected that council will proceed to vote the town out of existence.

Friend of King Dead.

LONDON.—Once a friend of the late King Edward and a wealthy shipping magnate, Walter W. Butler has just died in poverty at the poorhouse.

He was once worth a fortune of $5,000,000, but lost it all due to post-war industrial depression.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creasote that is pleasant to take. Creomulson is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it sooths and heals the inflammed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which aid to heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

SURRENDER

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Doe Norris

CHAPTER 64.

Amoura gasped as her companion, managing at last to grasp the dog by the neck, knocking the breath out by hurling it against a tree. She could see the youth's hands were bleeding.

"Hide, hide!" he commanded hoarsely.

The men who had been trailing the dog's barks paused now, lost for the moment, and called out sharply from a short distance away. "Carlo! Carlo!" The dog, numb, heard and summoned enough strength for one more bark, accompanied by a weak lurch at his human antagonist. That was enough to set the pursuers aright, and they came toward Amoura's hiding place flashing a light.

The youth hurriedly pushed Amoura further back into the underbrush and moved from her place of concealment to brush his clothes. When the pursuers came upon him, he stood up calmly.

"What the hell's the matter with your dog, Burke? He ought to know me."

The man thus addressed eyes him suspiciously.

The youth waved a hand toward the tree. "There he is, just knocked the breath out of him, I guess." He continued to dust and arrange his clothes nonchalantly. Burke picked up the animal and petted him on the head. The suffering dog opened one eye.

The other two men, each armed, went over to look on, but kept their eyes on the youth.

Burke whirled around. "If you've killed him, I'll kill you. What were you doing in this part of the woods anyway?"

"I gues I lost my way, Burke," he answered without hesitation.

"Why weren't you around to help load the trucks?" Burke queried again, keeping his eyes upon the other in an unrelenting gaze.

"That's why. I went to town to get some cigarettes, and I lost my way coming back, I guess."

"You guess, huh?" One of the other men put in, threateningly.

"Shut up, Carl. Leave Johnson alone. Amoura, her heart pounding, heard the conversation from her concealment. So his name was Johnson! Who were these armed men? She was seized with the thought that she must flee, and looked around her for a passage. To get out any other way than the one she had come meant to push through heavy undergrowth. That would be noisy and slow. No, she must wait. But she was determined to fight until her strength was exhausted.

The dog showed signs of returning to activity. He licked his master's hand, and blinked at the firelight held on him. Then, seeing Johnson, he growled menacingly.

"Quit it, Carlo." Burke's voice stilled the dog, but did not dim the fires in the animal's eyes.

"Well, come on, fellows, time to get moving. . . . ," Bure said. Johnson followed without hesitation, as Burke turned to him and explained, "We thought that Carlo had treed a damned dry raider. . . . They'll be marching an army out here to get us one of these days, I guess."

The companion he had addressed as Carl laughed. "We'll all be rich by then. Let 'em come." Johnson laughed as loudly as the rest.

Left alone, Amoura waited for Johnson to return. She realized that he could not remain behind, and expected him to use some decive to return to her. After what seemed to her fifteen minutes, but was in reality only two or three she stirred out of her uncomfortable hiding place and stood up on the scene of Johnson's fight with the dog. It was, lucky, she thought, that Burke had continued to hold the dog, else the animal would have gone sniffing around and betrayed her.

Fearful of recapture, she decided to flee unaided, and tried to follow in the direction the men had just gone. A few minutes later she regretted her decision, for she fell over a stump, and shook the dry leaves of a dead bush, sending up a racket in the still night air. The dog resumed his barking.

The heart of Johnson, walking with the men, leaped. Burke stopped, and listened. "What the hell?" The dog fought to be released. Doubtfully Burke set him afoot and the animal dived into the brush and was off, barking, with the men following him, Johnson in the lead.

In a moment the barks ceased and all was quiet. They searched for fifteen minutes, but could find no trace of Burke's pet, and the woods yielded no evidence of the kidnaped girl to Johnson. She had vanished.

In the next chapter: The Rescue.

Danish state railways are thriving.

The Sorocabana railway of Brazil will double track its lines at a cost of $2,500,000.

New York has ten legal holidays, Glasgow has nine and London, only six, each year.

Goteborg, Sweden, will install an automatic telephone system of 12,000 lines.

Knew How to Act.

DELAWARE, O. — What happens when a man goes into a restaurant broke, orders and consumes a square meal and then explains he has no mazume with which to square accounts, was illustrated here. Three men who said they were Fred and Harry Robertson and John Wilford ate a full meal at Reese's restaurant and then informed the proprietor they could not pay their bills. He called the police. Today the trio is earning board and room by sweeping and cleaning around the police station.

Trotter's Store Celebrates Its Forty-Third Birthday

Remodeling Sale Begins in Dresden Avenue Building on Anniversary of Company's Formal Opening on Small Scale in Calcutta.

Marking the anniversary of a modest beginning in a small grocery store in Calcutta 43 years ago by J. A. Trotter, senior member of the firm, and his father, the J. A. Trotter company, hardware and implement dealers, today launched a remodeling sale in their Dresden avenue establishment.

The record of the business has been one of consistent progress from its inception until today it has grown to be an important factor in the economic life of the city. The store and its policy proved a success from the outset. It won and held the confidence of the community.

New and larger quarters were secured, and the policy of complete service to all was inaugurated. Farm implements, wagons, and vehicles, of all kinds were handled. Farm supplies were featured.

Again these quarters proved to be inadequate, and larger buildings were erected. The business continued to thrive as a general country store, until 1898, when the wiedning circle of customers and the large volume of goods being handled forced the company to seek a new location and better shipping facilities.

A three-story frame building was erected at the former location in St. Clair avenue, near the Horn switch. This central location gave ready access to a much larger territory. The old patrons followed, and new ones were added with astonishing rapidity. The reputation of the firm for prompt and efficient service causing the manufacturers in East Liverpool and surrounding towns to forward orders for factory supplies. "Trotter's" soon became known as the store that could, and would, furnish anything.

By 1910 the business had so completely outgrown the St. Clair avenue quarters that it was found necessary to enlarge still further and the site of the present home, then the Red Men's building was acquired. The old site was enlarged and remodeled and a new building on Green lane erected, giving the company four stories and a basement running from Dresden avenue to Green lane.

Five years later a large four-story warehouse on Smith street and Green lane, with switching facilities, was purchased from the Davidson Wholesale Grocers. This, together with the store building at 624 Dresden avenue, took care of the needs of the company until the development of the Chevrolet business made it necessary to provide room for that department which was done by the erection of the three-story fire-proof building just south of the Diamond, and known as the Trotter-Chevrolet building.

The continual adding of new departments has now brought about such a crowded condition that the company has decided upon a complete remodeling of its Dresden avenue store.

Italian Authorities To Preserve Famous National Retreat

ROME.—The beauty of the island of Capri, famous Bohemian retreat across the bay from Naple, will henceforth be preserved by law.

Italian authorities have decided that the whole of the island shall be considered territory to which the law concerning the preservation of natural beauty spots shall apply. New building will be severaly controlled. Not a tree or a hedge can be planted without official sanction.

Frames Kidnaping to Deceive Unloved Fiance

Detroit, Mich.—So that she might marry a suitor other than the one to whom she had been promised by her mother, Rose Trentacosta, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sophie Trentacosta, was "kidnaped" from her home with consent and through connivance of her mother.

This, the police theory of the kidnaping, has been confirmed by a special delivery letter from the girl, in which she requests the police to forget it," and by the admission of Mrs. Trentacosta to two detectives that she planned the affair for her daughter.

Lieut. Edward Dadtke and Detective John Davies of the blackhand squad, who investigated the "kidnaping," reported that Mrs. Trentacosta admitted the "frame-up."

Rose was engaged to Tony Manaici. But Peter Vitale came and to Rose and her mother his offer of marriage seemed more advantageous than Tony's.

One day they sat down with Peter and arranged that he and three of his friends should kidnap Rose. In this way Tony was deceived.

Cites Her Plainness to Prove Innocence

New York. — Lack of feminine charms was advanced by Mrs. Cora M. Dorian in Supreme court as one reason her husband's charge of unfaithfulness should not be believed, when she asked Justice Walsh through her attorney not to set aside the alimony awarded to her when she won a separation from her husband.

"I am forty-nine years of age, I am five feet two inches in height, and I weigh 140 pounds," her affidavit to Justice Walsh read. "I have defective eyesight, wear glasses and am slightly deaf. I confess I am not comely to look upon."

Justice Walsh decided her husband must continue to support her until he can prove in court the charge upon which he bases his divorce suit.

Mrs. Dorian was awarded $45 a week alimony. Dr. John S. Dorian, the husband, charges that, July 17, when he and two others broke into her apartment, she was found with another man.

When You Put Your Money In Real Estate—

INVEST

DON'T GAMBLE!

FISHER PARK
IS 100% SAFE
REAL ESTATE

THE DAY of speculation in real estate is rapidly disappearing. Real Estate investors today know if they follow certain fundamental rules governing realty investment, the safety of their money is never in doubt and the amount of their profit depends entirely upon time.

HERE ARE the investment fundamentals: Buy vacant land rightly located, on main traffic highways, adjoining other developments,—land that is improved and restricted, land that is NEEDED and for which a use exists. Buy that land at the RIGHT PRICE.

FISHER PARK possesses every qualification for SAFE and PROFITABLE investment. Thus it is good property to buy and if you will read Roger Babson's advice to realty investors you will find that FISHER PARK in every detail answers his description of a superlatively good investment.

DON'T GAMBLE—Invest. Invest in your own city, where you can watch your investment and where you are thoroughly familiar with general business conditions, community growth, etc., and where you can study other values.

START NOW to think seriously about FISHER PARK. Here is a new residential district rising under your own eyes. VALUE is there, and NEW value is coming constantly. Attractive payment plan makes it possible for you to buy without sacrifice.

Captures Bald Eagle.

Japanese in America Unable to Find Girls Who Will Marry Them

TOKYO—The biggest hardship suffered by Japanese in the United States, according to J. Arima, publisher of the Hokubei Jiji, a Japanese newspaper in Seattle, is their inability to find brides.

"One-third of the Japanese in America are unmarried," Arima said on his arrival in Japan on a visit. "American women do not care to marry Japanese and even when they do happiness results in few cases.

"German and Scandinavian women are good for Japanese to marry, but the trouble is these women are seldom found. The best foreign women for Japanese to marry are Mexicans. They have many similarities and many pretty women are found among them. Many Filipinos are in America but their women are not easily admitted to the United States.

"The Japanese, therefore, have two alternatives; to remain unmarried forever or to return to Japan."

MARINELLO

We are doing big business in the Marinello line for most women know the products and want them in a hurry. Our Sixth Street Store carries a full line of Marinello, arranged for quick service.

RADIO

Our Radio Store is on St. Clair Ave., next to Central Fire Station. There you will find tested sets, tested tubes, tested batteries, etc. The radio store handles no "Gyp" tubes or batteries. It will pay you to buy radio sets and supplies where radio is not a side line.

Dangler Stove Demonstration

PERFORMANCE COUNTS. SEE THE COOKING DEMONSTRATION OF THE DANGLER GAS RANGE WITH LORAIN HEAT REGULATOR

SATURDAY

THEN TRADE YOUR OLD STOVE IN ON A NEW ONE.

1. Owners of Lorain-equipped Gas Ranges Like to Bake.

2. Because the Red Wheel Makes Baking a Pleasure.

3. The Red Wheel Gives Women More Leisure.

Unless the Regulator has a RED WHEEL it is NOT a LORAIN.

Never a Baking-failure!

NEVER a baking-failure! What fairy could make this come true for you—every day of the year? And yet, perpetual cooking-success can be made a fact, for YOU, not by fairies, but by the magic of a certain RED WHEEL that you'll find on the DANGLER Gas Range.

A single adjustment of this RED WHEEL and the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator will maintain automatically the temperature you select as best suited for the baking of the particular food or foods you place in the oven.

Perfect Baking, Whole Meal Oven Cooking, Lorain Oven Canning—there's no worry after you've once "set" the RED WHEEL! So why waste your time, strength and money fussing with an old-fashioned stove, when a Lorain-equipped DANGLER Gas Range will perform these wonders for you and thus pay for itself.

DANGLER Gas Ranges are good bakers because the heat is distributed evenly to all parts of the oven. Dangler ovens are extra deep and have proper ventilation. Valves are in front, ovens and broilers are high enough to prevent stooping. The Dangler is neat, durable and easy to keep clean. There is a variety of sizes and styles to fit all needs.

4. The Red Wheel Insures Perfect Results—ALWAYS.

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

Be sure the range you buy has a RED WHEEL. Otherwise it will not be equipped with the Lorain—the ORIGINAL Oven Heat Regulator, and the only Regulator made and guaranteed by the same company that manufactures the stoves of which it is a part.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Eat If Tired or Upset for Food Won't Digest

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago I scolded you for eating the wrong kinds of foods. Today I want to warn you about when and how you should eat the right kind of foods.

The point is, you can select exactly the right things and eat them in the wrong way. This is just as bad as to make a playhouse of your stomach dumping into it many morsels which are all but poisonous to your particular system.

Even though you sit down to a table upon which are well-selected and perfectly cooked foods, it may be you should not be there at all. Certainly you should not be if you are all worn out and ready to drop from your chair.

Nobody should eat if he is suffering from great fatigue. At least while in this state, he should not crowd his stomach with heavy foods. A cup of clam or beef broth, or other thin, not soup may be taken but until there has been a period of rest it is unwise to eat heartily.

To eat when tired out is just as bad as to bolt a meal, and that is inexcusable. To eat when under powerful emotion—fear, grief, pain—is a mistake. Weeping and good digestion do not travel together.

City folks, especially business people, eat their lunches under bad conditions. The "quick lunch" place is not conducive to perfect digestion. You call for a sandwich, a cup of strong coffee and a piece of apple pie with cheese. In three minutes and thirty seconds you have your check and are on the way to the cashier's desk.

That isn't the only place you are on your way to—you are on your way to an early grave.

I heard a famous orator the other day. He spoke of a certain bad habit as one which is likely to shorten life. "What of it?" he said. "We have to die anyway."

Perhaps you don't care if you are on the way to an early grave. If you are indifferent, then you can continue to bolt your food and make the undertaker smile. But if you prize life, perfect digestion and good health, you should give thought to your eating habits.

Leisurely eating, in a comfortable place, with good company, will promote digestion. If you are happy and enjoy the meal, you are pretty sure to have the co-operation of your stomach and intestinal tract.

To prepare the food properly you must have good teeth. Dental care is important, not only to your good looks, but to your good health.

One last word—don't let the joy of the meal, the appeal of its excellence, and your insistent palate lead you into the fault of overeating. Temperance in the use of the plate is just as important as in the use of the glass.

Answers to Health Questions

MISS D. Z. Q.—I am 25 and am 5 feet tall. What should I weigh?
2.—What will create an appetite?
3.—How can I get rid of pimples?

A.—You should weigh about 108 pounds.

2.—Plenty of outdoor exercise, water between meals and general good health will all make it unnecessary to look for further means to create an appetite.

3.—By being careful of the diet and being sure to overcome poor intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

J. R. Q.—What causes a ringing in the ears and where can I go for treatment?

A.—This is usually due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear. Apply at one of the hospital clinics and they will help you.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicine, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S. Copeland in care of this office.

Brothers Pass Daily On Passenger Trains But do Not Speak

LONDON — William and Harry Dean, brothers, although working on the same railroad and passing each other once a day, have not seen each other for 16 years.

They are both restaurant conductors on the Irish mail trains between London and Holyhead. William leaves Holywood in the morning, while Harry leaves London in the afternoon, and their respective trains pass, and have passed, each other for the past 16 years, at a point in South Wales. William then sleeps in London and Harry in Holyhead, and the next day each sets off again. It seems unlikely that the brothers, who take their vacations at different times of the year, will ever meet.

Benanas were sold in Panama for less than eighty cents a bunch this year.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS FAIR

Record breaking crowd attended the Burgettstown fair yesterday which was the closing day. People were present from several western Pennsylvania counties, Panhandle district of West Virginia and eastern Ohio. The spirited racing card proved one of the principal features.

SOCCER TEAM TO MEET BUHL CLUB

Homer Laughlin China soccer team is scheduled to meet the Buhl club at Sharon tomorrow afternoon. The team will leave at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Plans are going forward for the opening game on the Newell grounds with New Castle on Saturday, October 17. Preparations are being made to handle the large crowd which is expected to witness the contest.

COVE POSTOFFICE TO BE ENLARGED

The United States government is seeking to secure larger quarters for the postoffice of Hollidays Cove. The government is advertising for proposals which may be submitted up to and including Nov. 30, providing for furnishing suitable quarters for the postoffice. The proposals will include in addition to the room or building, light, heat, water, toilet facilities and all necessary furnishings and toilet equipment, the lease to run for a period of five to ten years from March 15, 1926, at a stated sum per annum. The new quarters must provide a space of at least 1,050 square feet or two and one-half times as large as the present quarters. The proposals also include the postoffice boxes, mail boxes and fixtures of every kind. This means not only new and larger quarters but such equipment as will permit the public to be conveniently served, the present quarters being entirely inadequate to meet demands made upon it.

To Attend Lodge Meet.

Hancock county will be largely represented at the state convention of Odd Fellows which opens next Monday at Fairmont. The sessions will cover a period of three days. Convention of Rebekahs will be held at the same time.

Drilling Closes.

Drilling operations which have been in progress in various parts of the county during the summer months have practically come to a close. During the warm months several large gassers were struck while some leases yielded a quantity of oil.

Many Attend Social.

Large number of people attended the box social held last evening in the Washington school building. Proceeds will be used in purchasing equipment for the school. Miss Mabel Mosser is the teacher.

Lodge Meeting Tonight.

Routine business will be transacted this evening at this meeting of Clark lodge No. 447, I. O. O. F., to be held in the Odd Fellows' hall.

You can almost feel RHEUMATISM disappear!

THAT miserable ache from inflamed, swollen muscles — GONE! Rheumatism conquered! Driven right out of the system—simply by building rich, red blood.

Sounds almost incredible—but it's true! You see, rheumatism, as it is called, that cripples you up and tortures you night and day, is caused by impurities in the system. Weak, impoverished blood can't throw off these impurities—so rheumatism remains.

S. S. S. helps Nature build back your blood to fighting strength—builds red-blood-cells by the millions! Red blood purifies the system — rheumatism is driven right out.

Get this wonderful relief yourself! Thousands are doing it! S. S. S. has been stopping rheumatism by building up red cells in the blood for generations. It will do the same for you.

S. S. S. also cleanses your skin of blemishes—increases your appetite—puts power and strength and energy in your body. Get S. S. S. today from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.
